Manson Girl Held In Bid to Kill Ford

THE LADY IN RED, Lynnette Fromme, taken into custody after assassination bid today in Sacramento.

Times News Services

SACRAMENTO — A woman member of the Charles Manson family aimed a loaded pistol at President Ford today, but a Secret Service agent threw her to the ground before she could fire at point-blank range.

The president flinched away. He was unhurt.

The incident occurred about an hour before Ford was to address a joint session of the California legislature on crime and gun control. Afterwards, the president was hustled inside the capitol.

White House press secretary Nessen identified the woman as Lynette Fromme, 27. She is known as "Squeaky."

Nessen said the gun was about two feet from Ford.

He said Larry Buendrof, a Secret Service agent walking behind the president, "saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd." There was a gun in the hand.

"It was established that the gun was a .45 calibre pistol and it was loaded," Nessen said.

A witness to the incident said she heard no click that would have indicated the woman pulled the trigger.

Another witness, Roy Miller, said that as Miss Fromme was wrestled to the ground and handcuffed she cried:

"Don't worry. It didn't go off, fellows, it didn't go off."

Another eyewitness said he saw the woman standing along Ford's route.

"She looked very calm," he said.

"He was taking the hand of the person next to her and then went over to shake her hand. And he saw this gun — the gun is what he saw. I think the President saw the gun before anyone — he saw the gun first and he put his hand up and he hunched over."

UPI staffer Carl Ingram said Ford's face "went black with shock or surprise. He didn't seem to comprehend what was going on."

The woman was led away from the scene by police within a few minutes.

Before that, she shouted, "He's not your servant" in reference to Ford.

Observers said that 20 minutes before the incident, the woman, dressed in red and carrying a large red purse, wandered onto the concrete walkway in the palm tree-lined garden surrounding the Capitol. Police moved her back behind the restraining lines.

After she was subdued, three police officers pushed her into the back seat of a city police cruiser and whisked her to the nearby Hall of Justice.

As the car drove away, the woman had a faint smile on her face and appeared calm.

An hour and a half after the assassination attempt, an unidentified woman called the San Francisco bureau of UPI and said there was a bomb planted in the legislature where Ford was speaking. The call was treated as a hoax.

B.C.'s ECONOMY

Landlords Want 28%

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chairman of the British Columbia Rent Review Commission says that B.C. landlords are suggesting rent increases of 28 per cent a year be allowed for the next five years.

John Brewin said Thursday that the proposed figures are contained in a brief from the B.C. Rental Housing Council that was received this week by the government's special task force on rent controls.

He told city council's housing committee that rent increases of 28 per cent a year for the next five years are what landlords feel would be necessary to bring rents on existing buildings close to the level of those in new buildings.

In order to reduce the impact of such increases, Brewin said, the landlords' association is proposing that quarterly rent increases be permitted.

He said, however, that such increases are unacceptable to the government's commission.

He said they would put "tremendous hardship on people" and still not guarantee the construction of any new rental units.

Average rents on one-bedroom apartments now range from $180 to $200, said Brewin, but the cost of new apartment buildings requires a rent of about $350 and this will be up to more than $400 in five years.

Brewin said the government task force, which involves the rent review commission and the housing department, plans to make its report to the government at the end of this month, with new legislation on rent controls to be introduced at the fall session of the legislature.

He indicated the report will recommend a continuation of rent controls, but probably in a more flexible form. He described the current 10.6-per-cent limit on rent increases as "administratively simple, but unfair."

Wage Hikes Jump Ahead

CHILLIWACK, (CP) — Wage settlements in British Columbia are staying ahead of inflation by more than seven per cent, William M. Hamilton, president of the Employer's Council of B.C., said here Thursday.

Hamilton, addressing the Kiwanis Club, said remarks made recently by Len Guy, the secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, in a labor day address were misleading.

Guy had said that workers in the province "would not be seeking such high wage increases if the inflation rate was lower" and that the "prevailing mood in the trade union movement is one of grim determination to see that wages catch up and stay in front of increases in the cost of living."

"The department of labor has just released wage settlement figures for the first and second quarters of this year (and) . . . the average annual increase granted was 18.9 per cent," said Hamilton. "The Vancouver consumer price index figure for July, the most recent available, has that rising at 11.4 per cent."

Hamilton said the figures show that wages here have kept ahead and are continuing to keep ahead of the cost of living in 1975.

"British Columbia is already the highest wage area in Canada," said Hamilton noting that last September, the average weekly wage in Canada was $184.37 but was $211.00 in B.C.; in June of this year, the national average weekly wage was 202.69 and in B.C. it was $231.65.

"This year's increases of 18.9 per cent have been far in excess of our capacity to pay and still remain competitive in international markets," he said.

"Having an export-oriented economic base, B.C. industry is dependent upon foreign markets for a large part of its products. But when the products become so expensive in relation to other countries' products, they simply will not be bought.

"The monetary gains won by the workers in those industries turn into fool's gold (if their products cannot be sold — they look great on paper, but they certainly aren't worth very much when a person is laid off because of lack of work."

IWA Talk Plan Irks Pulpmen

Spokesmen for two striking pulp unions have reacted angrily to Thursday's decision by the International Woodworkers of America to seek new contract talks with the forest industry.

And the IWA has been told again by the industry that it can't expect improvements in the contract already offered.

An IWA spokesman said the union's negotiating committee doesn't believe a strike at this time would be useful.

But the leaders of the two pulp unions already on strike disagreed in separate interviews after the IWA's position was announced.

Art Gruntman of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, interviewed by telephone from Edmonton, said he can't understand the IWA's position.

And Reg Ginn of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of America said the IWA should "get its head screwed on right" and the industry will increase proposals made in a report by Mr. Justice Henry Hutcheon of the B.C. Supreme Court only after the IWA goes on strike.

Don Lanskail, president of Forest Industrial Relations, which negotiates for the industry, said he is prepared at any time to meet IWA negotiators to clarify parts of the non-binding report, but not to improve on recommendations.

The IWA spokesman, in a prepared statement, quoted union regional head Jack Munro as saying a strike by the union, whose membership is already generally unem-

Airline Cuts Flights

Times News Services

MONTREAL — Air Canada said Thursday it will drop one daily flight linking Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver and one daily non-stop daily flight between Vancouver and Regina, as part of a general reduction in service.

The airline announced a cutback of about 96 flights a week on domestic and international routes, effective Monday, because of declining passenger traffic.

"You could say we're cutting out the frills," an Air Canada spokesman said today.

The cutbacks on 10 routes constitute less than three per cent of total flights, the airline said.

A lower than expected growth in the volume of passenger traffic caused the cutback.

Dropped will be flight 147, a daily flight linking Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver involving 14 flights a week.

Also to be dropped is flight 232, a daily afternoon flight between Vancouver and Regina, bringing that service to two from three daily; flight 213, a non-stop run from London to Winnipeg, leaving four flights via Toronto; and a mid-morning daily, flight 600, Toronto to Halifax.

Not mentioned in the Air Canada announcement was the cancellation of a daily flight from Toronto to North Bay, number 761.

In trans-border flights, one of two daily flights from Edmonton and Calgary to San Francisco, the evening flight 769, will be cancelled. Flight 760 between Quebec City-New York has been cancelled Monday to Thursday, while Montreal and Toronto to Los Angeles will lose one of two daily flights, number 793.

In overseas flights, one of two runs a week from Toronto to Brussels and Copenhagen and another from Montreal to those destinations is being dropped.

A Tuesday flight to Barbados and Port of Spain, Trinidad, from Toronto and Montreal, will be cancelled, and two or three Saturday flights between Montreal, Toronto and Barbados will also be dropped.

MacMillan Bloedel Facing First Loss

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. told its shareholders Thursday it is "quite possible" it will lose money this year. The loss would be the first in the history of Canada's largest forest firm.

The warning, in a letter from George B. Currie, chairman and chief financial officer, said the possibilty of a loss stems from continuing labor strife, the disappointing rate of recovery of the U.S. economy and anticipated transport losses.

Profits for MB, which reached $81.7 million in 1973 and $72.2 million in 1974, were only $19.8 million in the first half of 1975, reflecting both the bad market for company products and the first writeoffs associated with loss on shipping activities.

MB has already eliminated dividend payment for the third quarter after earlier reducing them to 15 cents per share.

Profits of many other B.C. forest firms have fallen sharply this year. Industry observers believe a number could show losses, at least for the third quarter if not for the complete year.

Currie said MB was intensifying efforts to effect "the closest kind of cost control," all MB departments had been ordered to cut their budgets by 10 per cent.

Latest Terror Bomb Rips London's Hilton

Times News Service

LONDON — A bomb exploded in the lobby of the plush London Hilton hotel today, killing two people and injuring at least 50.

Four of the wounded are in serious condition with two of them reported to have lost limbs.

Police suspect the bomb was planted by a breakaway faction of the Irish Republican Army, believed responsible for a series of terrorist blasts in the London area in recent weeks.

An anonymous caller with an Irish accent telephoned Associated Newspapers, publishers of the Daily Mail and London Evening News, shortly before the blast at the hotel which is only 600 yards from Buckingham Palace.

The explosion, coming at the start of the lunch hour, smashed through the front end side of the hotel and left the lobby spattered with blood, injured bodies and smoking carpet.

"One minute the lobby was normal and then there was this almighty explosion," said Anthony Peters, who was working at an airline desk in the lobby.

A chef working in the kitchens at the top of the 28-storey hotel said there was a "terrific explosion which shook the whole building.

The blast knocked out windows on all three sides of the Y-shaped hotel, the most prominent building along fashionable Park Lane and a favorite of tourists.

In Ulster, meanwhile, Guerrillas bombed a tavern and wounded at least eight people late Thursday night.

Mainland Supermarkets Close Doors

Supermarkets remained open on Vancouver Island today but 125 stores in the Lower Mainland closed because of a lockout.

The B.C. Food Industry Labor Relations Council instituted the mainland lockout because unions involved in a contract dispute did not reply to a company ultimatum by 4 p.m. Thursday.

The council had warned it would lock out retail clerks thereby closing supermarkets, if the unions did not agree to provide the council with 72 hours notice of any picket action so markets wouldn't be caught with perishable goods on shelves.

The 125 stores involved in the dispute are mainly Safeway and Super Valu stores with a smaller number of Sfongs, company-owned IGA, Hi-Low, Shop-Easy and Overwaitea stores.

In Greater Victoria, however, 10 Safeway and five Super Valu stores were open because the only strike or lockout notice that has been given is lockout notice to bakers who are off work at the only in-plant bakery here, the Safeway at Fort and Foul Bay.

"We have not done anything since then," a Safeway spokesman said today. "We are just carrying on."

Six other supermarkets on the Island that have in-plant bakeries, including stores in Campbell River, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Duncan, remain open except for their bakery operations.

The unions — bakers, meatcutters and retail clerks — have rejected an industry offer of $1.30 an hour in contracts of just under a year. The proposal would have increased base rates to $7.95 an hour for meatcutters, $7.25 an hour for clerks and $8.41 an hour for bakers.

The food council said original demands of the unions would have produced annual salaries of $16,536 for clerk cashiers, $19,240 for meatwrappers, $21,112 for meatcutters and $18,964 for bakery workers, an increase in wages and fringe benefits of 70.2 per cent.

The food council's proposals would produce annual salaries of $15,080 for clerks, $16,536 for meatcutters and $17,492 for bakers.

Current rates are $6.65 an hour for meatcutters, $5.95 an hour for clerks and $6.92 an hour for bakers. The council said annual salaries are about $13,832, $10,920 and $12,607 respectively.

The food industry council said Thursday binding arbitration would be acceptable to settle the dispute.

Bill Macdonald of Vancouver, spokesman for the council, said the employers' group agrees with a call by the federal food prices review board for provincial government intervention in the dispute.

"The (provincial) government should appoint an arbitrator who will decide in the public interest what is a fair

CITY ABOLISHES WITCHES, GOBLINS

WASHINGTON (WP) — With an official declaration that bands of youngsters trick or treating on All Hallows Eve have become "an annual nuisance" the city of Cumberland, Md., has abolished the Halloween tradition.

Not only have the tradition youthful pranks that normally accompany the night of Oct. 31 become a problem, the council said, but adult retaliation has also become a hazard for trick-or-treaters.

"I don't know what it is," Cumberland councilman Frank Trozzo said Thursday, "but people have become really destructive. We've had them poison the treats the kids get when they come to the door and put razor blades in apples. Everyone seemed to enjoy Halloween in the past. Maybe they just got tired of listening to the doorbell ring so much."

REALLY UP THE POLE

HALIFAX (CP) — The Great Flagpole Debate, which has many people here worried, is a lot of rot.

The city boasts the tallest wooden flagpole in the Commonwealth, a 120-foot British Columbia fir given to the people of Nova Scotia by the Canadian Pacific Railway and erected in front of city hall.

A plaque on the pole says it was installed in 1949 but records say it was 1947.

About 76 feet above the ground, some kind of rot has set in which affects the next 17 feet of wood. What to do?

The steeplejack who paints it says he will not climb the pole again until somebody does something.

City staff has been asked to consider cutting off the rotted section and it is said this would give Halifax the shortest wooden flagpole in the Commonwealth.

But elaborate rigging for the flag would have to be altered and this could be costly.

Threat Chases Tories

TORONTO (CP) — The downtown headquarters of the Progressive Conservative party was evacuated around noon today after a telephoned bomb threat. About 65 party organizers and personnel evacuated the headquarters, on the sixth floor of an office building, after police received the telephone threat.

Canada Bounces Terrorist

OTTAWA (CP) — A young man who claimed membership in the terrorist Japanese Red Army group was deported Sunday by immigration officials, a government spokesman said Thursday.

Yashamasa Gyoja, about 30, was returned to Japan under escort after he told Quebec City immigration officials that he was a member of the terrorist organization.

He said at a special immigration inquiry that he used false documents to gain entry to Canada, officials reported.

An immigration department spokesman said in an interview Thursday that the man did not say why he was in Canada.

"He was a bit difficult to deal with."

Gyoja was apprehended Aug. 22 by immigration officers at Phillipsburg, Que., after he was refused entry to the United States "and bounced back to Canada."

The spokesman said Gyoja did not have any proof of identification with him when he was picked up by Canadian immigration authorities "and we had to bring a number of networks into play in order to make positive identification."

Aspirin, Pregnancy Dangers?

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Women who take aspirin regularly during pregnancy suffer a high rate of complications such as bleeding and infection and put their babies in danger of death, according to a new report by two Australian doctors.

Among 63 daily aspirin users — women who took two to 12 aspirin doses a day — four had stillbirths and one baby died after birth.

This compared with no deaths at all among the babies of 63 comparable non-aspirin users, the study said.

Among 83 women who took aspirin less often but at least once a week, one stillbirth and three newborn deaths occurred.

Based on similar studies, it was learned Thursday, a U.S. Food and Drug Administration advisory panel is preparing to recommend that a warning against unprescribed use in pregnancy be placed on every aspirin bottle.

In another interview, Dr. Reba Hill of Baylor University in Houston said her study of 300 pregnant women has shown that 64 per cent of them took analgesic or pain-relieving agents during pregnancy — most of them unprescribed, most of them containing aspirin and most of them throughout pregnancy.

"This is a very large number," she said. "And these were middle and upper-class women, not uneducated women.

"I'm afraid we're living in a drug-oriented society where there's supposed to be a pill to relieve every pain. And most people don't consider anything they can buy across the counter as a drug."

She called the Australian study — published in the Aug. 23 issue of the British medical journal Lancet — "important, because it shows that anyone taking excessive quantities of aspirin can certainly damage their babies."

ONE FEATURE of this year's Victoria Times Public Parks tennis tournament finals Saturday at Henderson Park is the "Battle of the Mayors" between Peter Pollen of Victoria and Brian Smith of Oak Bay. That match is at 1 p.m. after the boys' and girls' finals at noon. The men's and women's finals follow the Battle of the Mayors and begin at 2 p.m. Exhibition singles and doubles matches inyolving three local players and British pros Mark Cox and Richard Lewis start about 3 p.m.

VICTOR CAN'T MAKE UP MIND

PORT WASHINGTON — Ninety-year-old Victor Menzies hasn't yet made up his mind whether to take part again in the annual Sept. 20 Pender Island Walkathon.

Last year he won the trophy for being the oldest walker in the grueling 14-mile up and down hill walk held to raise funds for school activities.

"You know, my legs are getting wobbly," he confessed. "But I may enter yet or let someone else win the trophy."

Last year he finished the course in about six hours, but he admits it was a bit tiring and he had to rest on several occasions.

WHY MEN WON'T SEEK HELP

Many men won't admit they have a problem. They're trapped — in jobs they don't like, or in cold, empty marriages, losing contact with their children. Most men are too proud of their masculinity to admit failure. But in expecting men to always be strong, and never show the weaknesses that all of us possess, we put a terrible burden on them. Learn how you can lessen that burden — and help someone who is endangering his emotional and mental health. Read WHY MEN WON'T SEEK HELP. $1.5M GAS SCHEME

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Reserve Oil and Gas Ltd. will build a $1.5 million gas gathering system in northern British Columbia as a result of hgiher natural gas prices announced last week by the B.C. Energy Commission.

"With an improved economic climate in this province the company will proceed with its plans to install a $1.5 million gas gathering, dehydration and water disposal system to connect existing gas wells . . . for gas sales," the company says in its six-month shareholders report.

The company said the project was put off during the first half of 1975 because of the Nov. 18 federal budget which increased taxes on natural gas production.

ployed, would put no further pressure on the companies.

"Munro added the employers are the only people who can make the report acceptable to the IWA membership and they should recognize that fact," said the spkesman.

Both sides said no meeting had been scheduled by noon today.

In Kelowna today, IWA business agent Jack Welder branded as "an outright lie" a new report Thursday which quoted him as saying IWA members in his region had been instructed to cross picket lines if they are set up by striking pulp workers.

IWA members have been told exactly the opposite, he said, and will respect picket lines leaving it to any companies picketed to determine through the courts if the picket lines are legal.

The shutdown of the industry continued Thursday.

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., the Vancouver-based integrated leader in the industry, reported all but 300 of 15,000 hourly-paid workers were either on strike or laid off.

And FIR vice-president Keith Bennett said today 80 to 85 per cent of the logging and wood production mills are idle, although Ginn said Thursday the unions will not be picketing independent firms—their battle is with the multi-national, integrated companies.

GRANNIES BASHED

LONDON (AP) — Child-battering and wife-beating have been well publicized, but it is time the public realized that some people beat their grannies, Dr. Geoffrey Burston writes in the British Medical Journal.

"One wonders how many of the elderly who 'fall down frequently' do so because they are assaulted," he says.

Beat Me When I'm Bad —Wife

EDMONTON (CP) — A man told a provincial court it was okay for him to beat his wife with a belt because she had signed a written agreement to permit it.

Court was told the woman's arms and legs were tied and she was beaten with a belt, producing welts on her thighs.

The man produced a handwritten document which he said his wife had signed, giving him permission to strap her if she lost her senses.

Part of the agreement read: "... if I go off the deep end getting mad and losing my senses, I allow him to give me a good strapping with his belt to make me come to my senses regardless of blue marks caused thereby.'

L.I.P. Grants Announced

Esquimalt-Saanich federal constituency will receive $804,000 in Local Initiatives Project grant money this year, about double last year's, Canada Manpower manager Stan Purdy said today.

Another $954,000 in LIP money has been allocated to Victoria constituency, part of $18 million earmarked for British Columbia this year, he said.

Deadline for applications for LIP grants is Sept. 12, not Oct. 7 as was reported in Thursday's Times.

Projects last 30 weeks starting between Nov. 3 and Jan. 31.

Air Crash Kills 4

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Four people were killed this morning in an air collision near the Chilliwack airport.

Language Row Shuts 11 Quebec Schools

MONTREAL (CP) — A suburban Montreal school commission decided Thursday to close 11 elementary schools today amid a growing conflict over student admission to English language schools under the province's language law.

A spokesman for the Jerome Le Rover School Commission said the schools will be closed until Monday to give school authorities time "to straighten everything out.'

Parents kept their children home in protest over a commission not to allow them to attend English-language schools although more than 80 per cent of those rejected has passed language proficiency tests.

The dispute involved the commission's interpretation of Quebec's Official Languages Act, commonly known as Bill 22, which requires children whose mother tongue is not English to pass proficiency tests in order to qualify for English-language instruction.

Originally, only 74 of 400 children who passed the proficiency tests were to be admitted to the commission's English-language schools.

Education Minister Jerome Chaquette said his department would not intervene. But after meeting with department officials, the comission has decided to admit 221 more students.

Meanwhile, two Montreal school commissions—the Quebec Protestant School Board of Montreal and the Montreal Catholic School Commission—announced Thursday they could accept children refused by the Le Royer commission if they pass language proficiency tests.

A spokesman for the Montreal Catholic School Commission said it could accept as many as 5,000 students refused admittance elsewhere.

The Montreal Catholic School Commission has announced that of 4,374 children who applied to its English schools this year, 3,307 were accepted while more than 1,000 were channelled into French schools.

Meanwhile, the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards (QAPSB) launched a legal challenge in Quebec Superior Court to clauses in the legislation.

Robert Stock, lawyer for the QAPSB representing 10 regional Protestant school boards, said it was "the only alternative left" because of the federal government's refusal to intervene.

Chilean Ties Blasted

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A bomb exploded today in a restroom in the Kennecott Building. Two persons, identifying themselves as members of the "Weather Underground," said the blast was in response to Kennecott's ties to Chile. The explosion came six days before the second anniversary of Chilean President Salvador Allende who died Sept. 11, 1973 during a military-led coup.

and reasonable settlement," he said.

If the unions reject arbitration, he said, the food council would accept the services of a government appointee with power to call immediate meetings and make recommendations which are fair and reasonable to industry employees and also are in the public interest.

George Johnston, spokesman for the meatcutters, said the trade union movement is "unalterably opposed" to any compulsion of any kind in collective bargaining and there is "no way the union will go against trade union policy."

In locking out its workers, he said, the food industry council has achieved its "ultimate objective" of closing retail operations during the dispute.

Macdonald said the supermarkets are showing their sensitivity by proceeding with their lockout.

"We have warned the consumers that the only way we could meet the union demands would be by passing on the costs in the form of higher food prices," he said.

"Because we are sensitive to the consumer interest, we would rather close our doors than give in to the excessive union wage demands."

the weather

An area of high pressure will keep skies generally clear and maintain a warming trend in southern B.C. through at least Saturday. In the meantime moist Pacific air will continue to flow across central and northern regions of the province. Consequently periodic rains are expected to persist over the Queen Charlottes and in the northern half of the interior.

A-G Lobbies UN Crime Summit

By DAVID McDONALD
Special to The Times

GENEVA — Unable to speak in the public sessions of the United Nations Crime Congress, British Columbia's Attorney-General Alex Macdonald has been haunting the corridors to put to delegates his own special concern about extradition laws.

He wants new agreements on extradition to include provision for dealing with cases of what he calls "child kidnapping" of which his own province has had some sensational examples in recent months.

Such treaties fall within federal jurisdiction and he has put his requst to federal authorities representing Canada at the congress. But, he also has been putting his concern directly to other national delegations. He does this in the corridors because he is not an official member of the Canadian delegation, but is attending in an individual capacity.

"We have many new Canadians from various countries and, when there is trouble between husband and wife, it often happens that the man will take off for his home country with the child or children.

"In this situtiion, court orders avail nothing. We have tried working through Canadian missions or directly with governments, but it doesn't help. There is no legal way to enforce return of the children.

"What could do it would be an expansion of extradition agreements between Canada and other countries to include this act of removing children in defiance of custody orders. Ignoring such an order is the equivalent of kidnapping children and we should have some way of reacting in the country to which they are taken."

He said he was finding the congress "rather frustrating" because of many "bland statements" going unchallenged.

"For instance," he said, "Many of the totalitarian states are saying they have no crime in their countries and they need jails only for Western visitors. Somebody should stand up and challenge this sort of thing but everyone is too polite here."

He feels Canadians could learn from the simpler judicial systems used in the third world.

"We have an elaborate, heavily bureaucratic procedure of justice. Our jail system is lousy. They are schools for crime rather than anything else. Canada has intricate, expensive and delay-prone systems for solving disputes.

"The Third world, by contrast, has many interesting ideas for solving disputes between people quickly and cheaply, without elaborate bureaucracy. We can learn from them."

In Victoria today deputy attorney-general Dave Vickers said he didn't know of any "sensational" cases but there have been incidents of separated parents leaving the country with their children.

He cited an example of a Vancouver man who took a child to California without telling his wife and a man who had visiting rights with his child and took him away to Portugal.

In both cases the government has been unable to bring the children back to B.C.

Vickers said the problem is one of trying to establish reciprocal enforcement agreements with other jurisdictions so that a custody order of a B.C. court could be enforced by other governments.

There is not even reciprocal arrangements with other provinces, he said, so that if a child was illegally taken to that province, another hearing would have to be held in that province to have the child brought back.

Agreement on these reciprocal agreements should be established on a federal level before international agreements can be made, said Vickers.

PLUG WAS DOG DUMMY

DODGE CITY, Kan. (UPI) — When a tavern across the street from an animal clinic caught fire the pumpers rolled.

The first company hooked hoses to a hydrant in front of the clinic and dashed toward the fire. But when the water was turned on, nothing came out.

The hydrant didn't belong to the city. The clinic's owners had placed it there for the convenience of visiting dogs.

Xerox Offers Bogus: BBB

Bogus stationery and supply offers are appearing throughout Victoria and the Better Business Bureau warns city merchants not to buy.

Bill Tindall of the BBB said customers of Xerox of Canada Ltd. have been receiving long distance telephone calls from people purporting to represent the firm. The people say Xerox is on strike and they are authorized to sell Xerox supplies at a 50 per cent discount. Orders are taken on the spot and the goods are sent by C.O.D.

"But you have no way of examining shipment until you pay for it and once you do, it's yours," Tindall said.

"The parcel could be empty or could contain anything but Xerox supplies for all we know," he added.

Tindall said the calls are originating from California and Washington.

According to the manager of the Victoria branch of Xerox, the company is not involved in strike.

"Many of our customers have called us up to enquire about this fictitious strike," said Claire Stevens.

"The only place we're unionized is in the production facility in New York State and there is no talk of a strike."

But even though Xerox is being fraudulantly represented, Stevens says no legal action is being considered.

"It's difficult to prove because we have no written evidence," he said.

Alberta Oil Pact Near

B.C. has reached agreement in principle with Alberta for supply of crude oil for the proposed government refinery, B.C. Petroleum Corporation chairman Jim Rhodes said today.

Letters have been exchanged with Albera confirming a supply of oil, he said, but further negotiations on the specifics of the arrangement are still going on.

The provinces are now discussing the price and grade of oil to be supplied and the amount and length of the oil exchanged are still to be determined.

The B.C. government proposes to build a $350 million refinery but allocation for the refinery has not yet been determined.

Police Charged In Bookie Ring

TORONTO (CP) — Four Metropolitan Toronto policemen and four other men have been charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with a widespread police investigation into bookmaking this year.

Police Chief Harold Adamson told a news conference Thursday the four policeman, one a former member of the morality department's anti-gambling squad, have been suspended.

He said in an interview that bookmaking investigations by Toronto police, RCMP and the Ontario attorney-general's office were stepped up in January after he learned of a loan-sharking operation with international connections with Montreal, Las Vegas, Chicago and other cities in the United States.

Victims of the bookmakers were turning to the loan-sharks to pay their debts. Police estimate bookmakers take in $100 million in metropolitan Toronto each year.

The policemen charged are: Staff Sgt. George Crease, 46, head of the anti-gambling squad until late last year; Sgt. Gerald Purdon, 51, a dectective in the homicide squad transferred from the morality squad about eight months ago; Sgt. Francis Pearson, 44, of the North York criminal investigation branch and Sgt. James Quinn 39, on general assignment squad.

New Blueprints for CIDA

Foreign aid no longer carries the aura of liberal bonhomie which surrounded such altruistic gestures in the 1950s and early 1960s. Former prime minister Lester Pearson hoped that Canada would eventually give away annually one per cent of its gross national product to less fortunate nations. To date, Canadian aid has only reached half that amount. In a period of recession-inflation it becomes an increasingly difficult concept to sell to the public.

Accusations of internal mismanagement coupled with reports of food aid rotting on tropical docks or finding its way into the blackmarket have not enhanced the Canadian International Development Agency's domestic image. In one infamous case a fully automated bakery was set up holusbolus in an African city neatly putting all the small independent bakeries out of business. If we are doing things like sending prefabricated schools designed for the Arctic to Jamaica it is time for second thoughts. Apparently Ottawa thinks so too; it has announced a total overhaul of Canadian aid programs. In order to concentrate on the world's most needy countries some 30 countries of the 70 now receiving Canadian aid will be struck from the list. A reduction in the volume of tied loans — that is transfers of credit that must be spent in Canada — is a welcome gesture. But the words "reduction in volume" indicate the government will carry on this rotten practice which is really a disguised subsidy to Canadian business. Instead of simple money transfers, new aid measures may include easy Canadian entry for developing nations' products. New government logic stresses that aid transfers are relatively marginal compared to transfers resulting from trade and monetary policies.

In the general outline of proposed reforms there is little to quarrel with. One wonders at the timing of the reforms though. The changes come on the heels of a parliamentary session which was harshly critical of CIDA practices. Finance Minister John Turner was preaching his message of share-the-wealth to the International Monetary Fund. From a political point of view, the reforms reinforce Turner's words to the international body and have the effect of taking the heat off the much-criticized CIDA management. It is also strange that the new direction precedes by six months the proposed review of CIDA programs and philosophy an all-party Commons committee. Given the government initiative, it remains unclear what the committee will have to do. In a sense, the government has usurped the committee unless its function is to be reviewed.

While the reforms are plausible enough in theory the public will be watching closely to see that $900 million scheduled to be spent in 1974 - 75 is really well spent. The "hands-off" policy adopted by CIDA in supervising distribution of its largesse in foreign countries should end. If the aid is going to reach those who need it most CIDA must be there to supervise it or the waste of the past will carry over into new programs. As one of the wealthiest countries in the world, Canada has a responsibility to help less fortunate jurisdictions. That homily has never been more true than now when rich countries are getting richer and poor countries are becoming poorer — an indication that Western aid programs in the past have done little of what they were intended to do.

Ottawa's new directions and rearrangement of priorities sound good in theory, but need careful management to be effective. New blueprints are one thing: an efficient structure is something else.

Yes, Virginia (Part 1)

It used to be that tinsel and red and green lights went up in the department stores just after Thanksgiving. That meant "only" two months was devoted to what eggnog manufacturers and credit managers like to call the festive season.

But now we have McDonald's to thank for blurring Yule into the harvest season. Not content with pursuing that ultimate trillionth hamburger, the famous food chain is bagging its products in paper sacks emblazoned with cheery green bells and wishing its customers Season's Greetings. On Labor Day, already. Bah, humbug.

". . . how would you like your steak sir . . . rare, or not at all? . . . our cooks just went on strike . . ."

PAUL WHITELAW

Bi-and-Bi South of the Border

WASHINGTON — Under orders from congress, the United States is embarking on a controversial program of official bilingualism. Unlike Canada, however, where bilingualism means French and English, congress has decided that voting rights of selected linguistic minorities must be protected by conducting future elections in English and possibly more than a dozen other languages.

The U.S. justice department, handed the unenviable task of enforcing congress' will, is now taking steps to see that bilingual voting becomes a reality in 464 counties spread across 27 states in time for the presidential election next year.

Eventually, voting for even such local matters as bond issues will be affected.

Covers Eskimos Too

The justice department issued a stern warning last Wednesday that failure to comply with federal bilingualism directives will result in tough government action. Assistant attorney-general Stanley Pottinger, head of the department's civil rights division, said measures to enforce compliance could range from obtaining injunctions to seeking to set aside election results.

Bilingual elections are called for in amendments to the 10-year-old Voting Rights Act passed by congress this summer and signed into law by President Ford a month ago.

The legislation, originally aimed at protecting the rights of American blacks, now covers linguistic minorities broadly classed as Spanish-speaking Americans, Asian-Americans and the country's Indians and Eskimos.

Pottinger has made it clear that the justice department is hesitant to dictate inflexible federal voting guidelines to diverse regions of the country. But his department expects local jurisdictions covered by the act to either provide ballots in the language of the local linguistic minority or see that "oral assistance" in the minority language is provided to explain election issues and how to cast ballots.

Linguistic provisions of the voting act will be applied through a rather complex formula. They affect all counties in the U.S. in which voters of the designated linguistic minorities number more than five per cent of the population in November, 1972, and less than half the eligible population registered or voted. The act also covers local jurisdictions that had five per cent minority populations, and where the illiteracy rate is higher than the national average of 4.6 per cent.

SAN FRANCISCO CHINATOWN
. . . balloting in Mandarin, Cantonese?

In effect, that will result in bilingual elections — in English and one other language — in almost all of the affected 464 counties. But in at least one city, San Francisco, voting will be conducted in English, Spanish and Chinese.

Not surprisingly, problems have been created that few members of congress anticipated when they amended the voting act. In San Francisco, for instance, it is uncertain whether the city's voting machines can be programmed to accommodate three languages. Technicians are trying to overcome that obstacle.

Some officials worry that the biggest headache of all will come in trying to provide voting assistance to native Americans in scores of languages and possibly hundreds of dialects. In Alaska, there is no common native tongue and many Eskimos from different regions are able to communicate with each other only in English. There are also native languages that are spoken but not written.

But perhaps the most controversial aspect of the costly and complicated amendments to the voting act is the congressional decision as to which linguistic minorities should have their rights protected.

Why Not Portuguese?

Indeed, critics have charged that the amendments ironically discriminate against both those groups included in its provisions and those who are not.

Why include Spanish-speaking Americans and not the sizeable communities of Portuguese immigrants who have clustered in Newark, N.J. and a number of other eastern cities? Or what about Greek-Americans or Italians?

Is congress telling Spanish-speaking Americans or Chinese or Cherokee Indians that it thinks they are less intelligent than other ethnic groups, less able to learn English, or less capable of understanding the political process and their voting rights?

These are all questions which the critics have raised.

Their vain criticisms now that the amendments are law don't help Stanley Pottinger, however, as he attempts to erect the Tower of Babel designated by the congressional architects.

DAN POTTIER

Hot Noose Debate Shapes Up

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau has served notice that the government intends to legislate on the delicate issue of capital punishment this fall, and indications are that an attempt will be made to abolish hanging completely in Canada.

If the government adopts an abolitionist stance, it will be in the curious, and potentially divisive, position of going against the tide of public opinion on the matter.

Public opinion polls last April indicated that the great majority of Canadians (69 percent) advocate the death penalty for the killing of any innocent person.

This situation must be confounding to what is apparently an abolitionist cabinet. Just as any governmental abolitionist stand must be vexing to the large retentionist element of the population — not just individuals but prominent organizations.

Trudeau said the capital punishment matter would be dealt with in "package legislation" including the related matters of prison reform and gun control.

Disregarding the feelings of individual ministers on the issue, the cabiet appears to be locked into the spirit of abolition established in 1967 by the Liberal government of Lester Petrson.

Anticipate Direction

A process of gradual abolition was begun that year when the death penalty was abolished for all but the killers of policemen and prison guards. It was meant to be a five-year trial period and was essentially a compromise when parliament couldn't by swayed to abolish hanging completely. In 1972, it was extended for another five years.

Although the 1967 debate was neither simpler nor easier than it would be today, the government of the day at least had the comfort of following a trend in public opinion of apparently moving with the tide.

By 1966-67, the trend of public opinion on the issue of the death penalty had moved to the point where pro-hanging sentiment was at its lowest point ever. Gallup polls showed that just over half of Canadians favored the retention of capital punishment — that convenient euphemism for death at the hands of the state.

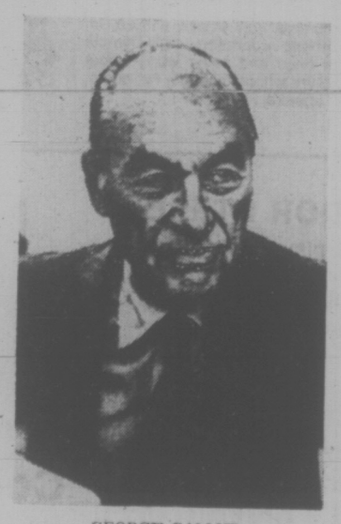
This fifty-fifty split in opinion was obviously not decisive either way, but the key factor was the percentage of people in favor of the death penalty had been going down since the Second World War.

The government of the day could attempt to abolish the death penalty confident that public opinion was steadily moving in that direction. Interpreting the trend, lawmakers could logically justify a move which anticipated the direction of public sentiment.

Records show that in 1943, about 73 per cent of Canadians favored capital punishment, but the figure started to drop from that point on. Perhaps the impact of that long bloody war made the idea of death in any manner increasingly abhorent.

In any case, by 1960 about 70 percent of Canadians favored the death penalty and this percentage dropped to 51 in 1960. Gallup polls showed that this figure remained stable, at just over half, in the period 1958 to 1966.

However, the trend seemingly shifted after the government imposed a partial ban on hanging. In 1972, toward the end of the first five-year suspension of the death penalty except for the killing of policemen or prison guards, 63 percent wanted the death penalty brought back. And from 1972 to 1975, the percentage increased another six points.



GEORGE GALLUP
. . . his polls always said 50 per cent

A number of factors could be applied to try to explain shifts in public opinion on any matter — education, growing affluence, the influence of mass communications and the events of the day.

There may be some weight to the argument that the present shift of public opinion towards a re-establishment of the death penalty began in earnest with the October, 1970 kidnap crisis in Quebec.

In late 1970, a few weeks after the October crisis, a Gallup poll showed that 70 per cent of Canadians said they were in favor of the restoration of capital punishment for the kidnapping of public figures or politicians.

In August 1971, the Montreal newspaper La Presse published results of a telephone survey on the subject among French-speaking Montrealers. An astonishing 80.2 percent replied yes to the question: "Are you in favor of the death penalty for murder?"

Even though studies had shown that the French-speaking sector had always been more favorable to the death penalty than the English-speaking sector, the results caused some consternation.

One prominent Montreal editorialist asked: "How is it that 80 per cent of the people now approve of it when the trend over the past 25 years would have led one to expect a fifty-fifty split?"

The October crisis may provide the immediate stimulus required to find an answer, but does it explain why pro-hanging statistics have remained high ever since. Can single events like that explain the long term swing downward followed by an upswing in the 1970s?

There are frequent reports that crime in general is increasing in the 1970s and this has led to frequent volatile debates on the matter at the political level which in turn may have influenced the general public.

Facing Tough Test

Various grisly events, such as the murder of two Moncton, N.B. policemen back in December, have ensured that the issue of the death penalty maintained a high profile in the first six months of this year. More recently the slaying of four children near Saskatoon led to bitter debate on how to deal with criminals, particularly murderers.

The government was criticized because it chose to commute all death sentences involving the slaying of policemen and prison guards. In fact, no one has been executed in Canada since 1962.

Police associations have called for the restoration of the death penalty in all cases except when a jury recommends clemency. Prison guards held a one-day walkout last July to demand the same thing and members of parliament have introduced private members' bills to restore the death penalty.

On the other side of the coin, abolitionist groups have not been idle. Certain MPs have tabled bills to abolish hanging, various civil liberty groups support them and arguments flow that the death penalty serves no valid purpose.

It is a "hot" issue, and this is the kind of atmosphere the government will likely face in the fall. Whether it decides to go against the trend of public opinion or give in to its pressure, the Trudeau cabinet faces a very tough test. No matter what it does, it stands to dissatisfy a great many people.

Neglecting Religion

Fifteen times as many people went to church or synagogue in the United States in 1973 as went to all professional or college sporting events, and contributions to churches and synagogues totalled $11 billion compared to gate receipts of only $221 million for professional football, basketball and baseball.

In the course of one year 44 million Americans go to professional sporting events. On one Sunday, twice that many go to worship.

So how is it that newspapers give so much preponderate coverage to sports and ignore religion? They're in the business of selling their product and you would think that they would not neglect this market. Perhaps the reason is an emotional prejudice against religion. — Father Brian Whitlow, Dean of Christ-Church Cathedral.

Union Dry Rot

During these troublesome times of strife, strikes, lockouts etc., there are certainly no two ways about it, Roman Gralewicz the president of the Seafarers International Union of Canada brings an original touch to the "facts" that plague, and therefore restrict, the trade union movement.

I refer of course to the 10-year no-strike agreement that the SIU is willing to sign with Canadian flag operators for ships in high seas service.

The short sightedness (I'll be charitable and call it that!) of other union leaders in criticizing his bold and subtle move is, I'm afraid, a typical example of the "dry rot" and ennui that appears to have infiltrated certain unions, through lack of creative and dedicated leadership, to the detriment of the membership.

I am not naive enough to realize there might be more in this than meets the eye. The fact remains, I think it is a step in the right direction, and has great possibilities in leading the labor movement out of the morass that they are rapidly finding themselves in. — Walter Say, 3218 Alder Street.

On the Make

I am disgusted. From all sides I am bombarded by people on the make. An elderly couple are sad because they have too much money to receive Mincome. They claim they did without too much and so did themselves in, missing out on something for nothing. A middle-aged couple complain because their up-coming federal pension will put them out of the running. All very true but don't people realize the boat is so badly rocked it will sink?

What happened to pride? Say something in protest, what is the reply? That the federal members voted themselves a huge raise. Because the first ear went into the brink does every other have to follow? We Canadians should have nipped that raise fast.

We are all cultivating the attitudes of gangsters — unions blackmail the public. The bigger the impact, the better the settlement.

We need labor laws, labor courts and no unions. We can't afford shutdowns, strikes and lock-outs. We need profit-sharing and labor participation in our businesses, co-operation and partnership. We all need each other.

Instead, we have the young spending more time on unemployment than on the job, the rich proud of their tax dodges, the housewife hoarding in panic (not caring who else eats as long as she does). I repeat, I am disgusted. — B. Williams, 729 Haliburton.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of September 5, 1915

In Chinatown Saturday night members of the Gee Goong Tong celebrated the 250th anniversary of the inauguration of the movement against the reigning Manchu dynasty. Chinatown was lit up and decorated in the Oriental manner and on the streets there was a parade in which an imitation dragon was carried to the accompaniment of a Chinese band. There was a celebration at the Masonic headquarters on Fisgard Street, Chinese in character and largely attended. An elaborate program was given.

The Non-Aligned Nations: Suddenly They Have Clout

By JAMES EAYRS

Late last week in Lima, 82 statesmen calling themselves foreign ministers of states calling themselves non-aligned — 81 of them legitimately: the credentials of one Farouk Kaddaumi, head of the political department of the Palestine Liberation Organization, are not yet entirely impeccable — achieved a degree of unity of stated purpose that U.S. secretary of state Henry Kissinger, mindful of the disarrary of America's alliances from Thailand to Turkey, from Pakistan to Portugal, might well envy. Indeed, that he does envy.

"It is an irony that at the moment the U.S. has accepted non-alignment and the value of diversity," the Secretary of State declared in a recent speech, "those nations which originally chose this stance to preserve their sovereign independence from powerful military alliances are forming a rigid grouping of their own. The most solid block in the world today is, paradoxically, the alignment of the non-aligned."

These strictures recall an earlier denunciation of non-alignment by a previous U.S. secretary of state. Kissinger finds the alignment of the non-aligned "irrelevant and misleading." John Foster Dulles found it "shortsighted and immoral."

Shortsighted, because those states trying to make it on their own would soon be gobbled up by communism. Immoral, because in a world belonging only to God or Satan there is no room for those — Nehru of India, Tito of Yugoslavia, Nasser of Egypt — trying to find a middle way.

Kissinger's dislike of non-alignment is different in kind from Dulles'. Dulles' indignation was that of the frustrated crusader for world freedom; Kissinger's is that of the frustrated craftsman of world order. Dulles wanted to make the world safe for democracy; Kissinger wants to make it safe. Dulles viewed non-aligned states as apostates, copouts on his mission; Kissinger views them as obstacles, impediments to his solution. And what's his solution? A pentagonal structure of peace, a global hegemony of power wielded by the Big Five — the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Japan and the European Community — none of whose foreign ministers were in Peru last week.

Kissinger's hostility to non-alignment predates his debut as a statesman, goes back to his intellectual's stint at Harvard fifteen years ago. Two aspects of non-alignment — he called it "non-commitment" — aroused his ire at that time.

One was its hypocrisy. The practitioners of non-alignment pretended to impartiality, calling the shots as they saw them from their vantage on the sidelines, condemning now one great power, now the other, in their minatory communiques.

But this so-called impartiality had proved to be a sham. "The speeches in the General Assembly of 1960 by such leaders as Nasser, Sukarno, Nkrumah or even Nehru illustrate this point," Kissinger wrote soon afterwards. "The attacks on the West were pointed and direct; those on the Communist bloc circumspect and highly ambiguous. Almost every speech by these leaders castigated Western imperialism. Not a single reference was made to the unprovoked Soviet threat against Berlin — not to speak of other Soviet policies in Eastern Europe."

Not only were statesmen from non-aligned nations deemed hypocritcal, they were also deemed irresponsible. "For many of them playing a role on the international scene seems more dramatic and simpler than the complex job of domestic construction. Many domestic problems are intractable. Almost all of them require patient, detailed efforts and their results are frequently long delayed. Domestically, each action has a price. But on the international scene, it is possible to be the centre of attention simply by striking a pose." (Could Secretary Kissinger, as he rides high on his Middle East shuffle, recalling this wisdom of Professor Kissinger, ruefully reflect how much easier it is to be an American foreign minister than a mayor of New York City?)

These two aspects continue to irritate Kissinger today. He is still angered by what he considered the hypocrisy of the Third World: "The American people are understandably tired of the inflammatory rhetoric against us." He is still angered by what he considers to be its irresponsibility: "Numerical majorities have insisted on their will and objectives even when in population and financial contributions they were a small proportion of the membership."

But to anger is now joined an emotion unknown to him in this context — in fact unthinkable in this context — fifteen years ago. It is the emotion of fear.

In 1961, when the non-aligned nations held their first meeting at the summit in Yugoslavia, 25 states took part. In 1964, in Egypt, 47 states met at the second non-aligned conference, in 1970, in Zambia, 52. In 1973, 70 states met in Algeria for the fourth non-aligned conference.

The meeting of non-aligned foreign ministers in Peru last week was the first such gathering since the Arab oil embargo of October 1973 upset the world economy and altered the balance of power. Suddenly the Third World disposed of more than a mere numerical majority. It disposed of power, too.

To the new and disturbing phenomenon of non-alignment armed with clout, Kissinger has since addressed himself — not only in the "war for oil" scenarios he has allowed to flourish within his entourage but in the premeditated medium of a major foreign policy address.

In his much publicized speech to the Milwaukee Institute of World Affairs on July 14, 1975, Kissinger accused the leaders of the non-aligned nations of dividing the world "into categories of north and south, developing and developed, imperial and colonial". That division, he insisted, was not only untimely, it was unnecessary. "Never before have the industrialized nations been more ready to deal with the problems of development in a constructive spirit. Yet lop-sided, loaded voting, biased results and arbitrary tactics threatens to destroy these possibilities . . . Tragically, the principal victims will be the countries who seek to extort what substantially could be theirs if they proceeded co-operatively."

Nehru, non-alignment's founding father, would grimace at such promises, recalling out of bitter personal experience how empty they have proven in the past. No ruling class gives in without a struggle. So it has always been, so it will ever be. Nehru learned of the Churchill-Roosevelt declaration of the "Four Freedoms", with its affirmation of "the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live", while languishing in a British jail for attempting to advance that right; later, he would learn that Churchill had never intended the promise to extend to Britain's colonial possessions, India least of all. If imperialists are loath to share their rule, how much more loath they are to share their wealth.

The point has been well, indeed, unanswerably made, by a latter-day leader of non-alignment, President Houari Boumedienne. "Algeria and, I think, all non-aligned countries, hope that our future relations with the rich countries can be based on co-operation and justice. But we have few illusions as to what to expect from the two super-powers . . We have come to understand that it is only by a show of strength on our part that they will understand that we mean business . . . The non-aligned nations want a juster system of international economic relations between rich and poor, based on equity instead of exploitation. We are ready to fight to get it, just as, not long ago, most of us had to fight for our political independence".

And if the foreign minister of the United States, now celebrating the 200th anniversary of its own successful fight for political independence, cannot understand that attitude, will not respond positively and generously to it, who will?

Horror Stories from the Statcan Empire

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — To set this column properly I must begin with two items which seem to have little to do with the topic.

About six weeks ago, Gordon Robertson, for over a decade the top civil servant in Ottawa, was witness before a parliamentary committee to speak on government information.

In a long testimony he fulminated over "leaks," that is, the blabbing to the press or the public of secret information from within the government. It was unethical, almost treasonable, given the oath sworn by officials, for them to "leak."

He was asked what a civil servant should do when he encountered unsavory matters within government on which no action was being taken.

In such a case, said Robertson, if the servant felt strongly enough about it then he should resign and make his case publicly — of course, without using any internal secret papers.

Just two weeks ago that normally acidulous and highly literate journalist, Kildare Dobbs, authored a hymn of praise to Dr. Sylvia Ostry. It apeared in one of the weekend supplements. The admiring Dobbs had some nasty digs for those small-minded people who question the abilities and commitments of the talented Mrs. Ostry and her husband, Bernard. Mrs. Ostry is deputy minister in the Consumer and Corporate affairs portfolio.

Her husband has what seems equivalent to an assistant deputy minister rank in a cultural agency. It's only a few months since Mrs. Ostry moved to her post from a stretch of several years as the head of Statistics Canada. According to Dobbs she was a magnificent success at Statcan, setting that agency on course into the modern world.

Statistics Canada was once known and highly regarded as the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This was back in the days before Trudeau when it was alright to use that now lost word "Dominion". To gather, collate and publish all its data, Statcan will spend about $100 million in this financial year. It employs about 5,700 people.

Last month a senior official of Statcan, Frank Curry, took an early retirement. Before he left he circulated a 7,000-word memorandum to all the senior officers of the agency. Someone in Statcan had photocopied copies of the memo and distributed them to the press.

I have been told that it is unlikely Curry himself did the distributing to the press. In any case, Curry can't be located. The chief statistician is away on sick leave and his deputy says there'll be no comment until he returns.

I expect that long before that, the political master of Statcan, Alistair Gillespie, may have to say something about the charges in the memo. Why? Because they are devastating. If only a few of them are true Statcan needs a major investigation. Members of the Opposition are finding it a set-piece to support demands for an inquiry.

The "leak" is exactly the kind of thing which Gordon Robertson railed against. On the other hand, the author of the material leaked, the aforesaid Curry, did the honorable thing that Robertson asked for. He quit his job, but before leaving he wrapped up all his criticisms of his agency (he worked there for 27 years) into one synoptic paper.

Mrs. Ostry comes off very badly in the Curry paper as the proponent and agent of the most recent "reorg" of Statcan. He claims that he tried to get through to her with his criticisms and suggestions and got nowhere.

There are many serious allegations in Curry's memo but the most heretical one, the charge that will reverberate and echo around until it is answered fully and openly is that Statcan has made and is making a prodigious mess in its use of the computer. Curry alleges that it continues in the now ridiculed use of the computer as a centralized instrument even though experience in other departments such as national revenue and lessons learned in the U.S. and Sweden indicate that this is wrong and wasteful.

Curry cites several cases where Statcan has had to drop publication of series of data because of mismanagement and the isolation of senior officials from the work force.

One of the strongest, recent criticisms of Statcan has emerged from spokesmen for small business. These people allege that Statcan keeps saddling enterprises which do not have people or resources with Statcan requirements for data under duress of penalties. Curry takes up this criticism and lays the onus for Statcan bungling directly on the ivory tower intellectuals whom Mrs. Ostry gathered on the top floors of the main Statcan building.

It's direct, not rife with jargon or circumlocutions. It's more sad than vicious. As one who has marked hundreds of school and college essays I'd give it a B for grammar and organization, and A for clarity. It reeks earnestness and responsibility. In that sense it is authentic. Of course, there must be another side — explanations of Curry's criticisms and contradictions to his points.

Curry notes that the "only written assessment of performance as a senior officer" stated that he was "a statistician of average technical ability who is basically oriented to the practical rather than the theoretical." He doesn't quarrel with this assessment. Statcan, he says, has "continued to generate enormous amounts of sophisticated ideas on what we should be producing, but at the same time, the machine to produce the output has virtually seized up as the gap between ideas and production widens."

Here's an example of Curry's practicality. For him Statcan "is by and large, whether we admit it or not, a large scale factory engaged in mass production. Its management, from the chief statistician down, should be deeply involved in and oriented to that production and equally with the people responsible for the production." Instead, the organizaton is "guided, directed and managed by an elite professional group who pride themselves in the academic, intellectual content of our work . . . There exists a frightening gap between this elite and the day-to-day production of statistics and its managers."

Those are assertions. What does Curry back them with? He notes a 17-page paper by the methodology and systems group of Statcan (i.e. the elite of sophisticates in Statcan). The subject was a touchy one politically: "An overall strategy for employment surveys." Nowhere in this long paper was there a "single reference to labor division's defined needs in terms of data objectives of the surveys." If this is true, it's damning.

"The bureau," writes Curry, "is filled with people who are acutely conscious of absolute surveys and programs which should be cut out. In any other business, obsolete lines of production are cut out and the merchandise sitting on the shelves sold off at cut rates. But what happens here? Virtually everything is retained because you never get down to the real roots of the issue, far removed from your tight inner circle."

There has been and still is in Statcan an "all-pervading, deliberate drive for more and more centralized power and control." Dr. Ostry reorganized Statcan into a huge centralized empire and brushed aside all criticism of how this centralized control was to be reconciled with the responsibility of managers in the branches to carry on and develop production.

The directors and chiefs feel like puppets. The internal mail service in Statcan is a mess but it is too low scale a matter to concern the sophisticated elite on the top floors.

Curry recommends that the chief statistician get out in the field to talk with the small businessman and find out why he questions the "sanity of our people who created such a monster."

Curry refers to a number of "horror stories" in Statcan. There have been petty stupidities such as turning off the air conditioning on weekends (as an economy measure). This resulted in a building which could hardly be worked in on Mondays. There was the unwillingness of the executive to implement the staggered hours of work recommended for the public service as a whole by the government.

"I shudder," writes Curry, "at the cost and utter waste of programs shelved or dumped in the waste baskets, the countless programs that literally destroyed managers' ability to maintain previous standards of quality and timeliness and often set them back years."

Now we must wait. Will the political masters of Statcan respond to such a litany of bad management in this $100 million a year operation? The instincts of the senior bureaucrats will be to say nothing, to dismiss the Curry memo as an "internal matter." The minister responsible, Gillespie, is a bland fellow. It may take persistent demands by opposition MPs to get him to make a serious, objective inquiry into the "botch-up" described by Frank Curry.

Extortionists on the Beat

By WILLIAM SAFIRE
New York Times

In the Boston police strike of 1919, the mayor asked the governor of Massachusetts for 3,000 state guard troops to maintain order. The governor reluctantly took charge, broke the strike by permanently firing 1,000 police officers, and rallied public opinion across the nation with these words:

"There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, anytime."

"Anytime" became last month; "anywhere" became San Francisco; "anybody" became the entire police force of that city. The result of the San Francisco police strike of 1975 was the triumph of lawlessness, as a panic-stricken Mayor Joseph Alioto — his labor political support threatened and his home bombed — overrode the objections of the city's Board of Supervisors, and grabbed the power needed to cave in to all the demands of the strikers.

An entire city was kidnapped and held for ransom; the ransom was paid, and now the extortionists patrol the city's streets, making sure nobody else breaks the law.

Whenever policemen put their guns to a city's head, they create a police state. If a policeman has a right to strike, then a fireman has a right to ignore an alarm, a surgeon has a right to walk away from an operating table, and a soldier has a right to desert under fire. These are all acts against the public safety. Dereliction of duty is a crime, and not a prelude to collective bargaining.

The successful kidnapping of San Francisco comes at a moment when dozens of other cities — concerned about New York's imminent bankruptcy — are looking hard at the growth of their own armies of public employees. In the last 15 years, the number of state and local employees has doubled from 6 million to 12 million — and now one worker out of six is an employee of the other five.

If the extortion in California works — if cops are permitted to become robbers, even for a few days — then how can any city hope to substantially cut back municipal services so as to stay solvent?

This leads to a broader issue, becoming more pertinent during New York's countdown: whether public employees should have a right to strike. The answer must begin by separating the employees who deal with the public safety from those who minister to public welfare. For policemen, firemen, garbagemen, life-supporting hospital workers — no; for teachers, clerks, parks department employees, welfare workers, yes.

Certainly a public employee like a teacher performs a vital job, but not an emergency job. A teacher has more of public responsibility than a steelworker, but a city awakened to its own desperation could cope with a teachers' strike, and teachers — like private-industry workers — might learn for the first time that all strikes do not lead to victories.

On emergency services, Jerry Wurf, head of the 700,000-member Public Employees' Union — the only fast-growing large union within the U.S. labor movement — has been saying for years that public employees are willing to give up the right to strike (as if they had one) in favor of voluntary arbitration.

ALIOTO . . . surrender

Arbitration sounds great, and editorial writers embrace it as a solution to impasses, but it really means passing the buck to a panel of people who will listen, frown, and then cut the baby in half. Arbitration is abdication of public responsibility; labor leaders know that arbitrators don't have to raise the taxes to pay for settlements, which is why labor wants arbitration.

Public employees are not slaves; with legitimate grievances, they have no obligation to grunt and sweat under a weary life. They have the option of looking for jobs in the private sector, where competition is keener and raises less automatic.

Heartless? Uncaring? Not really, when you consider all the other working people whose taxes pay the proliferating public employees. Those taxpaying workers, whose private-sector pay is ultimately tied to productivity, are being short changed when the people their local government hires to put out fires and administer schools are under no pressure to increase their productivity. Yet the workingman, who refuses to be tyrannized by his employer, has been willing to be victimized by his own public employee.

That is going to stop soon. What stops long social or economic trends? Shocking events like municipal bankruptcies and police strikes have an effect. In awakening the public consciousness nothing succeeds like excess.

In that sense, maybe craven Joe Alioto has done us all a favor. As he took charge in order to surrender, his handling of this year's police strike contrasts curiously with that of Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts in 1919, who surrendered to taking charge, and who later ran for president on a slogan with which we have all become familiar: "Law and Order."

Bullets Designed to Damage

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A firearms expert agreed Thursday that a 22-year-old man, fatally shot July 25 during a fight with an off-duty RCMP officer, was killed by bullets designed to cause maximum internal damage.

And RCMP Corporal Richard Bateman told lawyer Harry Rankin, representing the parents of William Miles Hamilton, who was shot, that the bullets were not of a type issued by the force.

Bateman said indentations in the nose of the bullets causes them to expand and deliver their energy more quickly in their targets, but he did not know if it was usual for members of the force to buy their own special brand.

The witness told a coroner's jury that examination of a shirt submitted to him indicated that two bullets hit the victim, one at almost point-blank range and the other from between six inches and 2½ feet.

Hamilton was shot July 25 while Constable Garry Mydlak was arresting an impaired driving suspect.

Constable Mydlak, 28, told the jury that he became "intensely frightened" after he fired the fatal shots at Hamilton.

"It was a conditioned reflex," he said. "I was in immediate fear. It was the first time I had experienced that sensation."

The constable said he fired three shots as Hamilton swung at him with what later turned out to be a crescent wrench.

The witness said he saw a wound in Hamilton's body and lapsed into shock. He added he feared for his own life.

Mydlak waived protection of the Canada Evidence Act before testifying in response to questions from Don Celle, representing the B.C. attorney-general.

The constable, a member of the RCMP for almost nine years, said he was at home in the early morning hours of July 25 when awakened by the sound of squealing tires.

He said he was drowsing off when he was reawakened by the noise of two men arguing, adding he was not on active duty but as an RCMP officer, is sworn to be on duty 24 hours a day.

Asked by Celle if he had been drinking before going to bed, Const. Mydlak said he had consumed a 1½-to-two ounce drink of rye whisky about 2½ hours earlier.

Mydlak said he telephoned a member of the North Vancouver RCMP detachment and told him of the noise at the intersection.

"I advised him I was going outside to take a look," said Mydlak. "I also requested that he send a cover car as soon as possible."

He said he quickly dressed in a sweater and blue jeans, picked up his police badge and put his service revolver in the pocket or belt of his jeans.

The constable went outside in bare feet and saw a pickup truck parked diagonally across the street.

He said he advised a man in the truck he was under arrest for impaired driving but the man, later identified as Bruce Edgar, 26, tried to drive off.

Const. Mydlak said he took Edgar out of the truck, but Hamilton, later found to be Edgar's cousin, approached and addressed him in an obscene manner, then started towards the officer.

Const. Mydlak said he again identified himself as a police officer and repeated that Edgar was under arrest for drinking and driving.

"There was a brief scuffle with Edgar at which time he was forced down over the fender of the truck," the constable said.

The constable said that Hamilton persisted in approaching him from the rear despite repeated warnings to keep away and when he was struggling with Edgar he heard a metallic object being moved in the truck.

Const. Mydlak, saying he thought Hamilton had a gun, drew his pistol, warned the man not to come towards him and then fired a warning shot into the air, which stopped Hamilton.

"I realized then he didn't believe I was a police officer or that he just wanted to attack me."

He said a woman, identified as Edgar's wife, arrived at the scene and because further arguments broke out and Hamilton continued to try to outflank the officer, he retreated, looking and calling for help.

"The situation as I saw it was that I was being forced away from the point where a police car was coming to assist me," said the officer.

As he retreated, he said Edgar attacked him and then he said he saw Hamilton swing at him with an object.

It was coming down in an arc," said Mydlak. "I raised my weapon as I was falling. I believed I fired three shots."

About five minutes after the shots were fired, another policeman showed up, said the constable.

The inquest continues.

LOVE SURVIVES KNIFING

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 39-year-old Vancouver man has been acquitted of the attempted murder of a woman who told the court she was still in love with the man and wanted to marry him.

Frank William Johnson was acquitted Thursday by a British Columbia Supreme Court jury in the knife attack on Mildred Helen Petroff, 37, Sept. 9 in the Vancouver apartment they shared.

The jury deliberated five hours before bringing in its verdict. The woman was stabbed in the chest, arm and hands with a seven-inch butcher knife following a domestic squabble.

Johnson told the court he had no intention to attempt to kill the woman with whom he had lived for three years. He said he had been drinking heavily for three weeks and had little recollection of the events surrounding the incident.

Miss Petroff testified that she had no recollection of being stabbed. She said she still loved Johnson and would marry him.

Crown counsel A. F. Melvin told the jury that when a criminal offence has been committed, it was no excuse for two people to say they forgive each other.

Pickets Pulled Off Home for Elderly

KELOWNA (CP) — Civic workers decided Thursday against further picketing of a city-operated senior citizen's home.

Although four of seven full-time employees, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, are on strike, Ann Blishen, manager of the home, said that patient care was not suffering.

It had been feared, however, that the home might have to close because food deliveries couldn't be made across union picket lines.

Ken Preston, a spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said that the union executive decided to put up only an informational picket for a brief period each day.

He said the union doesn't want to put the 48 senior citizens out of the home.

Murder Bids Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peter Ian Wood, 18, of Lindsay, Ont., charged with five counts of attempted murder, was committed for high court trial Thursday after a long preliminary hearing.

Wood was charged last March 2 after a man went berserk and began firing at people and bunk beds in the second floor of the Vancouver youth hostel.

Wood is accused of attempting to kill Richard Smith, 22, of North Bay, Ont.; Christopher Dilly, 22, of Toronto; Arthur Skolnik, 21, of Sillery, Que.; Paul Alexander Visosky, 20, of Toronto and Yves Dion, 22, of Moncton, N.B.

Wood is also charged with breaking into a gun shop and with illegal possession of a semi-automatic rifle.

Woman Hangs Self

BURNABY (CP) — Louise Ann Lewicki, 31, hanged herself in the Lower Mainland Regional Correctional Centre (Oakalla) two weeks after she was committed to stand trial on a charge of murder, RCMP said Thursday.

Lewicki was found hanging in her cell in the women's section of the prison in this Vancouver suburb at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

They said she had hanged herself with a sash of her dressing gown.

She was committed Aug. 18 to stand trial for murder punishable by life imprisonment following a preliminary hearing in Vancouver.

She was charged in the stabbing death on May 30 of Arthur Garceau, 55, in a skid road rooming house.

B.C. Bail Jumper In Norway Jail

VANCOUVER (CP — Police here say that a man wanted in Vancouver and the U.S. to face several drug and burglary charges has been arrested in Norway.

Police said that William James Peters, 34, was arrested Aug. 28 in Skein, about 65 miles from Oslo, and is being held on a drug and a theft charge.

Peters skipped bail in Vancouver in 1973 while facing charges in connection with two break-ins and a charge of possesion of heroin for trafficking.

In May, 1973, he was charged with possession 800 capsules of heroin for the purpose of trafficking after the RCMP drug squad staked out a drug cache.

Police here said Peters is likely to be extradicted to the U.S. before he is returned to Vancouver to face the charges here.

Employees and their immediate families of Speedy Muffler King Limited, its advertising agency and the independent contest judging organization are not eligible.

When you make a purchase during a visit to any participating Speedy Muffler King location, you qualify for one entry into the contest. Fill in your name and address and give it to the Speedy manager, who will complete your entry, and deposit it in the special contest entry box on display at any of the participating Speedy Muffler King locations.

Contest closes on Tuesday, September 30th, 1975. Entries received after that date will not be eligible.

• At the close of the contest, random selections will be made from among entries received at each of the six locations and selected entrants, in order to win, must first correctly answer a time-limited, skill-testing question by mail.

In entering, entrants agree to abide by the rules and the decisions of the judges, which are final. The contest is subject to all provincial and federal laws.

PRIZES.

There will be 1 winner for every 10 qualifying purchases made at each of the six B.C. Speedy Muffler locations during the contest period. Each winner will win back the total cost of his purchase as shown on his purchase invoice, (including provincial sales tax). Prize will be paid by cheque and must be accepted as awarded.

In the event of becoming a winner, entrant consents to the use of his or her name and photograph in any forthcoming publicity.

JERRY MANDEL
President Speedy Muffler King

Born in Toronto, Mr. Mandel is a Harbord Collegiate graduate and studied commerce and finance at the University of Toronto before joining his father's wholesale automotive parts business. Within one year he had not only gained executive experience, he had converted a jobbing shop to Toronto's first modern self-serve automotive and accessory parts store.

Together with a partner, he went out on his own in 1956, and started Speedy Muffler King with a borrowed investment of $4800. By 1958 the business had expanded to three branches and growth continued rapidly.

Jerry Mandel is now a director of Speedy Muffler King as well as director of Discoverer Services Limited, and director of Galt Metal Industries Ltd.

Married and the father of three children, he lives in Toronto where he is a director of the York Racquets Club and a member of the Young Presidents Organization, the Alpine Ski Club, and the Toronto Board of Trade Club. Leisure time activities include skiing, sailing, and tennis.

New Building Presents Pleasing Architecture

Jack Klein of Klein and Sears, Architects, Toronto, has been responsible for all Speedy shops since 1961.

He has evolved an inviting, glass-walled store front surrounded by a white stucco fascia recessed below a stucco overhand for weather protection. Bold purple, red and white are used in the pylon and fascia sings and lead the eye into the color scheme. Building walls are either sand, lime, brick or a split rib or triple scored block.

Interiors are divided into waiting room and shop area. The waiting areas use tongue and groove cedar boarding for the ceiling; walls are covered in purple carpet. Furnishings are chrome and vinyl chairs; magazine cubes and manager's counter are in the same boarding as the ceiling.

The work area and inventory racks are dramatized by a two foot red band which acts as a super graphic embracing the perimeter of the shop and flowing into the customer area. Racks are designed to reduce walking from car to supplies. Landscaping helps the building blend in with the surrounding area.

New Approach in Customer Relations

The customer is not "always right" at Speedy — he's an appreciated SOMEBODY, and the purchase of over 450,000 cigars a year from Simon Cigar Company proves that his welcome to the Speedy shop is out of the ordinary.

The company's prime objective is to ensure customer satisfaction with atmosphere, attitude, and performance. This aim is achieved through comprehensive staff training.

Courtesy starts when the prospective customer blows his horn at the remote-controlled door. After a friendly greeting, his car is driven into a work stall and the now-famous cigar is proffered. The courtesy extends to phone inquiries, and complaint handling is done with the utmost of courtesy.

The Speedy philosophy is customer-oriented and offers knowledge and understanding of consumer needs. The philosophy extends into the community through support of sports teams, joining merchants' associations; managers are encouraged to take part in events that will enhance their community standing and recognition.

Muffler Organization Opens 67th Store

The recent opening of Victoria's Speedy Muffler King brings the total of the muffler centres owned by Jerry Mandel, and his partner Sel Serber, to 67. These two entrepreneurial young men opened their first shop in Toronto with an installer, minimum stock, pliers, torch and a far-seeing "customer-first" policy that was to become the touchstone of their future success.

By 1958 they had three stores in operation, and in 1960 a major decision was made to expand throughout Ontario and into Quebec. Centres were opened in Hamilton, London, Windsor, Sarnia, Kitchener and Montreal. By 1969 more stores had been opened and a decision was made to extend the company across Canada.

Total number of stores is now 67 and is expected to by 70 by the end of 1975, and 86 by the end of 1976. There are more than 400 employees. The company is presently investigating international expansion as well as diversification in the domestic market.

Along with its physical growth there has been continual progress in every other aspect of the business — store development, financial control, shop organization and personnel management which required more sophisticated techniques. Improved job methods were instituted to cut costs. Service was expanded to include the installation of shock absorbers, and constant studies and research were undertaken to determine what the future growth pattern of the company's service should be.

Early advertising tactics were ingenious — and inexpensive. A second-hand bread truck was painted bright orange, decorated with a muffler wearing a smile and a crown, and parked at strategic locations such as Maple Leaf Gardens and the Parliament Buildings. During week-ends the truck crisscrossed the city. In addition, posters were attached to garbage cans at key intersections such as College and Spadina, and Dundas and Jarvis.

In the nineteen years that followed, Speedy Muffler King has evolved into a skillful user of other media to imprint their advertising message.

POPULAR STYLE MUSIC FOR GRAND OPENING

A celebration will begin at 9 A.M. Saturday, Sept. 6th, when Jerry Mandel, President of Speedy Muffler King, will be present to officiate. A symbolic ribbon (formed by a welded muffler chain) will be cut with a torch by Hugh Curtis, MLA for Saanich and The Islands.

The attending public will enjoy a carnival atmosphere which will provide entertainment for all ages. There will be continuous tours of the shop and visitors will be given the opportunity to meet and talk with the installation experts, watch actual muffler installations and learn about the muffler problems that most car owners must face periodically.

Popular style music will be performed by a live band throughout the day. There will also be a day-long Frisbee target throwing contest in which visitors of all ages may participate, with a large variety of prizes to be awarded. Two Frisbee experts will demonstrate their skills throughout the day, and during the noon hour there will be a concert by a number of barbershop quartets.

Somebodies wanted for fun and games at Speedy Muffler King's grand opening.

Speedy Muffler King is having a very grand opening. We're kicking off with a lot of fun and games. And food. And prizes. And music. Come on in for free hot dogs, hamburgers and pop. See expert frisbee demonstrations and hear a great live band. You can rub elbows with local dignitaries or you could win a free muffler. One will be given away every hour. You can have it installed immediately, or later at your own convenience. Or you could win one of 500 "I'm a Somebody" T-shirts. Come and have a good time. Because...

Better Days Ahead

MONTREAL (CP) — There are indications a turnaround in the Canadian economy is approaching, the Bank of Montreal forecasts in its September Business Review.

But moderation in wage and cost increases must be attained if the recovery is to be sustained and long-range growth achieved, the bank warned.

The bank pointed to such positive economic indicators as a rise in the index of industrial production in June and a 10.5-per-cent increase in housing starts that month.

Also, the mid-year survey of capital spending intentions shows a real gain in construction, after price increases of more than 13 per cent, the bank said.

The bank did, however, express concern that unemployment remains high, that export prospects appear poor and wages increases continue to be large.

Canadian unit labor costs have been advancing significantly higher than in the United States, the bank said.

"Looking at the recent severe deterioration in Canada's merchandise trade balance in fully-processed goods, one suspects that our poor cost performance has been a factor."

The bank said this situation might continue to worsen unless rising wages and costs terminate their ascent.

Short Term Deposit Accounts Reap Another Interest Bonanza

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Investors are about to reap another fall bonanza of high interest rates for short term deposit accounts, according to a cross section of financial spokesmen.

Investors can get 8.75 per cent for six-month deposits already and this is expected to rise sharply in the next few weeks as the demand for money grows.

The rising interest rates, for loans as well as deposits, is the result of a shrinking supply of cash at the time the demand for money is rising. Cash is in short supply because banks are nearing the end of their fiscal year, which is traditionally Oct. 31. Many of them are running near the end of their allotment for loans of various types. This problem will be resolved by year's end when the new allotments take effect.

At the same time, the demand for loans is rising. Business loans, with traditionally account for 60 per cent of all Canadian borrowing, have increased sharply. This is seen as a renewal of confidence as the recession nears its end. Business loans in the second quarter rose 18 per cent after showing no increase for the previous six months.

Consumer loans also increased almost 18 per cent in the same period after an increase of only 7 per cent in the first quarter.

This heavy demand for money continues and comes at a time, as noted, when the supply of available cash is diminishing.

The Bank of Canada increased its lending rate to 9 per cent from 8.25 per cent as a signal to discourage this heavy amount of borrowing by business and consumers.

The effect, however, will be to increase all interest rates across the board, with the sharpest increases expected in short-term loans and deposits. Mortgage rates are expected to go to 12 per cent and corresponding 5-year term deposits to go to the range of 10 to 10.5 per cent.

The rising interest rates will affect the annual Canada Savings Bond sales once again. Last year the federal government was forced to pay a record 9.75 per cent and may have to pay more than 9 per cent again this year.

Bond rates are expected to be high and the demand good. There are few private issues planned but the federal government will be busy. It will be refinancing $430 million worth of bonds due Oct. 1 and is expected to seek additional funds.

The changed financial climate makes stock investments even less attractive than they have been this summer. Investors can be expected to sell some stocks and divert the funds to guaranteed investment certificates as deposit interest rates rise.

The bond market is expected to be good. Real estate will be adversely affected by the higher mortgage rate but the accompanying inflation spiral will add to real estate values.

Another round of sharp increases in house prices is expected when more mortgage funds become available, expected in January, and high ratio mortgages once again are generally available. The extent of the real estate market surge will depend upon the public's reaction to mortgage interest rates, expected to hold at about 12 per cent over the winter.

Hanging over the money market is the belief that another surge of double-digit inflation is ahead for Canada. In fact, the move by the Bank of Canada to raise interest rates is mainly to hold inflation in check.

Despite the government action, rather severe inflation is expected in early 1976.

Jannock-Acklands Merge Plan Dropped

TORONTO (CP) — The proposed amalgamation of Jannock Corp. Ltd. and Acklands Ltd. of Winnipeg has been terminated, it was announced today.

The board chairmen of both companies said the merger, proposed in June, whereby Jannock would buy Acklands common shares at $20 a share, was called off "for a number of reasons, including difficulties with indenture restrictions."

Acklands is a wholesale distributor of automotive parts, electronic and home entertainment equipment.

Jannock deals in sugar refining, fishing and fish processing and the manufacture and distribution of industrial products, primarily steel.

WESTERN MINES OPTION

VANCOUVER (CP) — W. R. Grace and Co. of New York has given Shield Development Ltd., controlled by Pat Sheridan of Toronto, an option on its 24.8 per cent interest in Vancouver-based Western Mines Ltd.

The Shield option is for 1.2 million shares of Western which must be bought before Dec. 1 this year and will cost $3.04 (U.S.) a share.

Sheridan said Thursday in a telephone interview from Minnesota that he is sure the Sheridan Geophysics group of companies will be able to raise the money without selling more stock.

R. O. Hampton, secretary treasurer of Western, said he did not know why W. R. Grace is selling the shares, but he guessed investment conditions in Canada were the reason.

Sheridan said he is buying because Western has sound management, a good mine and some good prospects, and added "we've been working on this for a long time."

The Western shares now have an asset value of $1.85 a share. The shares traded at $2.39 in Toronto Wednesday, up 27 cents.

U.S. Firm Finds Oil In North Sea

LONDON (Reuter) — A subsidiary of the Continental Oil Co. of the United States has announced an oil discovery in the British sector of the North Sea, 90 miles northeast of the Shetland Islands.

Conoco North Sea Inc. said that a test well flowed at a rate of 8,700 barrels a day, the maximum capacity of the equipment used.

The statement said further wells will be needed to determine the size and commercial significance of the find. It is the same geological belt as the productive Brent, Thistle and Dunlin fields as well as the Stratfjord field in the Norwegian sector, all of which are within 25 miles of the latest discovery.

Conoco is operator for a group which also includes Gulf Oil Co. Eastern Hemisphere and Britain's National Coal Board, each of which has a one-third interest in the block.

John Dean Park Draws Visitors' Praise

The Parks Around Us

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The only park outside Goldstream where a mature Douglas fir stand can be seen on the Saanich peninsula appears to be in John Dean Provincial Park in Central Saanich.

This seems to be the main reason so many visitors from eastern Canada appreciate the park. Every year, the parks branch receives letters praising the trail system and scenic views of the Gulf Islands from vantage points around the mount.

Actually, most of the trees are second growth. The few original Douglas fir are between 250 and 350 years old—not to be compared with the giants of Cathedral Grove on the Port Alberni highway. But they were already tall trees when people first settled on the Saanich peninsula.

There would be no John Dean Park but for the generosity of a few citizens. All the land in the 382-acre park was donated to the provincial government.

John Dean, a pioneer Saanich resident who lived in what is now the park, started the ball rolling by donating 80 acres in 1921.

In 1939, a Saanich resident, A. Colin, turned over 2.7 acres and provided a right-of-way to the park.

In 1959, the late Mrs. W. C. Woodward donated 83 acres and in the same year, Stanley Pickles, a former Central Saanich mayor, gave 20 acres.

The last donation was in 1960 when Barret Montefort, a wealthy American, donated 167 acres.

Montefort would have donated additional land adjacent to the park, but the opportunity was lost because provincial authorities showed a lack of interest. There was no demand then for "open space."

Subdivisions are now mushrooming around the park and it will be more and more appreciated as the population expands in the northern half of the peninsula. It is heavily used now by walkers and equestrians.

'THIS IS HOT LIPS . . .

DALLAS (AP)—"Good morning world. This is Hot Lips, and I'm ready for you," a female voice proclaims on citizens band radio.

Hot Lips is one of an undertermined number of prostitutes using the air waves to drum up business, federal authorities say.

Carl Pyron district supervisor for the United States Federal Communications Commission, said his office has "had a number of complaints about this."

Pyron said prostitutes invited listeners, many of them truck drivers, to meet at a codenamed motel for "fun and games."

Indian Land Problems 'Horrendous'

Horrendous legal problems still stand in the way of a final agreement between the provincial government and 22 Indian bands over the cutoff lands dispute, Frank Howard, the provincial Indian affairs adviser, said Thursday.

Howard, said the major problem is that when provincial crown land is transferred to the Indian bands, it automatically comes under the control of the federal Indian affairs department and "not all the bands want this."

He said in some cases it would be possible to bypass the Indian Act because no legal agreement for the transfer is required.

"A real accord and understanding has been reached on this issue," said Howard.

'Ethics in Vacuum, Justice in Chaos'

GENEVA (CP) — The criminal justice system must be rooted in morality and based on reason if it is to retain public support, the fifth United Nations congress on crime was told today.

W. T. McGrath, executive director of the Canadian Criminology and Corrections Association, suggested that the Canadian system is in chaos because of an ethical vacuum.

"I suspect that certain forms of petty theft are now so common in Canada that they no longer shock the public and, unless this change in attitudes can be reversed, we may be forced to consider them regulatory offences," he said in a prepared speech released in advance of delivery.

"I doubt if many Canadians would be embarrassed if convicted of smuggling goods across the border, or income tax evasion, of pilfering from an employer, or cheating the public insurance or public welfare system, or even graft, although they would, no doubt, regret any penalty they were forced to pay.

"It should be noted that in all these offences the victim is the government or a coporation rather than an individual."

McGrath said religion had proved too narrow a basis for criminal justice but in rejecting it, Canada also had rejected morality.

"The result is a confusion of aims, policies and practices that borders on chaos."

The most notable exception to the tendency to play down moral factors was in the area of prisoners' rights. One result was the erosion of authority of prison staffs, who no longer knew what they were supposed to be doing.

"All of this discussion of morality puts the emphasis on rights," McGrath said. "None of it puts the emphasis on responsibilities."

Many prisoners had been convinced by "a twisted version of social science" that they weren't responsible for what they had done.

This raised the moral question of free will. If an individual was simply the product of his heredity and environment, the implications for punishment and treatment were obvious.

"If the individual is a robot then it is unjust and unreasonable to punish him and such forced therapies as lobotomy and conditioning may be the only effective forms of treatment," McGrath said.

"If he does have the power of self-determination then punishment may be justified, at least if it has a salutory effect on future behavior, and treatment should aim at developing self-control."

Ethical considerations were international as well. What role would the criminal law play in dealing with world over-population?

"The experts tell us there soon will be more people on Earth than our food supply and our environment will sustain," he noted. "Voluntary restraints are obviously not working and coercion may be necessary."

McGrath suggested development of a citizens' code of responsibility in criminal justice to provide the moral underpinning that had been lost.

He also proposed development of a code of ethics for the media — "a code that might include some guides towards the control of violence displayed through the media."

He said there was serious dangers in applying sin as the measure of a crime.

Cabinet Rejects Plea Over Deer

A provincial cabinet committee has rejected an appeal by environmentalists against the location of a road which will cut through deer ranging area near the Pend D'Oreille River dam site.

Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich said Thursday the committee's decision will allow B.C. Hydro to proceed with construction of a road on the north side of the river and to continue with improvements to the temporary road on the same side of the river.

The fish and wildlife branch and the Trail Wildlife Association were appealing the location of the road, saying it should be built instead on the south side.

In rejecting the appeal, the cabinet committee ruled that Hydro must spend $1.8 million trying to mitigate the effects of the road on the wintering grounds for white-tailed deer in the area.

Stupich said the alternative to the north side route would also have been cheaper and easier to build but the people in the area, northeast of Trail, had already successfully opposed that construction route because of the traffic and water supply problems it would cause.

"The people had already pressured against it and we didn't want to make it look like Hydro had pushed us into reversing that decision," said Stupich.

Upgrading of the temporay road has begun and the contract for the new road has been let.

The dam itself will cost $500 million to construct.

CAR SALES OFF 5%

OTTAWA (CP) — New motor vehicle sales dropped five per cent during the first six months of this year from the comparable 1974 period to 654,062 units, statistics Canada reports.

The value of these sales, which includes both cars and commercial vehicles, rose 9.3 per cent to $3.5 billion because of higher prices.

Sales during June were up four per cent from a year earlier. This included a fractional nine-tenths of one per cent rise in car sales to 84,123, and a strong surge in sales of commercial vehicles to 32,212, an 18 per cent rise from June, 1974.

Lacrosse: No Kudos For The Commissioner

The lacrosse season, locally at least, came to an abrupt end Wednesday night on two fronts — at Esquimalt where Victoria Shamrocks went down to Vancouver Burrards in the Western Lacrosse League final and at New Westminster where Burnaby Cablevision eliminated McDonalds in the Western Major Junior "A" final.

Neither city club should have reason to apologize for their defeats. Both were beaten by better clubs, narrowly in seven games in the case of McDonalds, and perhaps surprisingly so far as Shamrocks were concerned in that Burrards only took five games to wrap up the championship.

Still, Shamrock coach Archie Browning was pleased with his club's performance this season.. "You have to give our guys credit," he said. "They came back from a last-place finish last year to be the playoff finalist this year and I'm proud of them."

Obviously he felt there were some mitigating factors in the defeat by Burrards even though conceding that perhaps the better team won. "They beat us on the floor tonight," he said. "So we have no excuses." Then he explained that if some of the Shamrocks were below par that could have had a bearing on the final result. Mike Beaulac, for one, was only at half efficiency in the finals because of a bruised back — and that bruise may be a record for size. It is a brilliant black and blue and extends right across his buttocks; and how he could even play let alone run, is deserving of commendation. Ron McNeill lost 20 pounds in weight from the start of the season . . . Jeevan Dillon was out with a broken thumb . . . Jim Browne went home to attend university . . . and so on.

On the other hand the Rocks really shouldn't have been in the position they found themselves Wednesday, on the brink of elimination. They lost the first game at home through sheer carelessness when they gave up a three-goal lead late in the game and then they dropped the second contest by one goal in Vancouver in a game "we could have won," said Browning. Wednesday, in the finale, the main fault was a horrendous first period and over much of the second as well — one goal in 17 minutes isn't conducive to winning championships — and if that put the Irish behind the eight ball they did make a determined bid, getting close at 8-6 and again at 9-7. But the effort was too much and Burrards were pulling away at the finish.

The series was rough and the checking on both sides punishing indeed; and if the hated Ward Sanderson was the villain of the piece, particularly for his unprovoked attack on Beaulac in the third game (following as it did two other such incidents during the season), it was a situation that commissioner Colin Cruickshank didn't handle well. A one-game suspension for a third serious violation of the rules was much too light a penalty, whether it was Sanderson or Joe Schultz, especially when the same commissioner issued an ultimatum to McNeill of the Rocks when he chopped a player across the head that a further incident would bring a life suspension. He would see to it. By the same token, Sanderson was equally culpable. The commissioner knew it and he blew it.

Maybe it's unfair to compare the two incidents because things happen on a lacrosse floor that the average onlooker is not aware of. But three times should have been out for Sanderson, the last two alone being reason enough after the first when Cruickshank gave the Burrard muscle man a warning. Or so he said.

So he reneged on his trust. He also got Shamrock officials up tight for whatever reasons early in the season and they were still vindictive late Wednesday. Their final vent was against the policy of allowing senior teams to pick up junior players, how many nobody seemed to know or was prepared to say, for the senior playoffs.

Burrards used several juniors in the games against the Rocks, all coming from their associated team, Richmond Roadrunners, and it was the youngsters who made the difference. Rico Bellusci, in particular, and Joe Marello were positively great in Wednesday's game and along with veteran Bob Salt killed many penalties to perfection blunting several odd-man Shamrocks chances. Their method was simple. They wouldn't give the Shamrocks the ball.

At any rate, Burrards used the rules to the hilt and Shamrock directors, though not offering this complaint as "sour grapes," thought it a little unfair particularly as their junior club, McDonalds, was still engaged in the junior playoffs and thus had no players available to them.

In other words the senior final could well have been decided by the junior semi-final between McDonalds and Roadrunners. When the Roadrunners were eliminated that virtually put Burrards in the Mann Cup. The inference too was that Cruickshank had changed the rules at his own whim and everything favored the mainlanders. Which may not be wholly true because it was also explained by a Burrard official that every team was informed of what could, and could not be done, and that junior players from New Westminster and Coquitlam were available to the Shamrocks, so there could be no complaint on that charge.

And that's the way the senior season ended, in acrimony and dispute. The bickering was still going on in the corridors as the players dressed, Burrards to play again in the Mann Cup final, the Shamrocks through for this year, their 26th; and the commissioner, lord of all he surveyed through the year, standing idly by and being virtually ignored, especially by the Shamrock directors with whom he had been at loggerheads all season. Or they with him.

Surely, there must be a better way.

Liske Gets the Lions To Roar for Murphy

British Columbia Lions made Murphy's debut a happy one Thursday night when Liske directed the Lions to four secondhalf touchdowns for a 29-17 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers before 17,073 fans at Empire Stadium.

Liske was the author of the come-from-behind performance of the Lions, who trailed 9-1 at halftime. He threw three touchdown passes and called a near flawless game during the final 30 minutes.

Liske threw scoring passes of 58 yards to Ross Clarkson, 53 yards to Terry Bailey and 51 yards to Jim Young. Lou Harris scored the other B.C. major on a 36-yard run which started the Lions' comeback early in the third quarter.

"There were some holes in the Winnipeg defence," said Liske, "but Lou (Harris) did most of the work himself.

"On the touchdown they hit him in the hole and he still broke the tackle and went the distance."

Harris finished the game with 142 yards rushing on 20 carries, by far his best performance of the 1975 season.

John Wintermeyer completed the B.C. scoring by kicking two converts and a single on a missed field goal from the 30-yard line.

Place-kicker Bernie Ruoff led the Blue Bombers with 11 points on three first-half field goals, a single on a 52-yard punt and a convert. The only Winnipeg major came on a 49-yard pass from Chuck Eatley to running back Steve Beaird.

Murphy, wo took over as head coach a week ago when club directors fired Eagle Keys, thanked the players for their performance.

The Lions, who had a total offence of only 78 yards in the first half, finished the game with a net offence of 491 yards as they gained momentum during the third quarter and continued to play well in the fourth.

Liske hit on 12 of 21 passes for 310 yards. Four of the passes were to Ross Clarkson for 116 yards and three more to Young for 89 yards.

The Lions lost rookie defensive back Doug Carlson with a broken arm in the third quarter when Carlson tackled Beaird on a kickoff return. Carlson had been activated before the game when Brock Aynsley was placed on the injured reserve list.

DOUG PEDEN - EDITOR

McDill a Cougar? It Looks Like It

Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League were expected to announce a major pre-season acquisition today.

He's Jeff McDill, a winger who had previous WCHL experience with Flin Flon Bombers.

Details of the acquisition were to be announced this afternoon at a press conference called by manager-coach Pat Ginnell of the Cougars.

McDill scored 24 goals and 44 assists in 46 games with Flin Flon last season. He had enrolled at the University of Victoria, and Ginnell confirmed earlier this week he was attempting to make a deal for McDill.

Ginnell obviously was successful in dealing with Bombers. The tipoff came when Ginnell called today's press conference along with the fact that arrangements were made Thursday to introduce McDill to Saturday night's crowd at Western Speedway's stock car races.

McDill will give Cougars a sixth proven forward. Victoria's holdover forwards are Dan Lucas, Curt Fraser, Rick Peter, Jim Gustafson and Al Hill. Gustafson and Hill, both centres, will be among the four over-age players each WCHL club will be allowed to carry this season.

TITLE CHANCE FOR ESQUIMALT

EDMONTON — Esquimalt Juniors and Edmonton Blues will meet today in the Western Canada junior "B" lacrosse final.

Esquimalt advanced to the final with a 29-5 win over Saskatchewan Thursday while the Alberta club trounced Manitoba 26-6.

Winner of the Western final will advance to the Canadian final at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Jim Fisher and Bill Bendall combined for 24 saves for the Island club.

In other games, Ontario mauled New Brunswick 50-3 and Nova Scotia defeated Quebec 17-4.

CANADA 200

No Problem For Allison

Bobby Allison, one of stock car racing's million-dollar winners, arrives in Victoria tomorrow morning to prepare for Saturday night's running of the Canada 200 at Western Speedway.

The first thing he plans is a practice tour of the track to determine the handling capability of the car he will drive — Dick Midgley's 1974 Chevelle.

Some work is needed to adjust the suspension to Allison's liking, but that shouldn't take long. Allison himself designed the suspension that is installed in the car.

That's one thing Allison has going for him in the 200-lap open stock feature that is expected to draw in excess of 5,500 fans. More than 2,000 advance tickets have already been sold and additional seating at the Speedway, boosting capacity to 5,500, will be completed by tonight.

Allison has an impressive performance record. He has just come off a victory in the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., last Monday. He also has several appearances at the Indianapolis 500 and a string of NASCAR and modified championships to his credit.

He's far from a shoo-in Saturday, however, because he's up against what is probably the most impressive stock car field of the year in the Pacific Northwest.

Top out-of-town campaigners going against him include Don Dowdy of Yakima in a 1972 Plymouth, the defending NASCAR northwest champion and a third-place finisher in last year's Canada 200. There is also Ron Eaton of Tacoma in a '70 Chevelle, this year's International Drivers' Challenge champion, and Don Harper of Ashland, Ore., in a 1975 Camero.

Harper crashed his car last Monday at Portland, but worked on it two straight nights and was scheduled to arrive in town today with the car ready to go again.

Local drivers include the first Canada 200 winner, Ross Surgenor in a '69 Torino; Gary Kershaw, last year's superstock champion at Western and winner of the 1973 Canada 200; Roy Haslam in a '65 Chevelle, who was second in this year's IDC series; Rick O'Dell in a '69 Chevelle, another consistent open competition winner, and Larry Pollard, winner of the last two Carling open series races in a row at Western in his '68 Chevelle.

The race, which requires each driver to make one mandatory pit stop, offers a purse of $7,500, largest ever at Western, with $1,500 to the winner, $1,200 for second place and $900 for third.

It will also be the final race in the Carling open series in which the top 15 drivers will share a $3,000 points fund. A total of $700 will go to Haslam, who has already clinched first place.

Twenty-four cars will qualify for the main event. Gates open at 4 p.m., time trials begin at 6:30 and racing starts at 8:30.

Roy Haslam, Victoria	831
Gary Kershaw, Victoria	687
Rick O'Dell, Victoria	651
George Stuart, Campbell River	623
Larry Pollard, Victoria	478

STREAKING MARLIES GET BREAK

TORONTO (CP) — Three players with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series who ran naked through a tavern at Ontario Place in May did it more as a prank than as a crime, a Crown attorney said.

Brian Johnston said he decided last week to drop the charges of indecent exposure against Michael Elwin Kitchen, 19, of Shomberg, Ont., Mark Napier, 18, and Eruce Boudreau, 20, both of Toronto because a trial might have hurt their careers.

He said he made the decision on the advice of detectives and the York County Crown attorney's office after he was told the three had gone back to the restaurant and apoligized.

Borg, Leg Cramps Eliminate Dibbs

Times News Service

It was a tired Bjorn Borg who advanced into the men's semi-finals of the United States open tennis championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

"I was very lucky," Borg, Sweden's 19-year-old golden boy, said Thursday after surviving a two-hour, 55-minute marathon against unseeded Eddie Dibbs of the U.S., 6-4, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6.

Dibbs got leg cramps midway through the match and could hardly stay on his feet as Borg swept through the final tiebreaker, seven points to one.

Borg will meet defending champion and top-seeded Jimmy Connors, a 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 winner over Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia, in one semi-final Saturday.

The other semi-final will feature Guillermo Vilas of Argentine and Manuel Orantes of Spain. Vilas downed Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 6-0, 6-1 while Orantes beat Ilie Nastase of Rumania, 6-2, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

In today's women's semi-final pairings, No. 1 seed Chris Evert takes on Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia and Virgina Wade of Great Britain plays Evonne Goolagong of Autstalia.

Early-Week Sport Catches Scuttled By Net Fishing

Sports salmon fishing success declined sharply in Juan de Fuca Strait waters after the commercial netting operations began along the Sheringham Point boundary Monday morning.

The nets were lifted Wednesday morning but went back down at 7 a.m. today. Commercial fishing will continue until 7 a.m. Sunday with gillnetters working nights and seiners working days. Reports indicate the catch is far from fantastic.

So weekend prospects don't look too great.

Allan Roberts managed to land a 40-pound chinook Monday while trolling a hootchie en route from Secretary Island to Sooke Harbor and Harry Atkey boated a 17½-pound coho Sunday at Secretary Island. These were the top fish out of a catch that included pinks to 16 pounds — all taken near Secretary before the nets went up.

Chinooks to 21 pounds, coho to 12 and pinks to 11 form the return off Church Island, Beford Island and the old trap shack near Beechey Head. Strip, anchovies and hootchies are the best producers.

Despite the drop in success Tuesday, Martin Trowsdale managed to catch a 40-pounder while trolling with a green hootchie, 12 ounces of weight and around 150 feet of line along the Pedder Bay kelp bed. Pinks and a few large coho form the balance of the return.

The best fish story arising in Pedder Bay occurred last Friday when two 14-year-olds went fishing without a net or gaff. Rob Tokarchuk of Calgary hooked into a 26½-pounder, his first salmon. John Wilson had to bring it into the boat by sticking a hand through one gill cover before hoisting it over the side. Talk about beginner's luck.

Things started to pick up Wednesday night off the Greater Victoria waterfront after three slow days. Charlie Fairall came in that night with a 14:10 coho taken with a green and white hootchie right over Brotchie Ledge and John Cashin landed a 29-pound chinook on strip off Macaulay Point.

The pinks, which seem to be schooling up right now en route to the rivers, weren't showing Wednesday.

Best success was noted by fishermen using about two pounds of lead and around 60 feet of line.

Action off Oak Bay has switched from Trial Island to Chain Island and The Flats with chinooks averaging nine pounds, pinks to eight pounds and coho to 13½ coming in on strip and green-colored lures.

Up Deep Cove way, fishermen using two ounces of weight and a flashtail or mooching with stingsildas or buzz bombs are picking up a "fifty-fifty" catch of chinooks to 20 pounds and coho to 15 in front of Wain Rock. Strip trolled with six to eight ounces of lead has also been productive.

Coho averaging seven pounds, chinooks averaging 14 pounds and a lot of small grilse are being caught in Indian Bay and off the Bamberton shoreline in Saanich Inlet.

In Finlayson Arm, strip and hootchies worked very deep are hauling in good numbers of chinooks, topping off at 10 pounds, along with coho, averaging six or seven pounds.

The Cowichan Bay fishing boundary is now up and chinooks to 24 pounds have been boated by fishermen working right along it in the evening. Separation Point, where Bob Hale Sr. landed a 40-pounder while mooching Monday, might also be a good bet.

Burial Island waters are yielding lots of small fish, Porlier Pass was reported excellent by those fishing deep with hootchies and few coho are showing up in Sansum Narrows.

Nanaimo fishing is very slow but coho action is getting hot off Lasquieti Island, Point Holmes and the south end of Hornby Island. These fish, weighing as much as 14 pounds, have been nailing purple-and-white or grey ghost bucktails and buzz bombs.

Cape Mudge, Willow Point and Menzies Bay are yielding excellent catches of coho averaging eight pounds on all-white, grey ghost, purple-and-white or blue-and-white bucktails. Others trolling a four-inch jack herring, right on the surface at a slower speed than you would use for a bucktail are also connecting.

For the trout angler, only a few bright spots exist this week although the cooler weather should start to promote some better catches in the not-too-distant future.

Both Cowichan River and Cowichan Lake are giving up some fair returns and Great Central Lake has been mentioned as a good choice.

Trout up to 20 inches in length are coming out of the Courtenay River, some of the Forbidden Plateau Lakes are still good and the mouth of the Elk River in Upper Campbell Lake is starting to produce.

Some good opening-weekend bags of grouse were taken by hunters working the Copper Canyon, Nanaimo River, Browns River and Comox Lake regions.

NIBBLES: Parkland High School will be the site of two outdoor-oriented adult education courses conducted by Charlie White this fall ... Each costs $12 and runs one night per week for five weeks ... One on salmon fishing starts Sept. 11 ... It covers all aspects and methods of the sport but emphasizes the use of a down-rigger ... Guest lecturers will include Rhys Davis and Bruce Colgrave ... The other, entitled Living Off the Sea, starts Sept. 10 and covers crabbing, gathering shellfish and catching bottom-fish ... It also takes in the best methods of preparation and might possibly include some taste-telling ... Further information on either or both courses is available by contacting Frank Baxter of the Saanich School Board at 656-1111.

Australian Leading

INZAI, Japan (AP) — Brian Jones of Australia fired a course record 64, eight under par, Thursday to grab the first round lead in the $100,000 Suntory golf tournament. Jones held a one-stroke lead over Minoru Kawakami of Japan.

Two Share Golf Lead

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Mac McLendon and John Schroeder, a pair of young veterans who have had their problems recently on the tour, share the lead entering today's second round of the $100,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

McLendon, a 30-year-old veteran of eight years on the tour, and Schroeder, 29, with six years on the tour, mastered the Green Island Country Club course Thursday with 65s five under par. That was good enough for a one-shot advantage over Terry Dill and Leonard Thompson.

Red Sox Like Their Chances Now

By The Associated Press

Remember how Boston Red Sox were supposed to fade in the stretch? As soon as they started to feel the pennant pressure in September, critics claimed, the Red Sox would fold like an accordion.

Well, consider this: Boston's magic number is 18.

"It'll be tough for them to catch us now," said Boston rookie Fred Lynn, echoing a tone of confidence heard in all corners of the Red Sox' locker room after they beat Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Thursday night to complete a sweep of their two-game series.

"You never really think you're in until it's clinched," said Red Sox veteran Carl Yastrzemski, "but I kind of like our situation now."

Boston's situation, which is looking better and better, is this: the Red Sox have opened an eight-game bulge over the Orioles in the American League East, and with 25 games left to play, any combination of 18 Boston victories or Baltimore defeats will mean a division flag for Boston.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City Royals blanked Chicago White Sox 7-0, New York Yankees beat Detroit Tigers 8-1, Cleveland Indians outscored Milwaukee Brewers 10-5 and California Angels defeated Texas Rangers 6-4.

In the National League, lefthander Doug Rau won his 13th game to lead Los Angeles to a 3-2 decision over Cincinnati Reds.

"You've got to have pride," said Rau, whose Dodgers are a hopeless 18½ games behind the Reds in the National League West. "It means a lot to me. At this stage of the season, beating a team that's won 92 games is pleasing."

In the only other National League games, Atlanta Braves edged San Diego Padres 2-1 and San Francisco Giants beat Houston Astros 2-1.

With Luis Tiant a late scratch because of muscle spasms in his back, Boston manager Darrell Johnson decided two Red Sox pitchers might do the job of one. So he split the mound time between Dick Pole and Dick Drago, and the result was a five-hitter.

Frank White drove in three runs and Paul Splittorff pitched a seven hitter to lead Kansas City past Chicago. Thurman Munson drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Rudy May, 12-10, tossed a five-hitter for the Yankees, who broke the game open with five runs in the fifth inning off Ray Bare, 8-10.

Joe Lis slammed a three-run homer and got another RBI on a sacrifice fly to pace the Cleveland attack. It was only Lis' second game since being promoted from Oklahoma City.

Lee Stanton belted a two-run homer, his 14th of the season, and then capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning with a three-run double to fuel California's victory. Jeff Burroughs belted his 24th home run and Joe Lovitto his first for Texas.

Cup Game Opens Soccer Season

Play in a greatly expanded Vancouver Island Soccer League begins Sunday with an opening match in the annual single-loss elimnation McGavin Cup competiton.

Usually a league may expand by a team or two, but the Island League has 11 more teams and a whole new division this season, bringing the total to 43 teams in four divisions.

Cosmopolitan Royals and Gorge Molsons meet Sunday at 2:15 p.m. in Heywood Avenue Park. Other teams in the Premier Divison, with the exception of Powell River, will play McGavin Cup matches Sept. 13-14.

The semi-finals are scheduled for Sept. 16 and 23 at Royal Athletic Park and the final will be staged Sept. 30 at the same field.

All proceeds from the cup competition go into the injured players fund.

London Boxing Club, which won the league, provincial and Canadian championships last season, must be considered the team to beat in the Premier Division this year, but its strongest opponent will likely be the University of Victoria Vikings.

However, UVic coach Brian Hughes won't know the exact makeup of his team until registrations are complete later this month.

Among the other top contenders are Cosmopolitan Royals, who will have 1973-74 scoring champion Rudi Kuebler back in the lieup after a year's absence; Gorge Molsons, who have regained the services of George Hyne and Mark Robb; Nanaimo City ,which will have Ike McKay as player-coach; and Gorge United (nee Island Pacific Oilers), which will have British and North American League professional Bruce Twamley as coach.

Oilers won the second division championship last season and gained promotion while Propect Lake was relegated.

Victoria West, Powell River, Oak Bay and Duncan, the other Premier squads, are all reported to be stronger this season.

The second, third and fourth divisions begin their regular season Sept. 14. In addition to Victoria-area clubs, the new fourth division includes teams from Sooke, Duncan, Juan de Fuca and Saanich Peninsula.

Thompson Sparkles In Bolts' Triumph

MONTREAL (CP) — Boston Bolts struck for five goals in the third period Thursday night and defeated Montreal Quebecois, 9-7, to even their best-of-seven National Lacrosse League semi-final at 1-1.

Ivan Thompson scored three goals for the Bolts including the game winner at 16:12 of the third period.

Dave Tasker scored four goals for Montreal, three in the first period as the Quebecois moved into a 5-2 lead.

A crowd of 4241 saw Boston outshoot Montreal by 46-44.

The series resumes Saturday night in Boston. Tonight, Long Island Tomahawks play host to Quebec Caribous in the second game of their series. The Tomahawks won the opening game, 19-13, Wednesday night.

Canadians Win Second Straight

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — The Canadian men's field hockey team posted its second win in as many starts on its current New Zealand tour Thursday, scoring three second-half goals to beat a Hutt Valley club side, 3-1. The Canadians opened their tour with a 4-1 win earlier this week over another club team.

Canada Beaten

City 'Playing Politics On Law Enforcement'

Victoria Times
FRIDAY, SEPT. 5, 1975 17
SECOND SECTION

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Phil Jamieson, president of the B.C. Federation of Peace Officers, today accused Victoria city council of "playing politics with law enforcement," by refusing to acknowledge a contract worked out between the Victoria police board and the city policemen's union.

Jamieson, a Saanich constable, said in a lengthy statement federation members are "appalled at the outrageous stand" adopted by council in trying to quash the legal rights of both the police board and the union.

He noted that the board and the union had duly concluded an agreement as required by the B.C. Police Act, but that under the guise of protecting city taxpayers council had suddenly decided, "like Peter Pan in Never Never Land, to evade its moral, legal and ethical responsibility to its citizens, its police board and its own police officers."

Jamieson said council seems to have renewed its traditional tactics of trying to deprive police officers of their rights, by "quibbling and bickering" over fundamental conditions of employment that have been settled everywhere else.

"They are trying to make the Victoria city police force the lowest paid in Western Canada," he said. "The fact that they attempt this year after year, apart from being unfair to the policemen and their families, is also pure bad management and cannot help but be totally demoralizing and have a tragic effect on law enforcement."

It is not surprising, he added, that provincial legislators sought a separation of powers "to negate political opportunism on the part of councils by clearly defining the responsibilities of council and police boards."

Jamieson said council's refusal to approve the police board's wage offer to the union—a 22.3 per cent increase which would have put city policemen on a par with Saanich policemen — was "a clear attempt to thwart the police board, the collective bargaining system, the provincial Labor Code and the Police Act.

"We are dismayed by this action and its support by Oak Bay council, who are clearly acting as agent provocateurs," he said, in pledging the federation's support for city policemen and calling for similar public support.

At the request of the police union, the Labor Relations Board will hold a hearing in Vancouver Tuesday to rule on the union's claim that it has a valid collective agreement with the Victoria police board, and that the agreement is binding on the city.

On Thursday, city council appointed Vancouver lawyer Jack Giles to represent the city at the hearing.

Bourque 'Way Out Of Line'

The head of the Saanich firefighters union denied today there is any possibility that the fire department will not respond to calls during current negotiations.

Ken Ebbs-Canavan, president of local 967 said Ald. Joe Bourque, chairman of council's fire and civil defence committee, was "out of line" in suggesting such a possibility.

"We have a two-year contract that doesn't expire until Dec. 31," Ebbs-Canavan said, "Ald. Bourque is so far out of line. We explicitly explained what our position will be."

Ebbs-Canavan said he and other representatives of the union met with Bourque, Mayor Ed Lum and others about two weeks ago to explain the union's position.

"We have a mutual aid plan between ourselves and the city. We told them we would respond to calls in the city, in the event of a strike (by city firefighters) until such time as a picket line was established," Ebbs-Canavan said.

Ebbs-Canavan said this action is necessary to avoid turning Saanich firefighters into "professional strike breakers" in such a situation.

Bourque raised the issue at a meeting of his committee Wednesday night, stating that if a building was allowed to burn down it was imperative to find out who would be legally responsible — the municipality or the union.

Mayor Ed Lum said today Bourque had not "done his homework" and was merely seeking publicity through the media.

"I'm greatly disturbed. Ald. Bourque is up for re-election and trying to create something to get his name in the paper," he said.

"It also disturbs me that Ald. Bourque has not done his homework in this case. He's chairman of that committee and should know what's going on in that department."

Rental units at 2405 Chambers are expected to be completed by November

Gov't Rentals List Grows

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victorians can still apply for the 24 provincial government-subsidized rental units which will be available this fall — but getting accepted won't be easy.

"There is still time to apply although we have a long waiting list," said Al Stein, Vancouver Island manager for B.C. Housing Management Commission.

"The units will be allocated later this month on the basis of who has the greatest need."

Anyone may apply but those families with only moderate income stand the best chance of being accepted. The units are located in two townhouse developments of 12 apartments each at 2405 Chambers and 1209 Bay St.

They are two and three-bedroom units.

The rent is a flat 25 per cent of adjusted income. The adjustment involves a complicated formula but includes a subtraction of $100 off the top. For example, a family with monthly income of $900 could be considered to have an adjusted income of $800 and would pay rent at 25 per cent of $800, or $200 per month.

"The main factor in our decision, however, is not income but urgency of need," Stein said.

For example, a family being evicted will have a very high priority, regardless of income. In addition, a family living in unsuitable housing will have a higher priority than another family living in fairly attractive housing at the present time.

Whether housing is attractive involves such factors as size, location, rent and condition of the unit.

Stein said anyone interested in the government-subsidized units may apply at the office of B.C. Housing Management Commission, 3400 Douglas, or phone 382-8742 for application forms. Those not accepted for the present 24 units will go on the waiting list for 200 similar units that are expected to become available on the Island in 1976. All rental units are newly constructed.

Tentative opening date for the Bay St. townhouses is October and for the Chambers project November.

The commission already has 500 similar units completed and rented on Vancouver Island.

While the project is supervised by the provincial government, it is financed jointly by three levels of governments.

He Didn't Even Open His Mouth

Twice in quick succession Esquimalt MLA Jim Gorst was curtly silenced before he had even started to address Victoria city council on Thursday.

Gorst wasn't at the council meeting, but deputy clerk Terry Durshel started to read two letters from the MLA to the city, concerning new provincial grants to municipalities.

Before she had even reached the "Dear Sirs" stage in either letter, Ald. Mike Young abruptly moved the traditional "received and filed" motion.

Aldermen voted accordingly, grinned, and moved on to the next item of business.

Ask The Times

Q. Some years ago Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce ran a series of Sherlock Holmes on television. Would you advise me of the network and where I can write for a repeat of this most excellent program? P. T.

A. The films were made during the late 1930s and early 1940s and are aired on late night television individually. However, there is a series of British-produced mysteries entitled, The Rivals of Sherlock Holmes, which are aired on PBS and are due for repeat telecasts beginning Thursday, September 9 at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

Q. Do pickles and relishes contain nourishment?—W.B.

A. These items are of very little nutritional value. With dill pickles, for example, calories and protien content are minimal. We don't suggest you subsist on a diet of pickles and relishes.

Teacher Sees Value In Language Diversity

By HOI-YIN DER
Times Staff

A man who knows more than one language has a better understanding of the world, says the new head teacher at the Chinese School on Fisgard Street.

"I know very little about Victoria," said Anderson Sui-kwun Ku, who arrived from Hong Kong a month and a half ago, "but I have heard that there are many Chinese children who cannot read or write their own native tongue, that they are dropping out of Chinese school because it is boring or because they are being ridiculed . . ."

"Language is the key to knowledge and I feel there is much to offer the children in Chinese writings."

The Chinese Consolidated Benevolent School, as it is called, has two hours of classes Mondays through to Fridays for 90 regular school students from grades one to six.

Ku, who has 23 years teaching experience, will be setting the curriculum and teaching grades five and six.

Ku, who holds a masters degree in Chinese Literature and History from Hong Kong University, was secretary-general of the Hong Kong Teachers' Association from 1970-72 and president from 1972-74.

He had also worked in educational television.

The 45-year-old teacher said in an interview this week that he had emigrated from Hong Kong to forge a new and better life for himself and his family.

Ku said he came directly to Victoria because he had heard it is a beautiful and serene city and a good place for his children to grow up.

Since his arrival, Ku has also found employment as a Chinese teacher at Camosun College and has moved his family into a home at 1697 Foul Bay Road.

He has three children: Angela, 16; Alex, 15 and Margaret, 11. They all speak English fluently, as does their mother Monica, and have found transition into the Canadian way of life easy.

"The only thing we miss is the great variety of Chinese foods in Hong Kong and the afternoon teas and delicacies," Ku said.

But there is so much more security in life here, he said, explaining that Victoria lacks the criminal element of Hong Kong.

KU
. . . 'key to knowledge

"My family cannot even walk the streets without being afraid of being attacked by hoodlums," he said. "Here we can go for strolls, enjoy the night air and sense of peace."

He said that in Hong Kong, entrances of homes have at least two iron doors and iron bars girding the windows.

"I haven't seen any bars since I've arrived here," he said with relief.

Ku said another reason he left Hong Kong was so he could be with his children when they reach the age for university.

In Hong Kong there are only two universities. Seventy thousand high school graduates apply for entrance annually; but there is room for only 2,000. Many students therefore go abroad for higher education.

Ku said he is disappointed to see that the Chinese language is not taught at the high school level in Victoria.

"French, German, Spanish and Latin are offered, but no Chinese . . ."

"Would the Canadian people not develop a better understanding of China and the Chinese people if they could read, write and speak the language?" he queried.

More Belt-Tightening

Further economies and increases in fees charged for basic services part of city hall's determined belt-tightening since the recent three-month civic dispute, were approved by Victoria city council on Thursday.

Effective midnight Sept. 30, there will be a complete overhaul in the operation of the Johnson Street Bridge, with the bridge manned for only 79 hours per week instead of the present round-the-clock basis.

If the bridge has to be lifted for marine traffic during hours when an operator isn't normally on duty, the firm requesting the lift will have to foot the bill for the staff time involved.

To avoid disrupting peak-hour vehicle traffic the bridge will remain in the "down" position Monday to Friday from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Also approved by council Thursday was a revision in the fee structure of the city's water distribution utility.

This will see no increase in the general water rate, but will involve the elimination of special summer and irrigation rates which have allowed heavy users cheaper water. Basic service charges will also be increased 100 per cent for all consumers.

To replace the present system of reading meters every two months, meters will be read annually and bi-monthly billing will be based on consumption of the previous 12-month period.

RHODES TRUST FOR WOMEN?

The B.C. selection committee for Rhodes Scholars is beginning to question the men-only policy of the scholarships.

"Most people now feel that it ought to be open to both male and female candidates," said Sholto Hebenton, a Vancouver lawyer who is B.C. secretary of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, Thursday.

"I've been on the selection committee three or four years and it's been a matter of concern every year."

Cecil Rhodes, whose fortune from South African diamond mines still supports the scholarships, stipulated in his will that men — not women — be eligible for the scholarships to Oxford University.

Applications will be accepted until Oct. 25 from single men aged 18 to 24 for 11 1976 Rhodes Scholarships which will be awarded to Canadians this fall.

Hebenton said trust officials in England are now trying to get Rhodes' will, written in 1899, altered so women can be accepted.

Each scholarship is worth about 2,000 British pounds a year for two and possibly three years starting September, 1976, to finance studies at Oxford.

The money covers all expenses and enables the scholar to travel in Britain and Europe during the three long vacations of the Oxford academic year.

Applicants, preferably in their third or fourth year of university, are selected by provincial committees after personal interviews and on the basis of their record, including academic ability, character, leadership quality and interest in outdoor sports.

A Qualified Love-Letter to Victoria

AT INTERVALS IN OUR country year, we point our car south with a trip to town in mind. About three and a half hours later, the highway ejects us into Douglas Street. We are once more in Victoria the Beautiful, with an eye peeled for such meaningful changes as new traffic lights and one-way arteries that can trap the unwary revenant.

More often than not, these visits allow scant time for footloose roving. We have appointments to keep and shopping to do, and an evening run home up the highway when our errands are accomplished.

But the last trip was different. We voted ourselves an extra day to wander as we pleased in the city we like best.

It was one of those soft, pearl-grey days with which Victoria is blessed. The lawns were green, and the flower beds miracles of color to eyes fresh from the harsher north.

We loafed our way around the University of Victoria campus, hoping that absence would have lent enchantment to that scene.

But the university buildings remained as I remember them — architectural blah except for the low-profile wooden Sedgewick which fits its surroundings — and we eased on down to a waterfront where man and nature have worked more harmoniously together.

If there's a drive in Canada to match Victoria's shore-skirting circuit, we have yet to discover it. We followed it around from Saanich through Oak Bay to Victoria proper, with a pause at Cattle Point in the unfulfilled hope that Mount Baker might poke its uneasy head through the overcast, and with a side-excursion into Beacon Hill park.

In a changing world, Beacon Hill park does not change, a fact for which generations of jealously watchful Victorians can take credit. The old man on the bench could have been the same elder citizen whom I found snacking from a little bag of puppy biscuits there one morning long ago. With the courtesy that makes Victoria a city apart, he offered the bag. We munched together in the sunshine for which the city of Douglas and poor under-appreciated Amor de Cosmos is also noted. The biscuit wasn't half bad.

From Beacon Hill, we took ourselves to the Causeway and the Inner Harbor, where we learned that change is not necessarily for the worse. The walkway by the harbor pleased us, and so in spite of criticisms read and heard, did the restaurant that has metamorphised from a landmark service station.

Then uptown by way of the Government Street mall, which hardly deserves the name, to the authentic little mall sandwiched between the two halves of Eatons.

Victoria means people as well as places. I spotted a hat worn as only an oldtime newspaperman could wear one, and under it a familiar face. Archie Wills ... an editor who for many years kept a sensitive finger on the pulse of the earlier Victoria.

Archie's eighty-third birthday is coming up, but he looks 20 years younger. He's working on his memoirs, a project that keeps expanding with each dip into his grab-bag of memories.

"The thing is going to be so long that it would scare any publisher off," said Archie, who among other distinctions rates as godfather to Victoria's sea serpent, Cadborosaurus. I trust he's wrong: those memoirs should make good reading. So to lunch, where the sight of another remembered face arrested my chopsticks on their way to the chop suey. This one belonged to Mr. Premier: the same Dave Barrett, summer-tanned and a trifle plumper, who impressed me in the years when he was rallying his Opposition party for its assault on Castle Bennett.

Canada's most controversial provincial politician recalled those underdog legislative sessions with a chuckle. But in this interlude before he takes on another Bennett, he prefered to chat as a proud father about his family.

And finally, homeward bound along the highway once more.

The flowers have to fight harder for existence here. The climate is tougher, the life-style heartier. But distance as well as time is relative, and we prefer to consider this our home reach as no more than a far-flung suburb of Victoria.

2 Robbers Strike Again?

Two men who held up the Pacific 66 service station in the Town and Country shopping centre Thursday night may be the same pair who held up the Value Way grocery store, 101 West Burnside, last weekend, Saanich police said today.

The descriptions of the men vary, but their heights are the same, one six foot tall, the other five foot eight inches, and the method of operation was similar.

Although the grocery clerk described one of the men as tall and thin and guessed the men's ages at between 18 and 20, the gas station attendant reported both men were heavy-set and in their late 20s or early 30s.

The first holdup netted robbers $130; the second, which occurred at about 10 p.m., netted them between $300 and $400.

A police spokesman said the two men who held up the grocery store appeared to have fled on foot, but the pair who robbed the gas station are believed to have left the scene in a large American car. The vehicle was last seen heading east on Saanich Road.

Police do not have any suspects as yet although the spokesman said, "we're working on several good leads."

Can't Stand Seeing His Former Wife

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 48-year-old man who has been divorced for six years. I live with my mother, so I don't have to worry about meals or laundry.

My problem is my ex-wife. I cannot stand the sight of her. She calls my mother nearly every day, and my mother invites her over to the house.

My mother knows how I feel about my ex but she says if she isn't nice to her, she won't get to see her grandchildren.

I don't buy that because my divorce decree states that I can see my children whenever I wish. I love my children and have had them for holidays and weekends, yet I don't include my "ex."

Sometimes I think my mother lets my "ex" hang around here just to make me uncomfortable.

What do you think, Abby? I'd appreciate your advice. BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: If you can swing it financially, move out of Mother's house and get your own place. Then, you can pick up your children and take them to your mother's without having your wife come along. As long as you're living in your mother's home, she can invite whomever she wants to visit.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question I can't ask even my doctor, so I'm asking you.

I am 36 and have been chewing tobacco since I was four-year-old. What I want to know is whether it is dangerous to my health.

Lately, I have been having fainting spells, am short of breath and get dizzy. I have been to the best of doctors, and they haven't been able to find anything wrong with me.

I never had the courage to tell any of them that I've been chewing tobacco all these years.

Will you please ask your doctor if it's harmful and let me know? If it is, I can cut it out because I really don't have to have it. Thank you. I am a woman, if that matters. CHEWS

DEAR CHEWS: My doctor says that the tobacco-chewing habit can be harmful to one's health, but he can't diagnose a case without seeing the patient. (Go back to your doctor and spit it out — the truth — not the tobacco.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO E.: Stay out of the stock market unless you know what you're doing. It's not the bulls and bears you have to worry about. It's the bum steers.

A Kitten Needs Company

MOTHER EARTH NEWS

EVER THINK ABOUT OWNING A CAT (OR TWO)?

If you're thinking of getting yourself a kitten to raise as a house cat, you might do well to get two. Felines — especially the young ones — are more sociable than they usually get credit for.

There's a good reason why a kitten needs company. He has a fantastic amount of energy to spend on exercising his muscles and practicing the skills of a hunting animal . . . climbing, pouncing, darting after anything that moves.

If there's nothing better to take out his friskiness on, he'll swarm up the curtains and attack your bare feet . . . but he'd really prefer another young cat to play with.

Two aren't twice as much trouble to keep. Half is more like it . . . and they'll enjoy each other's company — in a quiet way — even when they're grown.

Any cats you decide to live with should have distemper shots as soon as possible. Feline enteritis — almost always fatal to young kittens — is a nasty way to die. Once you've got them protected from this widely spread contagious disease, though, you'll find that these delicate-looking beasties are remarkably tough and suffer from illness very little when they're well nourished.

A final note on cats: Recent reports indicate that rodents are becoming resistant to Warfarin (the active ingredient in modern rat and mouse poisons). The cat, on the other hand, has been domesticated since before the time of the ancient Egyptians . . . and no rodent has yet developed an immunity to the age-old tactics (pounce and bite) of tabbies.

Elusive Coriandre Fragrance 'Strong, Aggressive' Formula

WASHINGTON — For the last six months, Frenchwomen have been tracking down an elusive scent: Coriandre, named after the spice, is Paris's newest fragrance — and within the next six months Jean and Jacqueline Couturier's new perfume will be in North America.

Does Jacqueline Couturier, who compounded the formula, think Coriandre will be a hit? She does indeed: "After 25 years in the business, I think I can tell why one fragrance succeeds and why another fails."

Whereas a woman once wore the same fragrance, her special one, through joys and sorrows, today perfume is much more "promiscuous." And Jean Couturier for one thinks this is a good thing. "If all women wore the same fragrance," he says, "it would mean she wouldn't try ours. In Paris it's a game women play to come up with something different."

Jean Couturier got into the perfume business after six years of working in the French textile industry with laces. His mother had worked for a number of fashion houses, so he had good contacts. This was after he had served with the Free French forces in World War II.

In the meantime, he had married Jacqueline, a young woman who had been a "compounder" in Grasse, the center of France's perfume industry.

At M. Jean-Carl's laboratory in Grasse she helped develop fragrances from the hundreds of raw materials available. There it was discovered that she had a remarkable olfactive memory — and, even better, remarkable imagination.

Jean, who got his start in the perfume business with Balmain in the 1950s and later worked with Richard Salomon, only recently struck out on his own. A marketing expert with a wife who could compound fragrances for others, he thought this was the time to make a change. Coriandre is the result.

Perfume is still one of the best buys in France today — not even the fluctuating stock market creates a ripple in this thriving industry. "Even when things get tough, there's always money for a gift of perfume," Jean points out.

What makes Coriandre different? Says Jean: "We went after a fragrance that was not sweet, libht, floral or citrusy like an after-shave lotion. One that was strong and aggressive."

The Couturiers also have come up with an idea for teens, who otherwise might find perfume-buying too expensive. It is called "Les Cailloux" (Pebbles). The scent is strong and the "pebbles" can be decanted and put on little necklaces.

That's more amusing than being stopped at French customs by a zealous officer who insisted that Jean's "pebbles" were some kind of dope. "I had to show him the advertisement before he believed me."

Welch Medical Report

By DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

(Dr. Welch is a practicing physician and an associate professor of clinical medicine.)

Some years ago the book, Childbirth Without Fear, written by Dr. Grantly Dick Read, English obstetrician, struck a sympathetic note with many new young mothers, who welcomed the opportunity to participate more actively in the birth of their babies and thus to understand more clearly their role in the process of childbirth.

There was a rush of enthusiasm to undo what some critics of modern obstetrics considered to be a tendency to treat childbirth as if it were a disease, and young mothers-to-be as passive instruments to be manipulated by the all-knowing obstetrician.

However justified some of that criticism might have been, many obstetricians felt that their critics had failed to acknowledge the manifest progress of modern obstetrics, the wide variation in the emotional and physical capacity of mothers-to-be and, quite properly, they resisted giving over their responsibility as final arbiter of the critical decisions to be made at the time of delivery.

But at the same time, most obstetricians welcomed the new breed of young mothers whose instructions and exercises during their months of waiting often made them eagerly co-operative during labor, rather than confused and frightened.

They were more able to relax between contractions, yet up to bearing down when it was needed, often joyfully insisting that strain was not pain.

Not all, of course, who demanded in the early months of pregnancy that their obstetrician agree to keep hands off and allow "natural childbirth" to take its course were as adamant as they had hoped when their time actually arrived. Many women discovered that they were glad of modern medicine's capacity to numb the too-keen pangs of a long or difficult labor.

But on balance, Dr. Read reminded us when we needed reminding that childbirth is indeed natural, and many young mothers are eternally grateful to him for restoring to them a more knowing and responsible participation in the central experience, unique to the life of women.

Now a French obstetrician, Dr. Frederick Leboyer, has jolted the world of obstetrics by his insistence that the familiar wail of the newborn child is not inevitable and natural but is in fact an agonal protest at the shock of his emergence into the world.

The abrupt and hurried tempo of the brightly lighted delivery room; following the harrowing trip through the birth canal, according to Dr. Leboyer, is an intensely traumatic experience to which the newborn is not only acutely sensitive but emotionally vulnerable.

For the past eight years in his practice in France, Dr. Leboyer has taken special steps to allay this shock of separation.

His conviction of the adverse effect of the emotional stress of birth on the later psychological health of the child has its roots in the view of Sigmund Freud and Otto Rank, who considered it a primary source of human anxiety.

Dr. Leboyer prescribes hushing the voices and dimming the lights of the delivery room. He recommends a delay in clamping the umbilical cord, while the child, lying on its mother's abdomen, is gently massaged. Only when the cord has stopped pulsating is it divided, and then the baby is gently immersed in a warm bath reminiscent of the liquid environment of the womb.

A newborn infant, says Dr. Leboyer, is a conscious, sensitive, emotional person and as such requires care that takes his vulnerability into account.

Questions have, of course, been raised. No sterile drape to protect the child from infection as it lies on its mother's abdomen? Can a child be adequately examined in less than a bright light?

But whatever the differences in the details of the best way to receive the newborn infant, there can be little argument that this thoughtful and gentle physician has awakened an interest in an important aspect of the birth into the world of a baby.

No Ordinary Shake Splitter

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—The 52-year-old widow who runs a shake mill took another slug from her bottle of beer.

"I had a heck of a time getting into the country. Immigration said it was very irregular for a woman to run a mill. They thought I'd be a welfare case."

March Morris laughed. It was hot. She was wearing what she usually wears in summer — a bra and short pants. She pulled back the bra strap to show off her tan.

"There's an old saying, if you get a brown back in the summer, you don't get a cold in the winter. In the winter I wear long johns and coveralls and eight-inch boots. I just wear old clothes — and keep putting them on. I like summer; you don't take as long to dress in the morning."

"My body's strong. My mother's 81 and she still spades her own garden every year."

Shaker March came to this community in the Stillwater district 100 miles northwest of Vancouver three years ago with her partner, Jim Hill, and her nephew. She owns the company, employs six men and a woman.

The mill, with its rusty beehive burner and cluster of old cars, trailers and trucks, looks out on the sprawling fingers of Lois Lake that is thrust against the backdrop of the Malaspina Mountains.

The bunkhouse was skidded down the road from an old construction site and it lost a few boards in the process. They haven't been replaced.

It has two apartments inside, a propane stove, a refrigerator and a converted oil drum for winter heating.

"If someone paid for my apartment in town and bought my groceries, I wouldn't change," said March, whose specialty is to make ridge cap shakes which are joined and overlapped alternately to make a leak-proof seal for the roof ridge.

"I split shakes and run the ridge saw. I used to go out in the woods and make blocks. I can be mighty tired at night but I'm still up at daybreak."

She has been in the shake business 20 years. She and her husband split shakes together in a mill until he died. March continued to work as a shake cutter but cedar became harder to get in Washington State and their buyer suggested emigrating to Canada.

She picks up the frow and maul used to split shakes and flexes her biceps. March grew up on a farm and there were no brothers to do the heavy work.

"I had to learn to split wood and haul hay. I can still pick up 100 pounds and walk away with it. I used to have to fight to keep my weight down. Now I work it off."

Coffee, Tea Withdrawal

GUILDFORD, England (Reuter) — Heavy drinkers of coffee or tea who go through the day without touching a cup may develop a headache, fatigue or stomach pains, a doctor told a scientific conference this week.

Dr. Paul Turner, a professor of clinical pharmacology in London, said the reason is that they have become mildly dependent on caffeine, a stimulant contained in both beverages, and will experience slight withdrawal symptoms if they give them up.

He said many people were dependent on tea and coffee without realizing it.

Disease, Nut Link Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal health department is studying a possible link between eating nuts and a rare, often fatal, children's disease.

The disease, known as Reye's syndrome, may be caused by eating improperly stored peanuts, Brazil nuts, pistachios, almonds, pecans and walnuts.

"I must stress that we have very stringent inspection procedures for these nuts and the chances that contaminated nuts could get on the market are very slim," Dr. C. A. Moodie, head of the food pathology section in the foods directorate, said in an interview Thursday.

He said, however, that he was investigating the possibility of a link between the nuts and Reye's syndrome because Thai children with aflatoxin poisoning had symptoms similar to those of children suffering from Reye's suyndrome.

Aflatoxin is a poison caused by a special mold common on improperly stored nuts and some grains.

"Reye's syndrome is a fairly rare disease which was first noted in Australia about 10 years ago," Dr. Moodie said. "No one knows exactly what causes it. It's becoming more common, and we though we'd look into this angle."

Angles to Buying Older Home

By LYNNE GORDON

The high cost of new houses has pushed more consumers into the "second-hand" home market for their first house. But reports across the country show that prices for older homes are also hitting an all time high. And, strangely enough, people aren't even blinking an eye at the cost.

The only question seems to be "can the family meet the mortgage payments?" Many try and find they can't. There are many angles to consider before opting for an older house. A very real consideration is the resale potential and the maintenance costs.

Resale is a big question mark. You should be pretty realistic about the kind of neighbourhood you are buying in and the possibilty of further change when you plan to sell. Let's face it, you may plunk a big piece of cash into your old home for renovations then find that the overall housing in the community doesn't measure up.

Maintenance costs are also a big factor.

We've all heard the expression "beauty is only skin deep" and "you can't judge a book by its cover." Never have the expressions been more true when buying an older home.

It's easy to get fooled by the belief that "they are not building homes like they used to." They might have been built better, but poorly kept up, needing expensive repairs and care.

There were a lot of things done years ago that are not suitable today; some older homes weren't built with insulation in mind and there was less concern about heavy-duty wiring to carry all the modern day appliances.

When you look at a house it's easy to check out the visible parts, the painting, the plastering, the fixtures and even the roof. But it's the hidden defects that can cause the problems.

If you find these early enough, it may stop you from buying the house or at least negotiating for a better price.

It is certainly worth getting a professional contractor or experienced architect to check the house before you buy or sign any offer to purchase. In fact, some of the things may be so important they should be inserted in an offer to purcahse as a condition for you to close the deal.

Most people overlook inspecting the place for pests and end up with a house that is ready to collapse.

The other areas that can also jack up your bill revolves around the condition of the electrical, plumbing and heating systems . . . and seepage in the basement.

Check the fuse box and if it only has four fuses, look further because it won't carry the kind of electrical appliances used in homes today. The normal service is about 100 amps and 60 or less is inadequate. In some cases this may mean either complete or partial re-wiring. This can add up to hundreds of dollars. Hydro utilities also suggest you upgrade the complete house when a new service is put in.

CAVEAT EMPTOR

Insultation has become very important in the last few years, especially with the escalating cost of fuel. Insulation and well-sealed windows are the two most important things for saving on heating bills. The quality of insulation is hard to determine but you can sometimes get into the walls through the electrical plugs and see the thickness of the insulation — walls should be at least four inches and six inches is recommended for the attic.

A wet basement can give you the most headaches — and push your bills up sky high. Peeling paint and lifting floor tiles are certain signs of moisture. Look at the structure of the house and at the exposed joists and beams in the basement. Take a screw driver or ice pick and probe the wood and if it goes in easily you know the wood is rotted.

Drainage and water lines are easy to check. If they are made of cast iron pipe rather than copper, they have probably been there since the house was built. You can count on hundreds of dollars to replace them — especially in an area where there is hard water. Lime deposits and rust build up and pretty soon you find you have a pipe that doesn't have much room for water to flow through. More money down the drain.

A badly functioning heating unit can be a major expense. It makes sense to ask for heating bills for the last few years.

Be wary of "cover-ups" — the new carpet may be beautiful, but make sure it isn't hiding loose floor boards. Listen for squeaks.

Handsome kitchen cabinets may be covering up defective plumbing.

Plumb to see that walls are straight and doorways square.

Goodwill Store Business Booms By the Pound

BOSTON (UPI) — Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industrial Thrift Store has done a booming business since beginning to sell clothing and linen as grocery stores sell fruit — by the pound.

Thousands of budget-minded shoppers have taken advantage of the new pricing program. They load their arms with linens and apparel of assorted size, style and colors which are weighed at the cash registers.

Linens at 59 cents a pound include towels, sheets, pillowcases, bedspreads, curtains, tablecloths and wash cloths.

Victoria Goodwill store manager Gerry Keeler said Thursday the clothes-per-pound idea has never been tried here, except with rags and other salvage items that can't be sold by the piece.

"It would be a real finicky operation, with all that weighing," he said.

Keeler said the Victoria store has its 19-cent table for cheaper items, but it also has more expensive clothing of real quality.

WHITE BREAD BLAMED FOR CONSTIPATION

HOUSTON (UPI) — A London physician says white bread is the basic cause of constipation and if North Americans changed their diets the laxative industry could be eliminated.

Dr. Denis Burkitt, a surgeon and epidemiologist, said people do not eat enough roughage such as bran, wheat, barley, corn, rye, potatoes, peas and beans.

White bread has very little roughage, or fibre, and too much in the diet causes constipation, he added.

Studies in 140 countries showed a link between low-roughage diets and constiptation and such diseases as heart disease, gall stones, appendicitis, diseases of the intestinal lining, cancer of the colon, varicose veins, piles and obesity, he said.

However, Burkitt said, the relationship between the low-roughage diet and the diseases has not been proven.

Court Orders Hughes To Prove He's Alive

NEW YORK (AP) — Billionaire recluse Howard Hughes has been ordered to appear personally in Manhattan Supreme Court or face the prospect of being declared legally dead.

The show-cause order, signed by Justice Bernard Nadel, resulted from a suit by two Manhattan shareholders who contend that Hughes has been dead for an indefinite period.

In Los Angeles, Arelo Sederberg, a spokesman for the industrialist, said Thursday night: "I can't comment directly on the lawsuit because I haven't seen documentatian yet. But I can tell you—Howard Hughes is alive."

Hughes was directed to appear Sept. 17 at 9:30 a.m.

The shareholders, Victor and Ellen Kurtz, are seeking damages from Air Liquidation Co., formerly known as Air West Co., an airline that was taken over by Hughes in 1969.

The suit charges that Hughes and some of his associates issued "false and misleading" statements in order to induce purchase and sales of Air West securities.

I. Walton Bader, attorney for the Kurtzes, said he needs to know whether Hughes is alive to ensure that the Kurtzes don't run afoul of statutes of limitations for the recovery of property.

He also asked that Hughes be required to leave a set of his fingerprints on file with the court for comparison with fingerprints on file with the U.S. government.

He said that this was necessary to insure that Hughes appears.

Bader said that he had mailed copies of the judge's order to the Hotel Xanadu in the Grand Bahamas where Hughes was reported staying.

Bader added that if Hughes fails to appear in state court, he would ask the probate court in Delaware for appointment of an administrator for Hughes' estate. Hughes' corporations are registered in that state.

Olympics Profitable Despite Loss

MONTREAL (CP) — The 1976 Olympic Games will generate about $2.2 billion in economic activity for Canada, says a study commissioned by the Montreal brokerage firm of Molson, Rousseau and Co.

The study, prepared by Dr. Michael Hudson of the Hudson Institute of New York for the brokerage firm, says that despite a deficit of $250 million to $320 million, the Games will be of economic advantage to Canada.

Dr. Hudson said the Games will generate about $200 million to $300 million through taxes and about $510 million through tourism. Significant benefits will also accrue from increased employment and lower unemployment insurance payments by the federal government.

Furthermore, the influx of tourist dollars will strengthen the Canadian dollar with a spinoff of lower costs for imported goods, he said.

Gold Reserves Drop in U.K.

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's official reserves of gold and foreign curency fell by $255 million last month to reach their lowest level since February of last year. Figures for August, published by the treasury, show the reserves dropped to $6 billion.

Sharks Are Hottest Lure

ATLANTIC CITY (WP) — If anyone was scared out of the surf and off the beach here by "Jaws" and the summer's subsequent shark obsession, this seaside business community hasn't felt the bite.

On the contrary, the fallout from the grisly hit novel and movie may well have made the season for souvenir vendors here.

"We just can't keep shark items in stock," one boardwalk shopkeeper sighed. "It doesn't have to have anything to do with Jaws—just so it's sharks, it's hot."

Proudly and cheerfully, store sales people here talk of a (real) shark reported a few weeks ago about a hundred feet offshore at the neighboring community of Ventnor.

"Some lifeguards just rode out and chased it away," assured one young clerk who was selling "Jaws" decals.

Apparently the grislier the display, the better the sale.

Michael Loder, a 16-year-old clerk at Irene's, a boardwalk novelty chain, said he hung a large stuffed toy shark outside the store with a small doll tied to the gaping red felt mouth and "everybody came in wanting to buy the shark eating the person."

The stuffed grey sharks, looking exceedingly benign despite the toothy gaping jaws, go for $10.98 each.

Marlene Holvorson, manager of one of the Irene outlets, said she had 32 dozen of these shark toys a few weeks ago, but now had only about 6 of the stuffed fish left—including the one in the sinister display out front.

Whenever the shore business can grab onto a dorsal fin, they do.

Boardwalk movie house is showing an old Burt Reynold's shark movie called "Maneater," and the amusemen piers are sporting Jaws games, with the cuddly stuffed sharks in grey, yellow, green and red offered as prizes.

The Steeplechase Pier "Jaws" roulette wheel (25 cents a chance) regularly attracts crowds of players—one man spent $40 to win two sharks. The film "Jaws" itself, playing at several theatres in this area, is on its way to becoming the top money-grosser of all time. If industry predictions hold, Jaws will top the $85.7 million gross of "Godfather" by Sept. 10.

A GOOD WIFE WANTED EITHER NEW OR USED

ROBERTA, Ga. — It wasn't so bad when Henry Moncrief first put out the sign in front of his trailer home on a rural central Georgia highway: "Good Wife Wanted New or Used. 836-3653."

Moncrief, 34, wasn't getting much sleep, particularly since he had to rise at 5 a.m. to drive 102 miles to his job as a heavy equipment driver and wouldn't return home to the ringing telephone until after 8 p.m.

"Nobody really knows what hell and torment I've been going through," Moncrief moaned. He said he has narrowed the field to three, and after Sept. 10 he will accept no more letters or phone calls.

Hollywood Technicians Set for Strike

HOLLYWOOD — No lights, no cameras, no action. The men and women who make the movies — not the producers and actors, but the technicians who develop the film, run the cameras and microphones and perform other indispensable jobs — made plans today to shut down the film factories of Hollywood.

"The strike is set. All that remains is to notify the members of the time and date," said George Flaherty, west coast director of the giant International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

The strike, expected to begin some time next week, would be the first against the whole movie industry since 1946 and would halt virtually all feature film and most television series production. The impact would not be seen on home screens for some time because many episodes of shows for the fall season are already completed.

The strike would hit movies still before the cameras, such as All The President's Men, with Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman, and filmed television series such as All In The Family, Police Woman and Kojak.

At issue are working conditions for film editors, laboratory technicians, sound technicians and studio projectionists.

Dennis Weaver, star of the McCloud TV series and president of the screen actor's guild, said the actor's union "has no official position on the strike, but I imagine (the individual actor's reaction) would be one of great sympathy."

An IATSE strike "would simply close down the town . . . I suppose the actors will take a vacation. You can't make pictures without the elements of production."

The strike's target is the Association of Motion Picture and Television producers, which represents virtually all movie makers except Universal Pictures which withdrew from the group Wednesday.

Tugboat Annie Drops Anchor

DETROIT — Detroit's first woman tugboat captain is retiring after almost two decades of piloting a tug on the Great Lakes and helping run a thriving marine business. Mrs. Florence Becker—or "Tugboat Annie," as she is known on the Detroit riverfront—has sold the tugs and the yacht she and her husband once owned so she can be at home to care for him.

BOSTON—Policewoman Anne Galloway was fired Thursday for performing a sex act with a policeman while she was guarding a witness in a motel. Robert di Grazia, city police commissioner, said Walloway also faced five other charges, including drinking on duty.

OTTAWA—Mildred MacKinnon of Vancouver has been elected national president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association, it was announced Thursday. MacKinnon, 51, was elected in a mail ballot. She succeeds Alene Holt, who resigned for health reasons.

OTTAWA — Claude Edwards, 59, president of the 168,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada, announced Thursday that he would not seek re-election to his post at a union convention to be held next spring. Edwards has headed the alliance, the third-largest union in the country, since 1966 when he was elected at its founding convention.

NEW YORK—A snapshot of Clyde Barrow of Bonnie and Clyde fame was auctioned for $500 Thursday night. Barrow is shown on the snapshot, dated Jan. 2, 1932, trying to get his automobile out of the mud. On the back of the picture, he wrote: "Too much work. Next time I will youse a tractor—Bonnie is laughing at me. The sheriff can't shoot a dam."

VANCOUVER—Alvin Balkind, former contemporary art curator for the art gallery of Ontario, has been appointed chief curator of the Vancouver Art Gallery, replacing Doris Shadbolt, associate director, who is on sabbatical for one year.

Soviet Grain Backed

WASHINGTON (WP) — U.S. Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns said Thursday that Soviet grain purchases from the U.S. have had a "quite sizable" impact on food prices — but much less than the "relentless rise of production and marketing costs."

"We can look forward with reasonable assurances to stable food prices if, and only if, the high rates of increases in wages and other costs of food production, processing and marketing subside," Burns told the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Burns and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz were called before the committee to clarify the situation regarding sales to the Soviets of 9.8 million metric tons of corn, wheat and barley between July 16 and 22. The sales have been attacked by consumer groups for boosting good prices at home, and by longshoremen seeking concessions on behalf of the United States shipping industry. Longshoremen have refused to load the grain.

Thursay, Butz said that an informal ban on new sales to the Soviets would continue until the labor difficulties had been ironed out.

Union Cash Saves N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today was the day New York City was supposed to fold. It didn't. But the reprieve may be short.

In last-minute manoeuvring Thursday, the municipal employee unions agreed to lend the city $100 million from their pension funds.

The city will have money to pay off some 35,000 welfare cheques and other obligations, including a $7.1 million sanitationmen's payroll, through funds supplied by the unions. The pay cheques were already in the mail and would have bounced if the unions had not come through.

Default, however, could come as early as Sept. 15, when the city must meet about $500 million in obligations if a $2.3 billion financing plan is not worked out.

Labor leaders, according to the mayor's office, said they would use $100 million in their pension funds to purchase bonds sold by the Municipal Assistance Corp. — the state agency created to raise money for the city. The money then will be turned over to the city treasury.

Chile Tapes for Probers

WASHINGTON (WP) — Former president Richard Nixon has agreed to give Senate investigators subpoenaed tapes and documents concerning CIA efforts to block the 1970 election of Salvador Allende as president of Chile.

White House counsel Philip Buchen announced the agreement at a meeting with the Senate Committee on Intelligence Thursday.

Chairman Frank Church (D.-Idaho) and vice chairman John Tower (R-Tex.) said the settlement would avoid a court fight that might have lasted years.

Nixon's lawyers also agreed to produce any files they can find involving the White House's controversial 1970 "Houston Plan" for intensive surveillance, including burglaries and bugging, to cope with domestic unrest.

The Senate committee subpoenaed Nixon's records on Chile and on domestic spying last month after President Ford's lawyers insisted they could not produce them without Nixon's consent.

The former president's tapes and papers are currently in government custody, but they are tied by court orders stemming from Nixon's attempts to overturn a law declaring the records to be public property.

Despite the litigation over ownership of the Nixon documents, the Senate committee said the records were still supposed to be made availabe when needed for any "legitimate government business," such as the investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency — without Nixon's consent.

Buchen credited Tower for helping to get the approval of the former President and his lawyers.

Church said he was satisfied with the arrangement even though Nixon's lawyers, led by Washington attorney Herbert J. Miller Jr. will be in charge of deciding what tapes and other records the Senate subpoenas actually cover.

The CIA's efforts to block the accession of Allende, a Shilean Marxist who was killed during a coup in 1973, reportedly included encouraging a 1970 scheme to promote an earlier coup that went awry and resulted in the assassination of Chilean Gen. Rene Schneider.

WATER TO FLOW

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Engineers hoped to have a moderate supply of water flowing to Trenton and its suburbs by tonight for the first time in five days. More than 250,000 people have been living under emergency conditions since a pump malfunctioned last weekend.

"We're just waiting for the cement to dry," said a city official Thursday as workers mended a concrete culvert that cracked Sunday under the weight of a million gallons of overflow water from the city reservoir.

The malfunctioning pump sent water flooding into the drain, knocking out service.

Engineers expected the cement to dry by tonight, allowing them to prime three pumps to make certain they are all operating properly.

Genes May Hold Role in Cancer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — A University of North Carolina medical researcher has identified two genes that indicate a high susceptibility to certain types of cancer.

Dr. Michael Swift, chief of the UNC division of medical genetics, has been asked by the National Cancer Institute to apply for a $200,000 grant to pay for research toward developing a simple test for the presence of the genes.

A person having the genes, according to Swift, may face three to 10 times the normal risk of cancer in the lymph system, stomach, intestine, tongue, bladder or ovaries in women. He estimates that about 3 million Americans carry the genes.

"Many of the tumors involved with these two genes are treatable if caught early," he said. A person found to carry one of the genes would be warned to get frequent tests for cancers.

Swift discovered that one of the genes, called faconi anemia (FA), appeared to be related to cancer while studying a rare mental disease. Persons with the diseasee have a "double dose" of the FA gene and Swift found those with a single dose of the gene, absent in most persons, had a higher incidence of cancer.

"We have shown that carriers of the single FA gene have a higher risk of dying from a malignancy as great as three times the normal risk," said Swift.

The other gene is associated with a disease called Ataxia Tellangiaectasis, or AT. The incidence of cancer among families of AT patients is significantly higher than normal, said Swift, and women carrying the gene are 10 times more likely to die of cancer of the ovaries than noncarriers.

B.C. Needs 'Ignored'

NELSON (CP) — A brief submitted Thursday to the Pearse Royal Commission on Forest Resources said the needs of people living in the Slocan Valley are ignored by the large, United States-based corporation that control almost all of the forest land in the valley.

The brief, presented by the Slocan Valley Resources Society, said short-sighted government policies encourage companies to adopt "cut and get out" attitudes that damage the ecology and fail to take advantage of the characteristics of the forests in the valley, about 30 miles west of here.

The brief said the number of independent operators in the valley has dropped to three from 34 since the mid-1950s.

This trend for forest companies to grow by buying out competing and allied operations means jobs are sacrificed for faster production with specialized equipment.

The brief also said although logging has more than doubled in the area since 1972, no manpower has been added to government agencies, and with the increased work load, cursory permit inspections are the rule.

The brief said government staff in the Slocan area is saddled with 10 times as much acreage to supervise as is the staff of a nearby U.S. forest district.

That point was reinforced by Bill Young, B.C. assistant chief forester, who told University of British Columbia Economics Professor Dr. Peter Pearse, sole member of the commission, that the B.C. Forest Service has only 6.6 per cent of the professional strength of the U.S. Forest Service and has to manage a property that is larger than that entrusted to its U.S. counterpart.

Young said his service has 327 professional foresters against the 4,897 employed in the U.S. national forests. This small number, he said, presents a near impossible situation to his men.

He said the B.C. Forest Service administers 211 million acres and the U.S. Forest Service looks after 187 million acres. Productive yields from respective territories are nearly equal.

$40M Loan Sought

WASHINGTON (WP) — Israel has asked the World Bank for a loan slightly in excess of $40 million for water conservation and other Developmental purposes, it was learned Thursday.

Bank officials have indicated that a $35 million loan authorized last May would be the last one given to Israel, because its high per capita income now disqualifies it — along with some other smaller countries — for World Bank assistance.

But Israeli Central Bank Governor Moshe Sanbar plans a direct appeal today to World Bank President Robert S. McNamara.

The Israeli argument that it should not be cut off from World Bank loans is based, first, on the claim that its per capita income, said by the bank to be close to $3,000, is exaggerated by extraordinary defence expenditures.

Israel Buys Most Arms

LONDON (UPI) — The Institute for Strategic Studies (ISS) said today Israel leads the world in per capita defence spending as part of an unprecedented arms race in the Middle East with the Soviet Union and the United States the chief suppliers of weaponry.

ISS figures showed Israel spent $1,043 per person on defence, Saudi Arabia $712, the United States $430 and the Soviet Union $409.

Israel leads, too, in percentage of gross national product spent on defence, 32 per cent, but is second behind Egypt's 42 per cent in the amount of governmental spending devoted to war, according to the institute's "Military Balance 1975-76."

The report was published prior to the U.S. pledge to provide Israel with even more weaponry as part of the bargaining that brought about an interim agreement with Egypt. The ISS gave previous arms details.

"Conventional forces were strengthened in the Middle East," the report said, "with Israel, Egypt and Syria continuing to replenish their armories beyond the levels ruling before the (1973) October war.

"Each introduced new weapons, notably (Soviet) MiG-23 aircraft for Egypt and Syria and (U.S.) anti-tank guided weapons and air-to-surface missiles for Israel, whose orders for advanced U.S. aircraft were held up."

The ISS said Persian Gulf states, large and small, turned for weapons to Britain, France and the United States, with Iran and Saudi Arabia tripling their defence budgets.

Listing Middle East weapons on order, the ISS said Egypt has six helicopters coming from Britain, 44 Mirage F-1 fighters from France, 48 MiG-23s from the Soviets and unspecified artillery and surface-to-air missiles from the Soviets.

It said Syria has ordered from Moscow an unspecified number of tanks, artillery pieces, surface-to-surface missiles, surface-to-air missiles, helicopters and other equipment, along with 130 MiG-21 fighters and 45 MiG-23s.

As for Israel, it said, the United States is supplying 600 new tanks, armored personnel carriers, 35 P-4 Phantom fighter-bombers, eight CH-47 helicopters, anti-tank missiles, surface-to-air missiles and air-to-surface missiles.

China Lagging in Build-Up

LONDON (Reuter) — China's army of 2,000,000 men is still essentially a defensive force and lacks the facilities for protracted large-scale military operations outside the country, says a survey published today.

The 1975-76 edition of The Military Balance, published by the London-based International Institute of Strategic Studies, notes that in a world where the arms race is booming, China's build-up is comparatively slow.

But the pace of re-equipment has appeared to fall off somewhat, the survey adds.

The Chinese nuclear program continued slowly during the year but facilities for producing nuclear materials were expanded and the stockpile of nuclear weapons might grow rapidly.

A multi-stage inter-continental balistic missile with a range of perhaps 3,500 miles—able to reach Moscow and most of Asia—appears to have been ready for deployment for some time, but it is not yet in operation, says the survey.

Army, Navy Get Together For Sophisticated Diving

AROUND OUR SHORES

Two old navy buddies and an army pal have joined forces to produce an outfit that is bound to make a hit with diving enthusiasts in our parts.

Art Rowse, whom I knew well in the days he ran the navy's diving unit at Colwood, dropped into the office to tell all about it.

Art is now commanding officer of the diving unit in Halifax and was in Victoria to attend his daughter's wedding at Royal Roads Military College.

With Art was Al McRae, who served as Art's executive officer in the Colwood days.

Art has two more years to go before he retires, but Al is on retirement leave. Al and former major Chick Goodman are "minding store" until Art is free to join them permanently.

Art has 22 years of diving under his belt while Al started diving in 1953 and has dived for 10 consecutive years. As an army diver, Chick has done underwater stints from the Mediterranean to the North Sea.

With that kind of expertise between them, it's small wonder that the trio's Rimpac Divers Ltd., which they started on Fifth Street in Sidney this summer, has been an instant success.

Part of the reason is that they're operating every day of the week. Another reason is the sophisticated courses they'll be running in addition to the normal ones.

In addition to advanced diving, they're setting their sights on teaching such things as underwater biology and photography.

Once they've assembled the proper vessels, they intend to organize charter trips to the choice diving areas here and air charters for those interested in sampling the underwater pleasures of the Barbadoes and other places.

AL McRAE

And, most important, as Al puts it, "We're going to peddle safety."

The fledgling Saanich Peninsula Sailing Club will be holding its first event on Sunday — a sail-in at Tulista Park in the Sidney area.

The dinghy club will have a safety boat on hand for the event, which begins at 1:30 p.m.

The charter officers of the new club are commodore Dave Myerscough, vice-commodore Bent Jespersen, fleet captain Bill Classen, yard master Bruce Macartney, membership secretary John Sheppard, treasurer Ned Stanley, secretary Susan Myerscough and junior member representative Mark Philbrook.

One of the most popular events in sailing circles is scheduled for Sunday. This is the annual Thermopylae Race, which starts in the Ross Bay area at 10 a.m.

Organized by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, the race is open to any member of a registered yacht club and there is still time to register at the RVYC clubhouse this evening.

The race will be sailed off the Victoria coastline, providing a spectacular for those who must be shorebound this weekend.

RVYC also has another around-Discovery Island race planned for Saturday. Start time is 1 p.m.

Over in Esquimalt harbor, the Esquimalt Squadron, Canadian Forces Sailing Association, is hosting the Western Region Canadian Forces Centreboard Regatta on Saturday and Sunday.

The six-race series will begin at 10 a.m. each day, using 420s.

Competing against the Esquimalt sailors will be CFSA members from Comox and Vancouver and a contingent from Royal Roads Military College.

Monday Date For Hy's

The 10th annual Hy's Invitational Tournament, an 18-hole medal event which offers a total of $1,000 in prizes, will be played Monday at Uplands Golf Club.

Pity These Refs

TORONTO (CP) — Those who call the shots at soccer games in the Metropolitan Toronto area are calling for more severe penalties against players and teams that assault game officials.

John Hilley, referee-in-chief of the Toronto and District Soccer League, was kicked twice in the groin.

During 1974, there were 11 attacks on officials in the T. and D. league and 18 over-all in the Metro area This year, with still a lot of soccer to go, there had been nine attacks on officials in the T. and D. league and 15 in Metro.

"It's out of control," Ray Robertson, T. and D. president, said this week. "Drastic action is needed, and soon."

Hilley was the latest victim of the epidemic of violence. He claims the attack, which followed a game Tuesday night, was a "setup."

While one player from the losing team came up as if to shake hands, the handshake became a firm grip and another player from the losing team kicked him twice. An assault charge has been laid against Cosimo Alessis.

Hilley spoke of one official who filed charges against a player last year. The hearing was postponed five times before the official finally gave up because of having to take too much time off work.

Clubs are subject to $300 fines and, without exception the guilty players are suspended, often for life.

"I've recommended that the complete team should be subject to the same kind of suspension," Osborne says. He said six teams have been thrown out of the 84-team league this year.

Dolphins Try Again Sunday

They'll be, there Sunday with a full complement of 40 players when North Shore Cougars pay a visit to Royal Athletic Park for a 6 p.m. encounter.

"They're a young, inexperienced team," general manager Sam Taylor said of the Dolphins, "but they're not down-hearted and we're not either. We (Taylor and head coach Ken Werrun) haven't given up on them."

As many as 48 players have been working out with Dolphins — almost twice last year's number at this stage — including three who were suspended for a game after breaking training rules.

But the three — Theo Vandenberg, Colin Graham and Frank McEachie — have been reinstated after showing up faithfully at every workout.

"It's been the first time in years we've even had enough players to impose suspensions," Taylor said.

But injuries are a problem.

Fullbacks Christie Sinclare and Kerry Lacroix are both out for the rest of the season, Sinclare with torn knee ligaments and Lacroix with a broken collarbone. In addition, lineman Bob Vandenought injured a knee in the team's last game and is on crutches Running back Brian Kittagawa will play despite bruised ribs.

There is some good news medically. Quarterback Spence Parker has recovered from a knee injury and badly bruised hand and is the likely starter. Backing him up could be Kabal Atwal, a newcomer.

GARDENING

Plant Christmas Daffodils Now

To get the 10 to 12-week rooting period needed for producing strong stemmed daffodil flowers indoors by Christmas, the bulbs must be planted now, this week.

Planted later, they may flower about the same time but they will be smaller flowers and weaker stems. Those weeks of dark cold damp conditions develop strong stems crowned with lovely blooms.

Most gardeners now know that the flowers are already perfectly formed within the heat of the bulbs. Every portion of the flower has been laid down during spring and early summer after the season's blooming has finished. This is the reason for keeping the leaves green as long as possible and for watering and feeding the bulbs during April and May. Even the summer ripeing period plays its part.

Wrapped tightly, and in miniature while in the bulb the flowers attain their size as the stems elongate in the warmth of the house after roots are well advanced, and the bulbs are growing in the pots.

A few words at this point on why the flowers last so short a time in the house although three to four weeks for tagged and dated blooms outdoors have been recorded as a common habit of many of the better varieties of good substance. Beersheba, a thick textured pure white holds the record of 25 days with us.

Just think about weather conditions from the time the first daffodil noses are seen protruding from the cold soil. This occurs during the last week of the year if the ground is not under snow at that time. As daylight becomes longer and more intense during January, the stems grow a little during each mild spell. It needs only a degree or two above zero Celsius.

Buds finally open at about 3 to 5 degs. C. slowly expanding so that flowers are in color for weeks. During that time, the temperature may each 7 degs. C. but scarcely higher in late March. Nights may well go below freezing on many occasions with no ill effects to the daffodils, except to delay them a little.

The daffs which flower in April prefer a slightly higher temperature and longer daylight which is the reason for their blooming at that time.

These few facts point to comparable conditions which must be provided by those wishing to raise the bulbs in pots for indoor flowering.

The cold rooting period must be found either by burying the pots in a damp cool trench in the garden, covered with loose rotted compost or old sawdust; or by covering completely with heavy cardboard cartons on a sundeck or balcony where sun does not reach.

Apartment and condominium owners have basement storage rooms which are cool (5 to 7 deg. C) and dark. These have been successfully used for rooting bulbs; but occasional watering needs must be attended to as in any other storage except outdoors, buried.

When roots are seen at the drainage hole of the pots they are moved to the coolest and lightest room to bring up the stems and leaves.

As buds near opening, the coolest place in the living area will keep the flowers for a week or 10 days, whereas the average room heat will finish them in two days.

To buy bulbs, choose varieties which will "force" indoors, early or late as you" desire. Choose firm solid bulbs, heavy for their size; choose top size bulbs which will give three to five blooms for each bulb.

Two kinds which are not grown outdoors here but will do well in pots are Paperwhites and Soleil d'Or; these need the rooting period but not so low a temperature.

Whatever you decide on, get the bulbs into pots as soon as possible.

is so popular in Eastern Canada and U.S.A. The fact that over 1000 Tanzer 22's have been launched since 1970 should give you the message. She has the qualities of Paceships and Rangers and costs thousands of dollars less. She sleeps 4 comfortably in 2 cabins with an interior that might belong in a 25' boat and cockpit larger than that of most 28's. As well as comfortable she is fast — exceeding hull speed readily and her elapsed time victories over larger boats have become legendary.

ON DISPLAY

Arab Rift Widens Over Peace Pact

BEIRUT (UPI) — The new Egyptian-Israeli peace agreement negotiated by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has left the Arab world with its deepest split in five years.

Opposition to the agreement grew Thursday.

Iraq joined Syria in denouncing the pact and the Palestine Liberation Organization planned an emergency meeting to discuss ways to wreck it.

Protest demonstrations were held in Damascus and the PLO's news agency WAFA said massive demonstrations were planned for the weekend.

Editorial criticism of the accord grew in newspapers across the Arab world from Beirut to Kuwait.

Iraq called the three-year iterim pact "a serious and highly dangerous development." Syria lambasted it as a "major setback to the Arab struggle."

Jordan, mindful of the bitter Syrian reaction, denied reports that King Hussein had expressed conditional support for the accord in talks with Kissinger in Amman Wednesday.

Reporters covering Kissinger's Middle East shuttle had quoted a senior U.S. official on the secretary's plane as saying Hussein was not enthusiastic about the accord but had endorsed it as a step in right direction.

But Israeli and Egyptian military men will begin talks next week on implementing the new peace agreement.

The two nations have agreed to work out the details of the disengagement accord in two weeks of military negotiations and implement the pact within five months.

The United Nations is expected to ask for few, if any, additional Canadians to join an expanded Middle East emergency force made necessary by the new agreement.

Canadian officials, who have been closely watching the development of the agreement, said, at least initially, it is expected that the almost 1,000 Canadians in the Middle East will be adequate.

This was because the logistics role of Canada and Poland in the UN Emergency Force in Egypt and the UN Disengagement Observer Force in Syria has little to do with UNEF's major role of observing the ceasefire.

Nasser Aides Accused Of Poisoning

CAIRO (Reuter) — Egyptian authorities are considering murder charges against former aides of the late president Gamal Abdel Nasser following allegations that his personal physician and his war minister were poisoned, informed sources said Thursday.

This followed Cairo news reports that a presidential physician was poisoned 11 years ago after he was believed to have told Nasser that he was medically unfit to rule the country.

Medical sources said Nasser suffered a rare disease known as bronze diabetes, which impairs mental ability.

Nasser died at the age of 52 in 1970.

When the presidential physician — Dr. Anwar el Mufti — died in 1964, there were whispers that his death was not of natural causes.

Earlier reports had said Egypt's ex-war minister and armed forces commander, field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, was also poisoned.

Officially he was reported to have committed suicide after the six-day war of 1967.

Fraud Conviction Over False Credit

Patriek Donald McInnes, of 2-1465 Fort, was found guilty today of "unlawfully and fraudulently" impersonating Brian D. Savard, Dec. 2, 1974 with intent to purchase certain property — approximately $1,500 worth of furniture.

Judge Montague Drake said in county court that fraud equals dishonesty and that there is no need for the prosecution to show that injury was caused to Savard.

Defence lawyer Gordon Macdonald argued Thursday that there was no fraud, in the sense of deprivation by deceit, because no harm had come to Savard.

Prosecutor Barry Mah Ming had argued that it was not germane to say that no one lost financially. The impersonation was intentional to obtain furniture and the reason was that McInnes had a poor credit rating.

"Judge Drake said the facts of the case were that McInnes found a wallet and identification belonging to Savard and used it to open credit at Standard Furniture and represented himself to that company as Savard, who hadn't given him permission.

It was also clear, he said, that no one suffered any injury because of this.

After McInnes was found guilty, Macdonald asked the court to consider an absolute discharge.

His client was employed as a private investigator and the offence "is one of enormous poor judgment. He thought he was doing nothing wrong because he paid his bills. He has no criminal record."

Judge Drake requested a pre-sentence report and sentencing was set for Oct. 3.

Brewery Picket Off

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets set up Thursday morning by members of the Brewery and Warehousemen's Union at Carling-O'Keefe Breweries here have been taken down.

The problem was over distribution of beer supplies.

Carlings have their own fleet of trucks and the union was questioning whether the fleet was infringing upon some areas which another firm, Argus Truck, handles. Argus is currently being struck by local 300 of the Brewery Workers Union.

Carling's employees are in the same local but their contract expires at a different date.

The company and the union discussed the situation and agreed that where jurisdiction of an area is in question, the area would be avoided.

Squadron Seeking Cadets

The 89 (Pacific) Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, has openings for boys and girls 13 or older, by the end of the year.

The squadron meets Mondays at 6:45 p.m. in the Bay Street Armory.

The squadron's commanding officer, Capt. Ken Cutler, who can be reached at 479-7490 in the evenings, reports that this year the squadron produced three power pilots, four glider pilots and one entrant to Royal Roads Military College.

Claims Shuffled

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Federal Indian Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan says the provinces hold the rights to all land in Canada and are responsible for settlement with Indians of the aboriginal land claims issue.

Buchanan, interviewed while visiting this interior city Wednesday, said the federal government is "completely hung up" on the issue of aboriginal land claims.

Frank Howard, the provincial government's Indian affairs adviser, said Thursday in a telephone interview that the province's hands are tied on the issue and that the federal government is the responsible body for a settlement.

Howard said that the federal government is sole trustee over Indian lands since provincial Crown land was given to the federal government in 1920 to hold in trust.

"Now they (the federal government) want us to turn around and do it all over again," said Howard.

He said the federal government is the sole government body responsible for making and signing a treaty. He said if the province was to enter the aboriginal land claims dispute it would involve signing a treaty — an action prevented by terms of the British North America Act.

Sudan Coup Foiled

CAIRO (UPI) — President Jaafar Numeiry of Sudan, foiled an attempted army coup today and was restored to power hours after the second attempt in four years to oust him, the Middle East News Agency reported.

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — An explosion attributed by police to a natural gas leak ripped through a coffee shop in suburban Bayanon today, killing four persons and injuring seven, two of them critically.

Canadian Men Post Second Win in Row

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — The Canadian men's field hockey team posted its second win in as many starts on its current New Zealand tour Thursday, scoring three second-half goals to beat a Hutt Valley club side 3-1.

Student's Plea Answered

University of Victoria student Patrick Rushford's struggle to find housing accommodation for himself and his four-year-old daughter Jackie is over and he's thankful.

A stupendous response of between 60 and 70 calls greeted his plea for accommodation last week and he's managed to take a one-bedroom apartment in the Cook and Quadra area for $190 a month.

After his plight was publicized, Victoria residents offered solutions that included free use of an extra bedroom and one respondent even offered to adopt his daughter.

Rushford, divorced, was one of the UVic students hardest hit by the housing shortage and homefinding consultants were pessimistic about his chances of finding accommodation.

Callers, he said, were concerned that a housing shortage of that magnitude could arise.

"It's high time the government stepved in and made housing available rather than (adopt policies that) stagnate apartment construction and you can quote me on that," said Rushford.

The heavy demand among other out-of-town UVic students seems also to have eased somewhat.

UVic's housing manager Shirley Baker reports that some 600 students have been placed in accommodation and pressure has been relieved because of landlords' response to the shortage.

One-bedroom apartments are still needed however.

Goodwill Story Offered

Few Victorians realize the work that is being carried out by Goodwill, says the community relations officer for Goodwill Enterprises.

"So many Victorians think of Goodwill just as a store and a few collection booths," Alec Reid said, "but we also carry out programs for employment and rehabilitation of the handicapped."

Reid said he would like to give illustrated talks on the programs to clubs or organizations which are looking for a speaker, adding that Goodwill has available a set of color slides entitled The Goodwill Story and a 30-minute color movie about life in Victoria and on holiday of one of Goodwill's employees who is permenently confined to a wheelchair.

Lack of Attention Killing Local Trees

Hundreds of trees in the Greater Victoria area are slowly dying because of lack of attention and poor engineering practices, firesters and park administrators said Wednesday.

The Pacific Forest Research Centre cited as an exeample the gove of trees in the old Bathhouse Cove area of Gorge Park, adjacent to Tillicum Bridge.

The area once contained a lush grove of Douglas fir but when Gorge Road was reconstructed several years ago, the water pattern and runoff of water was changed, PFRC said.

This resulted in creating a drought condition on the site which weakened the trees and made them susceptible to attacks from insects. Trees died or were removed because of infestations.

The remaining trees are in danger of dying, PFRC said.

Gerald Chaster, assistant park administrator for Saanich, said an effort will be made this winter to save the remaining trees by pumping a liquid fertilizer around their roots.

"I don't know if we will be able to save them all," he said. "But the situation is serious."

Chaster said hundreds of trees, including Garry Oak, are on the decline in the Greater Victoria area because of neglect and the lack of care in the construction of roads and buildings.

"When you start digging a foundation for a big apartment building, you are effecting the ecology of the area," he pointed out." You change the water table and water pattern with the result that surrounding plant life suffers".

He noted in some cases where trees have been preserved, black top has been laid down right to the tree trunk.

"The roots get no air and not enough water and the tree starts to decline," he said.

Chaster said careful engineering practices, plus care of trees, could save many trees in the area.

"Everywhere I go I see trees on the decline," he said. "This could be prevented."

Beer Drought Up-Island

Beer parlors on central Vancouver Island were out of beer Thursday as a result of a strike against Pacific Brewers Distributors Ltd.

"We had been operating on alternate days in an attempt to stretch things out," a spokesman for a Nanaimo hotel said Thursday.

"But there isn't a bottle or a glass of beer to be had in the central section of the island."

The company has the contract to deliver beer from breweries to many island points.

The brewery workers union went on strike Aug. 29 in Vancouver, Burnaby and Nanaimo and Aug. 30 in Kamloops, but the Lower Mainland hasn't been affected because the breweries handle most of the deliveries to Greater Vancouver points.

Some Kamloops outlets could be running out of beer this weekend.

The union is striking for better job security, said spokesman Ed Glasser.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A tenant who systematically tried to demolish the house in which he lived was fined $500 or, in default, six months in jail and was put on a year's probation by Judge Edmond St. Jorre in provincial court Thursday.

John Burns, 33, who lived at 705 Piedmont when the incidents occurred during April and May, was found guilty of damaging a building he occupied by breaking windows, destroying a carport, holing interior walls and burning furniture, causing more than $3,500 damage.

Police reports said Burns swore he would demolish the house before leaving when he got an eviction notice for the end of May.

Thomas James Dziadyk, 23, of 1300 Yates, pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm and was fined $100 despite Judge William Ostler's direction that he could plead not guilty if he felt he was falsely charged.

Dziadyk hit another tenant in his apartment building Sept. 1, causing facial lacerations that took four stitches to close.

"The only reason I'm here is that he missed me," said Dziadyk. "It was just a fight. He swung at me too."

"I hit him. How can I be innocent?" asked Dziadyk.

"It's a serious assault and I'm sorry you don't feel more regretful about it," said Ostler.

A man who was caught siphoning gas from a truck Sept. 2 was sentenced to one month in jail and cautioned by Judge William Ostler: "Now that gas is becoming a precious commodity I hope there's not going to be an increase in this sort of thing."

James Gregory Truss, 20, of 69 West Burnside, pleaded guilty to two counts of theft — for the gas taken from Budget Rent-a-Truck, 3657 Harriet, and four tires police found in his possession taken from Cornell Chevrolet.

Value of the tires was $432.40 and of the gas $7.30.

Truss told Ostler he would not have been driven to the criminal act if he had been able to find a job. He said he was going to Edmonton to look for work.

A 22-year-old man was fined $1,000 and put on 18 months probation for possession of the drug tuinol for trafficking.

Trish Lynn Janz, 18, of Calgary, was fined $200 and sentenced to one day after stealing a $14.95 vest from the Bay and a $5 belt from Eaton's Wednesday.

Dolores Angelina Hanson, 19, of Duncan, also appeared on a shoplifting charge and was fined $200 for stealing $34.51 in clothing from Zeller's Aug. 29.

A third shoplifter received a suspended sentence and six months probation after taking $1.74 worth of food from V&J Low Cost in Esquimalt Aug. 27. Timothy Healey, 19, of 531 West Bay Terrace, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Ernest Richard Falconer, 42, address not known, will spend six months in jail then serve two months probation for possession of a restricted weapon and theft of a $300 revolver from a Victoria area motel room last October. He appeared before Judge Fred Green.

Grant Larue Harney, 21, of 724 Yates, pleaded guilty to assault of a person in defence of property after resisting attempts by a Brown Jug cabaret bouncer to evict him Aug. 29.

Judge Ostler fined Harney $25 with default five days.

In traffic court, Kenneth Stanley Oliver, 23, of 3526 Happy Valley Rd., received 45 days in jail fo two counts of driving while under suspension Sept. 3. He was arrested by Sidney RCMP on Highway 17.

John Hugh Gwilt, 49, of 1118 Bay, was found guilty of impaired driving June 3, fined $50 by Judge Douglas Campbell, and put on a year's probation. Gwilt was also found guilt of driving while under suspension that day and fined another $50, and of failing to remain at an accident scene earlier the same day, netting a third $50 fine.

Kerneth Wallace Jones, 21, of 557 Paradise, was fined $50 for a hit and run after his van rolled into a motorcycle Aug. 1, causing $100 damage.

UVIC COURSES DESIGNED FOR WOMEN

University of Victoria is offering two non-credit evening courses this fall of particular interest to women.

A three-lecture course cosponsored by the Registered Nurses Association of Greater Victoria is called Help, Happiness and Health: A Symposium for Women only. Starting Oct. 9, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. the lectures will deal with rape, transition in life and health, and total cost of the two-hour classes is $7.

Lectures on Women in Russian Literature by Mrs. J. Heaman run for 10 weeks on Tuesdays between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and deal with poets, novelists and Slavonic languages. Cost is $20.

100 Hours Labor, Fine For Possession of Pot

A heavy fine, an unprecedented 100 hours of community work and six months probation were handed down in Victoria provincial court Thursday for simple possession of marijuana.

The decision by Judge William Ostler followed 30 minutes deliberation of the accused's pre-sentence report and discussion of his attitude toward marijuana laws.

David Ronald Robert Wright, 25, of 644 Linden, was fined $750 after Ostler decided to give him another chance and not include incarceration in Wright's third narcotics conviction in five years.

"It is clear this young man entertains a complete rejection of the law regarding sanctions against marijuana," said Ostler while looking through the pre-sentence report.

"But you say you're a strong supporter of democracy," he said, addressing Wright: "I don't know what you think that means, but I think it means government by the people."

That means adherence to laws made by representatives of the people, said Ostler.

Further convictions will mean a jail sentence, "but I'm determined to give you another chance," said the judge.

The charge arose when Wright was found in his residence by police June 12 with 14 ounces of marijuana; he pleaded guilty July 30.

Previous convictions occurred in 1970 for possession of marijuana for trafficking and in 1972 for possession of hashish.

Defence lawyer David Lisson supported his case with a character witness who testified that Wright — manager of a Victoria nightclub — is a talented and competent businessman.

"The accused has come to the conclusion he'd better stay away from the stuff. Not because it's against the law but because he doesn't want to hurt his business," said Ostler.

The 100-hour community work order that was part of the sentence is the largest given in Victoria provincial court since inception of the work plan almost a year ago.

Save The Papers, Pollen Pleads

Management and employees of the Victoria Press Ltd. were urged by Mayor Peter Pollen Thursday to do everything in their power to prevent the closure of "that glorious, glorious anachronism called the Victoria Daily Colonist."

Pollen's remarks to aldermen and news media representatives came after routine business had been dispensed with at city council's regular meeting.

If the Colonist has to cease publication, he said, it will be "the ultimate result of intractable attitudes and absurd opinions."

The newspaper is an anachronism "in name only," said Pollen. For all their faults and limitations — "maybe that's what makes them so endearing to the community" — both the Colonist and the Times are needed.

"I beseech management and employees at this eleventh hour to endeavor to change the direction of the trend, which looks like it is going to mean the death of one of the newspapers," he added.

In an interview after the meeting, the mayor told reporters both parties appear to have adopted "19th century attitudes," and said he is astounded at the "complacency" which has let them drift into the present financial crisis.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

During the past decade, more and more of our better players, holding three low cards of partner's suit, will lead the third highest rather than the top card. In their judgment (reinforced by experience), the lead of the third highest (e.g., the four rather than the nine from a holding of 9-7-4) is the winning lead more often than not.

As an example, observe today's deal, which came up in a tournament some years ago, before the "discovery" of the virtues of the lead of the third highest. The play presented occurred at one of the tables.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♣	4 ♠	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♣.

West's penalty double was based on the hope that his hand would produce about two winning tricks; and that his partner, who had opened the bidding, would produce the two additional tricks needed to defeat the contract.

On West's ten of clubs opening lead, dummy's jack was played, East covered with the king, and South ruffed. Declarer found himself looking at five losing tricks. He recognized that his sole hope of fulfilling his contract lay in establishing two cashable club winners. To accomplish this required a bit of luck.

To trick two declarer led the five of trumps, and when west followed with the six, dummy's eight-spot was inserted. When the eight won the trick, West pushed his chair back and held his remaining cards closer to his chest. Next came the queen of clubs, east put up his ace, and South ruffed with the jack. The seven of trumps was then led, the board's ten winning the trick as both opponents followed suit. On the high eight and nine of clubs South discarded his two losing hearts.

Of course declarer was lucky in his successful finesse against West's nine of trumps; and he was also lucky in that the adversely held trumps were divided 2-2. But his line of play, even if unsuccessful, would have been the correct one.

Had West opened the four of clubs (his third highest) instead of the ten-spot, declarer could not have established and cashed two club tricks. Assuming that the jack would be played from dummy, South would ruff East's king. Next would come a trump to dummy's eight. Then the club queen would be led, East would cover with the ace, South would ruff — and West's ten-spot would become the highest club left in the deck.

"Twelve pairs of socks!" Ted exclaimed. "They'll last me years."

Sally smiled. "They'll have to, the way prices are," she told him. "But they were in the sale. At 95 cents, $1.25, and $1.75 a pair they were only 15 bucks the lot."

How many did she buy at each price?

Thanks for idea to F. Burke, Tuam, Eire.

Triangles Deal Connors' Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — The champion Pittsburgh Triangles of World Team Tennis traded the rights to Jimmy Connors to Cleveland as part of a multi-player transaction, the league announced Wednesday. The Triangles traded Raynie Fox and Kim Warwick, and the rights to Connors and Wendy Overton, for Sue Stapp and what the league called "a considerable amount of cash."

Downtown Regina Violence Rampant

REGINA (CP) — A special task force of 20 policemen has been patrolling downtown Regina for a week in an effort to curb "beer parlor brawls, muggings, robberies and stabbings, Supt. N. P. Collins said Wednesday.

Supt. Collins said that since the extra patrols started Thursday of last week, arrests have doubled, reaching 45 on both Friday and Saturday nights.

Despite the increased effort, since Thursday the downtown area has seen one murder, one attempted robbery at knifepoint and a mid-day beating and robbery in Victoria Park.

The task force was put together after about 12 owners and managers of downtown hotels said they would shut down their beverage rooms each night at 8 p.m. unless something was done to end bar-room brawls.

The officials were shown wreckage from a brawl the previous night at the Drake Hotel.

The five-minute brawl resulted in several hotel employees being injured, one requiring 12 stitches, and an estimated $1,000 in damage.

"I've been in the business for 24 years and I certainly have never seen anything like that," a Drake spokesman said.

He said the bar was closed for a day and a half while wreckage was cleaned up and damage surveyed.

The spokesman and other hotel representatives said the brawl involved a group of about 30 men who have been causing most of the violence.

Chief Approves Demotion

CALGARY (CP) — Police Chief Brian Sawyer has approved a departmental hearing's recommendation that a police officer who assaulted a prisoner be demoted.

The hearing, conducted last week by deputy chief Alex Forster, recommended that Robert Logan Miles be demoted to a second-class from a first-class constable.

The departmental hearing was launched after Const. Miles was found guilty in Alberta Supreme Court of assault causing bodily harm and was fined $200.

100% MORE MURDERS

EDMONTON (CP) — Murder cases increased 100 per cent in 1974 to 14 cases from 1973's seven, the city police department's annual report revealed Thursday.

The report, tabled during a police commission session, said only one of the 1974 cases was unsolved.

The incidence of rape increased 32 per cent, with 129 reported cases compared with 98 in 19773. Only 41 of the case had been cleared from police records.

Breaking and entering offences were up 13 per cent, to 8,959 cases, while armed robberies increased 23 per cent.

The report showed trafficking and the use of illegal drugs rose 84 per cent during the year, to 1,695 cases.

Fatal traffic accidents declined 13 per cent with 42 deaths while traffic accidents causing injury were down 48 per cent from 1973.

Flood 'Tragedy' In Manitoba

HODGSON, MAN. (CP) — Flooding in the Interlake region of Manitoba has created severe hardships for young cattlemen, a veteran cattleman said Wednesday.

Joe Skibinsky of Hodgson, a town about 75 miles northwest of Winnipeg, said the situation has all the elements of a classical tragedy.

"The crop looked very good until Aug. 1," he said. "The cattle were coming along, and families, young housewives, were planning to get a color TV, or something for the kitchen. Then the floods came."

A month of almost steady rainfall has ruined more than 47,000 acres of grain fields in the region and cattle producers estimate 16,600 cows will have to be culled from herds due to a shortage of feed. An estimated 75 per cent of the hay crop has been destroyed.

Gov't Telephones Eyeing Loss

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta Government Telephones is considering seeking the first general rate increase since 1967, says Telephones Minister Allan Warrack.

The minister, speaking in an interview before attending ceremonies opening the new $14.5 million AGT toll building in Calgary, said balance sheets for the first half of the year indicate that the crown corporation "may lose a substantial amount of money in 1975,"

The new AGT building, housing local and long-distance telecommunications equipment, was opened Thursday by Premier Peter Lougheed. The building was named the Len Werry Building in memory of the former telephones minister.

Extra $23 Million For Roads

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government has provided an extra $23 million for highway construction this year, bringing the total primary highway budget for the current fiscal year to more than $103 million, Transportation Minister Hugh Horner, said Thursday.

Horner said the extra appropriation was needed to strengthen older roads that suffered severe frost damage last winter and to continue construction delayed from 1974.

Women's Year Called Useful

SASKATOON (CP) — The chairman of the federal advisory council on the status of women says International Women's Year has served a useful purpose in Canada.

Dr. Katie Cook of Ottawa said in an interview Thursday the year has provided a platform for women to tell the country that the problems affecting women's rights are real and are shared by women across the country.

Trade Union Act Model Offered

EDMONTON (CP) — After five years of preparation, the Alberta Federation of Labor (AFL) Thursday presented its model trade union act to the provincial cabinet.

The proposed act was drafted by labor federations in the four western provinces with help from the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC).

Reg Basken, AFL president, said his 100,000-member organization has not set a deadline for implementation of the proposed act but would be "disappointed if it went past two years without any action."

He predicted the act will stimulate "open discussion" between labor, management, government and the public that, in itself, will improve industrial relations in alberta.

A major principle of the proposed act is to give labor and management direct responsibility for collective bargaining "with the idea that they will reach their own settlements" with a minimum of government interference, he said.

Basken said Alberta's present labor act, which the AFL feels is outdated, is based on the premise that "government must step in and force people to do something they won't do voluntarily."

Government injects such "artificial time barriers" as conciliation by both commissioners and boards, and government-supervised strike votes, into the bargaining process.

Ex-Employee Admits Bugging Meeting

CALGARY (CP) — A former employee of the Calgary Convention Centre pleaded guilty in provincial court Thursday to bugging a budget meeting of the Convention Centre Authority last Jan. 20.

Daniel Toole, former audio visual head of the centre, was remanded to Sept. 17 for sentencing.

Another former employee of the centre, sales representative Donald Simm, was remanded to the same date for the conculsion of a preliminary hearing.

Calgary television station CFCN and its news reporter Ralph Klein were charged with the same offence as Simm but they were acquitted in provincial court May 29.

Both Toole and Simm had testified, under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, before the judicial inquiry into the affairs of the centre which ended Wednesday.

The Insurance Corporation of British Columbia regrets that normal service was disrupted during the strike.

But now we're back in full operation. Here is how vehicle owners can get their claim settled as conveniently and as quickly as possible.

OPERATION CATCH-UP

AN APPOINTMENT SYSTEM.

An appointment system has been developed to catch up on the outstanding claims and to make it as easy as possible for vehicle owners. Here's how the appointment system works:

If your vehicle has been involved in an accident during or after the strike, simply complete this appointment form. Then mail it directly to the Claims Office where it is most convenient for you to go to make your claim. We'll phone you as soon as possible to give you an appointment at a time and day you would prefer.

If you have already mailed in your accident details during the strike, it is still necessary that you contact us using this form.

If your vehicle has been involved in an accident, but you have no damage to claim, just phone us at 665-2800, in Vancouver, to report the details. No appointment is necessary.

INJURIES.

Passengers or pedestrians who have sustained an injury in an accident will be contacted by the Corporation immediately after the owner of the vehicle has reported the accident to a Claims Office. These injured people need not request an appointment.

Vehicle owners who were involved in an accident before the strike and have received a claim number but the claim has not been settled will be contacted by an adjuster as soon as possible. There is no need to request a further appointment at a Claims Office.

NON-DRIVEABLE VEHICLES.

Once your completed appointment form has been received at a Claims Office, we will phone you and make special arrangements to estimate your vehicle damage.

REPAIRED VEHICLES.

If you have had your vehicle repaired during the strike, and paid either the deductible portion of your insurance or the entire amount, use this form to make an appointment. We will phone you on how to proceed with your claim.

BROKEN GLASS.

You don't have to make an appointment if the only damage is cracked or broken glass. We have made special arrangements with glass replacement companies throughout the province. Go to the company of your choice and have the broken glass replaced. Be sure to take along your Owner's Certificate.

We have made special provisions for vehicle owners who do not wish to make an appointment. Two Claims Offices on the lower mainland will operate without appointments. One is at 4399 Wayburne Drive in Burnaby and the other is at 406 S.W. Marine Drive in Vancouver. These Claims Offices will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, on a no-appointment, first come, first served basis. These Claims Offices will open for business on Friday, September 5th.

Manson Girl Held In Bid to Kill Ford

Times News Services

SACRAMENTO — A woman member of the Charles Manson family aimed a loaded pistol at President Ford today, but a Secret Service agent threw her to the ground before she could fire at point-blank range.

The president flinched away. He was unhurt.

The incident occurred about an hour before Ford was to address a joint session of the California legislature on crime and gun control. Afterwards, the president was hustled inside the capitol.

White House press secretary Nessen identified the woman as Lynette Fromme, 27. She is known as "Squeaky."

Nessen said the gun was about two feet from Ford.

He said Larry Buendrof, a Secret Service agent walking behind the president, "saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd." There was a gun in the hand.

"It was established that the gun was a .45 calibre pistol and it was loaded," Nessen said.

A witness to the incident said she heard no click that would have indicated the woman pulled the trigger.

Another witness, Roy Miller, said that as Miss Fromme was wrestled to the ground and handcuffed she cried:

"Don't worry. It didn't go off, fellows, it didn't go off."

Another eyewitness said he saw the woman standing along Ford's route.

"She looked very calm," he said.

"He was taking the hand of the person next to her and then went over to shake her hand. And he saw this gun — the gun is what he saw. I think the President saw the gun before anyone — he saw the gun first and he put his hand up and he hunched over."

UPI staffer Carl Ingram said Ford's face "went black with shock or surprise. He didn't seem to comprehend what was going on."

The woman was led away from the scene by police within a few minutes.

Before that, she shouted, "He's not your servant" in reference to Ford.

Observers said that 20 minutes before the incident, the woman, dressed in red and carrying a large red purse, wandered onto the concrete walkway in the palm tree-lined garden surrounding the Capitol. Police moved her back behind the restraining lines.

After she was subdued, three police officers pushed her into the back seat of a city police cruiser and whisked her to the nearby Hall of Justice.

As the car drove away, the woman had a faint smile on her face and appeared calm.

An hour and a half after the assassination attempt, an unidentified woman called the San Francisco bureau of UPI and said there was a bomb planted in the legislature where Ford was speaking. The call was treated as a hoax.

Landlords Want 28%

Wage Hikes Jump Ahead

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chairman of the British Columbia Rent Review Commission says that B.C. landlords are suggesting rent increases of 28 per cent a year be allowed for the next five years.

John Brewin said Thursday that the proposed figures are contained in a brief from the B.C. Rental Housing Council that was received this week by the government's special task force on rent controls.

He told city council's housing committee that rent increases of 28 per cent a year for the next five years are what landlords feel would be necessary to bring rents on existing buildings close to the level of those in new buildings.

In order to reduce the impact of such increases, Brewin said, the landlords' association is proposing that quarterly rent increases be permitted.

He said, however, that such increases are unacceptable to the government's commission.

He said they would put "tremendous hardship on people" and still not guarantee the construction of any new rental units.

Average rents on one-bedroom apartments now range from $180 to $200, said Brewin, but the cost of new apartment buildings requires a rent of about $350 and this will be up to more than $400 in five years.

Brewin said the government task force, which involves the rent review commission and the housing department, plans to make its report to the government at the end of this month, with new legislation on rent controls to be introduced at the fall session of the legislature.

He indicated the report will recommend a continuation of rent controls, but probably in a more flexible form. He described the current 10.6-per-cent limit on rent increases as "administratively simple, but unfair."

CHILLIWACK, (CP) — Wage settlements in British Columbia are staying ahead of inflation by more than seven per cent, William M. Hamilton, president of the Employer's Council of B.C., said here Thursday.

Hamilton, addressing the Kiwanis Club here said remarks made recently by Len Guy, the secretary-treasurer the B.C. Federation of Labor, in a labor day address were misleading.

Guy had said that workers in the province "would not be seeking such high wage increases if the inflation rate was lower" and that the "prevailing mood in the trade union movement is one of grim determination to see that wages catch up and stay in front of increases in the cost of living."

"The department of labor has just released wage settlement figures for the first and second quarters of this year (and) . . . the average annual increase granted was 18.9 per cent," said Hamilton. "The Vancouver consumer price index figure for July, the most recent available, has that rising at 11.4 per cent."

Hamilton said the figures show that wages here have kept ahead and are continuing to keep ahead of the cost of living in 1975.

"British Columbia is already the highest wage area in Canada," said Hamilton noting that last September, the average weekly wage in Canada was $184.37 but was $211.00 in B.C.; in June of this year, the national average weekly wage was 202.69 and in B.C. it was $231.65.

"This year's increases of 18.9 per cent have been far in excess of our capacity to pay and still remain competitive in international markets," he said.

"Having an export-oriented economic base, B.C. industry is dependent upon foreign markets for a large part of its products. But when the products become so expensive in relation to other countries' products, they simply will not be bought.

"The monetary gains won by the workers in those industries turn into fool's gold (if their products cannot be sold — they look great on paper, but they certainly aren't worth very much when a person is laid off because of lack of work."

IWA Talk Plan Irks Pulpmen

Spokesmen for two striking pulp unions have reacted angrily to Thursday's decision by the International Woodworkers of America to seek new contract talks with the forest industry.

And the IWA has been told again by the industry that it can't expect improvements in the contract already offered.

An IWA spokesman said the union's negotiating committee doesn't believe a strike at this time would be useful.

But the leaders of the two pulp unions already on strike disagreed in separate interviews after the IWA's position was announced.

Art Gruntman of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, interviewed by telephone from Edmonton, said he can't understand the IWA's position.

And Reg Ginn of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of America said the IWA should "get its head screwed on right" and the industry will increase proposals made in a report by Mr. Justice Henry Hutcheon of the B.C. Supreme Court only after the IWA goes on strike.

Don Lanskail, president of Forest Industrial Relations, which negotiates for the industry, said he is prepared at any time to meet IWA negotiators to clarify parts of the non-binding report, but not to improve on recommendations.

The IWA spokesman, in a prepared statement, quoted union regional head Jack Munro as saying a strike by the union, whose membership is already generally unem-

Airline Cuts Flights

Times News Services

MONTREAL — Air Canada said Thursday it will drop one daily flight linking Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver and one daily non-stop daily flight between Vancouver and Regina, as part of a general reduction in service.

The airline announced a cutback of about 96 flights a week on domestic and international routes, effective Monday, because of declining passenger traffic.

"You could say we're cutting out the frills," an Air Canada spokesman said today.

The cutbacks on 10 routes constitute less than three per cent of total flights, the airline said.

Dropped will be flight 147, a daily flight linking Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver involving 14 flights a week.

Also to be dropped is flight 232, a daily afternoon flight between Vancouver and Regina, bringing that service to two from three daily; flight 213, a nonstop run from London to Winnipeg; leaving four flights via Toronto; and a mid-morning daily, flight 600, Toronto to Halifax.

Not mentioned in the Air Canada announcement was the cancellation of a daily flight from Toronto to North Bay, number 761.

In trans-border flights, one of two daily flights from Edmonton and Calgary to San Francisco, the evening flight 769, will be cancelled. Flight 760 between Quebec City-New York has been cancelled Monday to Thursday, while Montreal and Toronto to Los Angeles will lose one of two daily flights, number 793.

In overseas flights, one of two runs a week from Toronto to Brussels and Copenhagen and another from Montreal to those destinations is being dropped.

A Tuesday flight to Barbados and Port of Spain, Trinidad, from Toronto and Montreal, will be cancelled, and two of three Saturday flights between Montreal, Toronto and Barbados will also be dropped.

MacMillan Bloedel Facing First Loss

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. told its shareholders Thursday it is "quite possible" it will lose money this year. The loss would be the first in the history of Canada's largest forest firm.

The warning, in a letter from George B. Currie, chairman and chief financial officer, said the possibilty of a loss stems from continuing labor strife, the disappointing rate of recovery of the U.S. economy and anticipated transport losses.

Profits for MB, which reached $81.7 million in 1973 and $72.2 million in 1974, were only $19.8 million in the first half of 1975, reflecting both the bad market for company products and the first writeoffs associated with loss on shipping activities.

MB has already eliminated dividend payment for the third quarter after earlier reducing them to 15 cents per share.

Profits of many other B.C. forest firms have fallen sharply this year. Industry observers believe a number could show losses, at least for the third quarter if not for the complete year.

Currie said MB was intensifying efforts to effect "the closest kind of cost control," all MB departments had been ordered to cut their budgets by 10 per cent.

Latest Terror Bomb Rips London's Hilton

LONDON—A bomb exploded in the lobby of the plush London Hilton hotel today, killing two people and injuring at least 30.

Four of the wounded are in serious condition with two of them reported to have lost limbs.

Police suspect the bomb was planted by a breakaway faction of the Irish Republican Army, believed responsible for a series of terrorist blasts in the London area in recent weeks.

An anonymous caller with an Irish accent telephoned Associated Newspapers, publishers of the Daily Mail and London Evening News, shortly before the blast at the hotel which is only 600 yards from Buckingham Palace.

The explosion, coming at the start of the lunch hour, smashed through the front and side of the hotel and left the lobby spattered with blood, injured bodies and smoking carpet.

"One minute the lobby was normal and then there was this almighty explosion," said Anthony Peters, who was working at an airline desk in the lobby.

A chef working in the kitchens at the top of the 28-storey hotel said there was a "terrific explosion which shook the whole building.

The blast knocked out windows on all three sides of the Y-shaped hotel, the most prominent building along fashionable Park Lane and a favorite of tourists.

In Ulster, meanwhile, Guerrillas bombed a tavern and wounded at least eight people late Thursday night.

Mainland Supermarkets Close Doors

Supermarkets remained open on Vancouver Island today but 125 stores in the Lower Mainland closed because of a lockout.

The B.C. Food Industry Labor Relations Council instituted the mainland lockout because unions involved in a contract dispute did not reply to a company ultimatum by 4 p.m. Thursday.

The council had warned it would lock out retail clerks thereby closing supermarkets, if the unions did not agree to provide the council with 72 hours notice of any picket action so markets wouldn't be caught with perishable goods on shelves.

The 125 stores involved in the dispute are mainly Safeway and Super Valu stores with a smaller number of Stongs, company-owned IGA, Hi-Low, Shop-Easy and Overwaitea stores.

In Greater Victoria, however, 10 Safeway and five Super Value stors were open because the only strike or lockout notice that has been given is lockout notice to bakers who are off work at the only in-plant bakery here, the Safeway at Fort and Foul Bay.

"We have not done anything since then," a Safeway spokesman said today. "We are just carrying on."

Six other supermarkets on the Island that have in-plant bakeries, including stores in Campbell River, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Duncan, remain open except for their bakery operations.

The unions — bakers, meatcutters and retail clerks — have rejected an industry offer of $1.30 an hour in contracts of just under a year. The proposal would have increased base rates to $7.95 an hour for meatcutters, $7.25 an hour for clerks and $8.41 an hour for bakers.

The food council said original demands of the unions would have produced annual salaries of $16,536 for clerk cashiers, $19,240 for meatwrappers, $21,112 for meatcutters and $18,964 for bakery workers, an increase in wages and fringe benefits of 76.2 per cent.

The food council's proposals would produce annual salaries of $15,080 for clerks, $16,536 for meatcutters and $17,492 for bakers.

Current rates are $6.65 an hour for meatcutters, $5.95 an hour for clerks and $6.92 an hour for bakers. The council said annual salaries are about $13,832, $10,920 and $12,607 respectively.

The food industry council said Thursday binding arbitration would be acceptable to settle the dispute.

Bill Macdonald of Vancouver, spokesman for the council, said the employers' group agrees with a call by the federal food prices review board for provincial government intervention in the dispute.

"The (provincial) government should appoint an arbitrator who will decide in the public interest what is a fair

CITY ABOLISHES WITCHES, GOBLINS

WASHINGTON (WP) — With an official declaration that bands of youngsters trick or treating on All Hallows Eve have become "an annual nuisance" the city of Cumberland, Md., has abolished the Halloween tradition.

Not only have the tradition youthful pranks that normally accompany the night of Oct. 31 become a problem, the council said, but adult retaliation has also become a hazard for trick-or-treaters.

"I don't know what it is," Cumberland councilman Frank Trozzo said Thursday, "but people have become really destructive. We've had them poison the treats the kids get when they come to the door and put razor blades in apples. Everyone seemed to enjoy Halloween in the past. Maybe they just got tired of listening to the doorbell ring so much."

City 'Playing Politics On Law Enforcement'

Victoria Times
FRIDAY, SEPT. 5, 1975 17
SECOND SECTION

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Phil Jamieson, president of the B.C. Federation of Peace Officers, today accused Victoria city council of "playing politics with law enforcement," by refusing to acknowledge a contract worked out between the Victoria police board and the city policemen's union.

Jamieson, a Saanich constable, said in a lengthy statement federation members are "appalled at the outrageous stand" adopted by council in trying to quash the legal rights of both the police board and the union.

He noted that the board and the union had duly concluded an agreement as required by the B.C. Police Act, but that under the guise of protecting city taxpayers council had suddenly decided, "like Peter Pan in Never Never Land, to evade its moral, legal and ethical responsibility to its citizens, its police board and its own police officers."

Jamieson said council seems to have renewed its traditional tactics of trying to deprive police officers of their rights, by "quibbling and bickering" over fundamental conditions of employment that have been settled everywhere else.

"They are trying to make the Victoria city police force the lowest paid in Western Canada," he said. "The fact that they attempt this year after year, apart from being unfair to the policemen and their families, is also pure bad management and cannot help but be totally demoralizing and have a tragic effect on law enforcement."

It is not surprising, he added, that provincial legislators sought a separation of powers "to negate political opportunism on the part of councils by clearly defining the responsibilities of council and police boards."

Jamieson said council's refusal to approve the police board's wage offer to the union—a 22.3 per cent increase which would have put city policemen on a par with Saanich policemen — was "a clear attempt to thwart the police board, the collective bargaining system, the provincial Labor Code and the Police Act.

"We are dismayed by this action and its support by Oak Bay council, who are clearly acting as agent provocateurs," he said, in pledging the federation's support for city policemen and calling for similar public support.

At the request of the police union, the Labor Relations Board will hold a hearing in Vancouver Tuesday to rule on the union's claim that it has a valid collective agreement with the Victoria police board, and that the agreement is binding on the city.

On Thursday, city council appointed Vancouver lawyer Jack Giles to represent the city at the hearing.

Bourque 'Way Out Of Line'

The head of the Saanich firefighters union denied today there is any possibility that the fire department will not respond to calls during current negotiations.

Ken Ebbs-Canavan, president of local 967 said Ald. Joe Bourque, chairman of council's fire and civil defence committee, was "out of line" in suggesting such a possibility.

"We have a two-year contract that doesn't expire until Dec. 31," Ebbs-Canavan said, "Ald. Bourque is so far out of line. We explicitly explained what our position will be."

Ebbs-Canavan said he and other representatives of the union met with Bourque, Mayor Ed Lum and others about two weeks ago to explain the union's position.

"We have a mutural aid plan between ourselves and the city. We told them we would respond to calls in the city, in the event of a strike (by city firefighters) until such time as a picket line was established," Ebbs-Canavan said.

Ebbs-Canavan said this action is necessary to avoid turning Saanich firefighters into "professional strike breakers" in such a situation.

Bourque raised the issue at a meeting of his committee Wednesday night, stating that if a building was allowed to burn down it was imperative to find out who would be legally responsible — the municipality or the union.

Mayor Ed Lum said today Bourque had not "done his homework" and was merely seeking publicity through the media.

"I'm greatly disturbed. Ald. Bourque is up for re-election and trying to create something to get his name in the paper," he said.

"It also disturbs me that Ald. Bourque has not done his homework in this case. He's chairman of that committee and should know what's going on in that department."

Rental units at 2405 Chambers are expected to be completed by November

Gov't Rentals List Grows

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victorians can still apply for the 24 provincial government-subsidized rental units which will be available this fall — but getting accepted won't be easy.

"There is still time to apply although we have a long waiting list," said Al Stein, Vancouver Island manager for B.C. Housing Management Commission.

"The units will be allocated later this month on the basis of who has the greatest need."

Anyone may apply but those families with only moderate income stand the best chance of being accepted. The units are located in two townhouse developments of 12 apartments each at 2405 Chambers and 1209 Bay St.

They are two and three-bedroom units.

The rent is a flat 25 per cent of adjusted income. The adjustment involves a complicated formula but includes a subtraction of $100 off the top. For example, a family with monthly income of $900 could be considered to have an adjusted income of $800 and would pay rent at 25 per cent of $800, or $200 per month.

"The main factor in our decision, however, is not income but urgency of need," Stein said.

For example, a family being evicted will have a very high priority, regardless of income. In addition, a family living in unsuitable housing will have a higher priority than another family living in fairly attractive housing at the present time.

Stein said anyone interested in the government-subsidized units may apply at the office of B.C. Housing Management Commission, 3400 Douglas, or phone 382-8742 for application forms. Those not accepted for the present 24 units will go on the waiting list for 200 similar units that are expected to become available on the Island in 1976. All rental units are newly constructed.

Tentative opening date for the Bay St. townhouses is October and for the Chambers project November.

The commission already has 500 similar units completed and rented on Vancouver Island.

While the project is supervised by the provincial government, it is financed jointly by three levels of governments.

He Didn't Even Open His Mouth

Twice in quick succession Esquimalt MLA Jim Gorst was curtly silenced before he had even started to address Victoria city council on Thursday.

Gorst wasn't at the council meeting, but deputy clerk Terry Durshel started to read two letters from the MLA to the city, concerning new provincial grants to municipalities.

Before she had even reached the "Dear Sirs" stage in either letter, Ald. Mike Young abruptly moved the traditional "received and filed" motion.

Aldermen voted accordingly, grinned, and moved on to the next item of business.

Ask The Times

Q. Some years ago Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce ran a series of Sherlock Holmes on television. Would you advise me of the network and where I can write for a repeat of this most excellent program? P. T.

A. The films were made during the late 1930s and early 1940s and are aired on late night television individually. However, there is a series of British-produced mysteries entitled, The Rivals of Sherlock Holmes, which are aired on PBS and are due for repeat telecasts beginning Thursday, September 9 at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

Q. Do pickles and relishes contain nourishment?—W.B.

A. These items are of very little nutritional value. With dill pickles, for example, calories and protien content are minimal. We don't suggest you subsist on a diet of pickles and relishes.

Teacher Sees Value In Language Diversity

By HOI-YIN DER
Times Staff

A man who knows more than one language has a better understanding of the world, says the new head teacher at the Chinese School on Fisgard Street.

"I know very little about Victoria," said Anderson Sui-kwun Ku, who arrived from Hong Kong a month and a half ago, "but I have heard that there are many Chinese children who cannot read or write their own native tongue, that they are dropping out of Chinese school because it is boring or because they are being ridiculed . . ."

"Language is the key to knowledge and I feel there is much to offer the children in Chinese writings."

The Chinese Consolidated Benevolent School, as it is called, has two hours of classes Mondays through to Fridays for 90 regular school students from grades one to six.

Ku, who has 23 years teaching experience, will be setting the curriculum and teaching grades five and six.

Ku, who holds a masters degree in Chinese Literature and History from Hong Kong University, was secretary-general of the Hong Kong Teachers' Association from 1970-72 and president from 1972-74.

He had also worked in educational television.

The 45-year-old teacher said in an interview this week that he had emigrated from Hong Kong to forge a new and better life for himself and his family.

Ku said he came directly to Victoria because he had heard it is a beautiful and serene city and a good place for his children to grow up.

Since his arrival, Ku has also found employment as a Chinese teacher at Camosun College and has moved his family into a home at 1697 Foul Bay Road.

He has three children: Angela, 16; Alex, 15 and Margaret, 11. They all speak English fluently, as does their mother Monica, and have found transition into the Canadian way of life easy.

"The only thing we miss is the great variety of Chinese foods in Hong Kong and the afternoon teas and delicacies," Ku said.

But there is so much more security in life here, he said, explaining that Victoria lacks the criminal element of Hong Kong.

KU
. . . 'key to knowledge

"My family cannot even walk the streets without being afraid of being attacked by hoodlums," he said. "Here we can go for strolls, enjoy the night air and sense of peace."

He said that in Hong Kong, entrances of homes have at least two iron doors and iron bars girding the windows.

"I haven't seen any bars since I've arrived here," he said with relief.

Ku said another reason he left Hong Kong was so he could be with his children when they reach the age for university.

In Hong Kong there are only two universities. Seventy thousand high school graduates apply for entrance annually; but there is room for only 2,000. Many students therefore go abroad for higher education.

Ku said he is disappointed to see that the Chinese language is not taught at the high school level in Victoria.

"French, German, Spanish and Latin is offered, but no Chinese . . ."

"Would the Canadian people not develop a better understanding of China and the Chinese people if they could read, write and speak the language?" he queried.

More Belt-Tightening

Further economies and increases in fees charged for basic services, part of City Hall's determined belt-tightening since the recent three-month civic dispute, were approved by Victoria city council on Thursday.

Effective midnight Sept. 30, there will be a complete overhaul in the operation of the Johnson Street Bridge, with the bridge manned for only 79 hours per week instead of the present round-the-clock basis.

If the bridge has to be lifted for marine traffic during hours when an operator isn't normally on duty, the firm requesting the lift will have to foot the bill for the staff time involved.

To avoid disrupting peak-hour vehicle traffic the bridge will remain in the "down" position Monday to Friday from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Also approved by council Thursday was a revision in the fee structure of the city's water distribution utility.

This will see no increase in the general water rate, but will involve the elimination of special summer and irrigation rates which have allowed heavy users cheaper water. Basic service charges will also be increased 100 per cent for all consumers.

To replace the present system of reading meters every two months, meters will be read annually and bi-monthly billing will be based on consumption of the previous 12-month period.

RHODES TRUST FOR WOMEN?

The B.C. selection committee for Rhodes Scholars is beginning to question the men-only policy of the scholarships.

"Most people now feel that it ought to be open to both male and female candidates," said Sholto Hebenton, a Vancouver lawyer who is B.C. secretary of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, Thursday.

"I've been on the selection committee three or four years and it's been a matter of concern every year."

Cecil Rhodes, whose fortune from South African diamond mines still supports the scholarships, stipulated in his will that men — not women — be eligible for the scholarships to Oxford University.

Applications will be accepted until Oct. 25 from single men aged 18 to 24 for 11 1976 Rhodes Scholarships which will be awarded to Canadians this fall.

Hebenton said trust officials in England are now trying to get Rhodes' will, written in 1899, altered so women can be accepted.

Each scholarship is worth about 2,000 British pounds a year for two and possibly three years starting September, 1976, to finance studies at Oxford.

The money covers all expenses and enables the scholar to travel in Britain and Europe during the three long vacations of the Oxford academic year.

Applicants, preferably in their third or fourth year of university, are selected by provincial committees after personal interviews and on the basis of their record, including academic ability, character, leadership quality and interest in outdoor sports.

A Qualified Love-Letter to Victoria

AT INTERVALS IN OUR country year, we point our car south with a trip to town in mind. About three and a half hours later, the highway ejects us into Douglas Street. We are once more in Victoria the Beautiful, with an eye peeled for such meaningful changes as new traffic lights and one-way arteries that can trap the unwary revenant.

More often than not, these visits allow scant time for footloose roving. We have appointments to keep and shopping to do, and an evening run home up the highway when our errands are accomplished.

But the last trip was different. We voted ourselves an extra day to wander as we pleased in the city we like best.

It was one of those soft, pearl-grey days with which Victoria is blessed. The lawns were green, and the flower beds miracles of color to eyes fresh from the harsher narth.

We loafed our way around the University of Victoria campus, hoping that absence would have lent enchantment to that scene.

But the university buildings remained as I remember them — architectural blah except for the low-profiie wooden Sedgewick which fits its surroundings — and we eased on down to a waterfront where man and nature have worked more harmoniously together.

If there's a drive in Canada to match Victoria's shore-skirting circuit, we have yet to discover it. We followed it around from Saanich through Oak Bay to Victoria proper, with a pause at Cattle Point in the unfulfilled hope that Mount Baker might poke its uneasy head through the overcast, and with a side-excursion into Beacon Hill park.

In a changing world, Beacon Hill park does not change, a fact for which generations of jealously watchful Victorians can take credit. The old man on the bench could have been the same elder citizen whom I found snacking from a little bag of puppy biscuits there one morning long ago. With the courtesy that makes Victoria a city apart, he offered the bag. We munched together in the sunshine, for which the city of Douglas and poor under-appreciated Amor de Cosmos is also noted. The biscuit wasn't half bad.

From Beacon Hill, we took ourselves to the Causeway and the Inner Harbor, where we learned that change is not necessarily for the worse. The walkway by the harbor pleased us, and so in spite of criticisms read and heard, did the restaurant that has metamorphised from a landmark service station.

Then uptown by way of the Government Street mall, which hardly deserves the name, to the authentic little mall sandwiched between the two halves of Eatons.

Victoria means people as well as places. I spotted a hat worn as only an oldtime newspaperman could wear one, and under it a familiar face. Archie Wills . . . an editor who for many years kept a sensitive finger on the pulse of the earlier Victoria.

Archie's eighty-third birthday is coming up, but he looks 20 years younger. He's working on his memoirs, a project that keeps expanding with each dip into his grab-bag of memories.

"The thing is going to be so long that it would scare any publisher off," said Archie, who among other distinctions rates as godfather to Victoria's sea serpent, Cadborosaurus. I trust he's wrong: those memoirs should make good reading. So to lunch, where the sight of another remembered face arrested my chopsticks on their way to the chop suey. This one belonged to Mr. Premier: the same Dave Barrett, summer-tanned and a trifle plumper, who impressed me in the years when he was rallying his Opposition party for its assault on Castle Bennett.

Canada's most controversial provincial politician recalled those underdog legislative sessions with a chuckle. But in this interlude before he takes on another Bennett, he prefered to chat as a proud father about his family.

And finally, homeward bound along the highway once more.

The flowers have to fight harder for existence here. The climate is tougher, the life-style heartier. But distance as well as time is relative, and we prefer to consider this our home reach as no more than a far-flung suburb of Victoria.

2 Robbers Strike Again?

Two men who held up the Pacific 66 service station in the Town and Country shopping centre Thursday night may be the same pair who held up the Value Way grocery store, 101 West Burnside, last weekend, Saanich police said today

The descriptions of the men vary, but their heights are the same, one six foot tall, the other five foot eight inches, and the method of operation was similar.

Although the grocery clerk described one of the men as tall and thin and guessed the men's ages at between 18 and 20, the gas station attendant reported both men were heavy-set and in their late 20s or early 30s.

The first holdup netted robbers $130; the second, which occurred at about 10 p.m., netted them between $300 and $400.

A police spokesman said the two men who held up the grocery store appeared to have fled on foot, but the pair who robbed the gas station are believed to have left the scene in a large American car. The vehicle was last seen heading east on Saanich Road.

Police do not have any suspects as yet although the spokesman said, "we're working on several good leads."

B.C. Needs 'Ignored'

NELSON (CP) — A brief submitted Thursday to the Pearse Royal Commission on Forest Resources said the needs of people living in the Slocan Valley are ignored by the large, United States-based corporation that control almost all of the forest land in the valley.

The brief, presented by the Slocan Valley Resources Society, said short-sighted government policies encourage companies to adopt "cut and get out" attitudes that damage the ecology and fail to take advantage of the characteristics of the forests in the valley, about 30 miles west of here.

The brief said the number of independent operators in the valley has dropped to three from 31 since the mid-1950s.

This trend for forest companies to grow by buying out competing and allied operations means jobs are sacrificed for faster production with specialized equipment.

The brief also said although logging has more than doubled in the area since 1972, no manpower has been added to government agencies, and with the increased work load, cursory permit inspections are the rule.

The brief said government staff in the Slocan area is saddled with 10 times as much acreage to supervise as is the staff of a nearby U.S. forest district.

That point was reinforced by Bill Young, B.C. assistant chief forester, who told University of British Columbia Economics Professor Dr. Peter Pearse, sole member of the commission, that the B.C. Forest Service has only 6.6 per cent of the professional strength of the U.S. Forest Service and has to manage a property that is larger than that entrusted to its U.S. counterpart.

Young said his service has 327 professional foresters against the 4,897 employed in the U.S. national forests. This small number, he said, presents a near impossible situation to his men.

He said the B.C. Forest Service administers 211 million acres and the U.S. Forest Service looks after 187 million acres. Productive yields from respective territories are nearly equal.

$40M Loan Sought

WASHINGTON (WP) — Israel has asked the World Bank for a loan slightly in excess of $40 million for water conservation and other Developmental purposes, it was learned Thursday.

Bank officials have indicated that a $35 million loan authorized last May would be the last one given to Israel, because its high per capita income now disqualifies it — along with some other smaller countries — for World Bank assistance.

But Israeli Central Bank Governor Moshe Sanbar plans a direct appeal today to World Bank President Robert S. McNamara.

The Israeli argument that it should not be cut off from World Bank loans is based, first, on the claim that its per capita income, said by the bank to be close to $3,000, is exaggerated by extraordinary defence expenditures.

Israel Buys Most Arms

LONDON (UPI) — The Institute for Strategic Studies (ISS) said today Israel leads the world in per capita defence spending as part of an unprecedented arms race in the Middle East with the Soviet Union and the United States the chief suppliers of weaponry.

ISS figures showed Israel spent $1,043 per person on defence, Saudi Arabia $712, the United States $430 and the Soviet Union $409.

Israel leads, too, in percentage of gross national product spent on defence, 32 per cent, but is second behind Egypt's 42 per cent in the amount of governmental spending devoted to war, according to the institute's "Military Balance 1975-76."

The report was published prior to the U.S. pledge to provide Israel with even more weaponry as part of the bargaining that brought about an interim agreement with Egypt. The ISS gave previous arms details.

"Conventional forces were strengthened in the Middle East," the report said, "with Israel, Egypt and Syria continuing to replenish their armories beyond the levels ruling before the (1973) October war.

"Each introduced new weapons, notably (Soviet) MiG-23 aircraft for Egypt and Syria and (U.S.) anti-tank guided weapons and air-to-surface missiles for Israel, whose orders for advanced U.S. aircraft were held up."

The ISS said Persian Gulf states, large and small, turned for weapons to Britain, France and the United States, with Iran and Saudi Arabia tripling their defence budgets.

Listing Middle East weapons on order, the ISS said Egypt has six helicopters coming from Britain, 44 Mirage F-1 fighters from France, 48 MiG-23s from the Soviets and unspecified artillery and surface-to-air missiles from the Soviets.

It said Syria has ordered from Moscow an unspecified number of tanks, artillery pieces, surface-to-surface missiles, surface-to-air missiles, helicopters and other equipment, along with 130 MiG-21 fighters and 45 MiG-23s.

As for Israel, it said, the United States is supplying 600 new tanks, armored personnel carriers, 35 F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers, eight CH-47 helicopters, anti-tank missiles, surface-to-air missiles and air-to-surface missiles.

China Lagging in Build-Up

LONDON (Reuter) — China's army of 2,000,000 men is still essentially a defensive force and lacks the facilities for protracted large-scale military operations outside the country, says a survey published today.

The 1975-76 edition of The Military Balance, published by the London-based International Institute of Strategic Studies, notes that in a world where the arms race is booming, China's build-up is comparatively slow.

But the pace of re-equipment has appeared to fall off somewhat, the survey adds.

The Chinese nuclear program continued slowly during the year but facilities for producing nuclear materials were expanded and the stockpile of nuclear weapons might grow rapidly.

A multi-stage inter-continental balistic missile with a range of perhaps 3,500 miles—able to reach Moscow and most of Asia—appears to have been ready for deployment for some time, but it is not yet in operation, says the survey.

Arab Rift Widens Over Peace Pact

BEIRUT (UPI) — The new Egyptian-Israeli peace agreement negotiated by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has left the Arab world with its deepest split in five years.

Opposition to the agreement grew Thursday.

Iraq joined Syria in denouncing the pact and the Palestine Liberation Organization planned an emergency meeting to discuss ways to wreck it.

Protest demonstrations were held in Damascus and the PLO's news agency WAFA said massive demonstrations were planned for the weekend.

Editorial criticism of the accord grew in newspapers across the Arab world from Beirut to Kuwait.

Iraq called the three-year iterim pact "a serious and highly dangerous development." Syria lambasted it as a "major setback to the Arab struggle."

Jordan, mindful of the bitter Syrian reaction, denied reports that King Hussein had expressed conditional support for the accord in talks with Kissinger in Amman Wednesday.

Reporters covering Kissinger's Middle East shuttle had quoted a senior U.S. official on the secretary's plane as saying Hussein was not enthusiastic about the accord but had endorsed it as a step in right direction.

But Israeli and Egyptian military men will begin talks next week on implementing the new peace agreement.

The two nations have agreed to work out the details of the disengagement accord in two weeks of military negotiations and implement the pact within five months.

The United Nations is expected to ask for few, if any, additional Canadians to join an expanded Middle East emergency force made necessary by the new agreement.

Canadian officials, who have been closely watching the development of the agreement, said, at least initially, it is expected that the almost 1,000 Canadians in the Middle East will be adequate.

This was because the logistics role of Canada and Poland in the UN Emergency Force in Egypt and the UN Disengagement Observer Force in Syria has little to do with UNEF's major role of observing the ceasefire.

Fraud Conviction Over False Credit

Patrick Donald McInnes, of 2-1465 Fort, was found guilty today of "unlawfully and fraudulently" impersonating Brian D. Savard, Dec. 2, 1974 with intent to purchase certain property — approximately $1,500 worth of furniture.

Judge Montague Drake said in county court that fraud equals dishonesty and that there is no need for the prosecution to show that injury was caused to Savard.

Defence lawyer Gordon Macdonald argued Thursday that there was no fraud, in the sense of deprivation by deceit, because no harm had come to Savard.

Prosecutor Barry Mah Ming had argued that it was not germane to say that no one lost financially. The impersonation was intentional to obtain furniture and the reason was that McInnes had a poor credit rating.

Judge Drake said the facts of the case were that McInnes found a wallet and identification belonging to Savard and used it to open credit at Standard Furniture and represented himself to that company as Savard, who hadn't given him permission.

It was also clear, he said, that no one suffered any injury because of this.

After McInnes was found guilty, Macdonald asked the court to consider an absolute discharge.

His client was employed as a private investigator and the offence "is one of enormous poor judgment. He thought he was doing nothing wrong because he paid his bills. He has no criminal record."

Judge Drake requested a pre-sentence report and sentencing was set for Oct. 3.

Brewery Picket Off

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets set up Thursday morning by members of the Brewery and Warehousemen's Union at Carling-O'Keefe Breweries here have been taken down.

The problem was over distribution of beer supplies.

Carlings have their own fleet of trucks and the union was questioning whether the fleet was infringing upon some areas which another firm, Argus Truck, handles. Argus is currently being struck by local 300 of the Brewery Workers Union.

Carling's employees are in the same local but their contract expires at a different date.

The company and the union discussed the situation and agreed that where jurisdiction of an area is in question, the area would be avoided.

Nasser Aides Accused Of Poisoning

CAIRO (Reuter) — Egyptian authorities are considering murder charges against former aides of the late president Gamal Abdel Nasser following allegations that his personal physician and his war minister were poisoned, informed sources said Thursday.

This followed Cairo news reports that a presidential physician was poisoned 11 years ago after he was believed to have told Nasser that he was medically unfit to rule the country.

Medical sources said Nasser suffered a rare disease known as bronze diabetes, which impairs mental ability.

Nasser died at the age of 52 in 1970.

When the presidential physician — Dr. Anwar el Mufti — died in 1964, there were whispers that his death was not of natural causes.

Earlier reports had said Egypt's ex-war minister and armed forces commander, field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, was also poisoned.

Officially he was reported to have committed suicide after the six-day war of 1967.

Squadron Seeking Cadets

The 89 (Pacific) Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, has openings for boys and girls 13 or older, by the end of the year.

The squadron meets Mondays at 6:45 p.m. in the Bay Street Armory.

The squadron's commanding officer, Capt. Ken Cutler, who can be reached at 479-7490 in the evenings, reports that this year the squadron produced three power pilots, four glider pilots and one entrant to Royal Roads Military College.

Claims Shuffled

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Federal Indian Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan says the provinces hold the rights to all land in Canada and are responsible for settlement with Indians of the aboriginal land claims issue.

Buchanan, interviewed while visiting this interior city Wednesday, said the federal government is "completely hung up" on the issue of aboriginal land claims.

Frank Howard, the provincial government's Indian affairs adviser, said Thursday in a telephone interview that the province's hands are tied on the issue and that the federal government is the responsible body for a settlement.

Howard said that the federal government is sole trustee over Indian lands since provincial Crown land was given to the federal government in 1920 to hold in trust.

"Now they (the federal government) want us to turn around and do it all over again," said Howard.

He said the federal government is the sole government body responsible for making and signing a treaty. He said if the province was to enter the aboriginal land claims dispute it would involve signing a treaty — an action prevented by terms of the British North America Act.

Sudan Coup Foiled

CAIRO (UPI) — President Jaafar Numeiry of Sudan, foiled an attempted army coup today and was restored to power hours after the second attempt in four years to oust him, the Middle East News Agency reported.

Explosion Kills 4

Canadian Men Post Second Win in Row

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — The Canadian men's field hockey team posted its second win in as many starts on its current New Zealand tour Thursday, scoring three second-half goals to beat a Hutt Valley club side 3-1.

The Canadians opened their tour with a 4-11 win earlier this week over another club team.

Highlights and New Season Premieres

Make a Wish, on 4 at 11:30. Fifth season premiere of this Emmy-winning children's series, hosted by singer-composer Tom Chapin. (30 mins.)

Grover Monster Jean Marsh Cartoon Special, on 9 at 3:30. Co-hosts Jean Marsh (from Upstairs, Downstairs) and muppet Grover Monster show a collection of animated films from the children's series Sesame Street and The Electric Company. (60 mins.)

Big Eddie, on 5 at 5. A new comedy series starring Sheldon Leonard as the owner of a sports arena, and Sheree North as his wife. (This program moves to Friday evening beginning September 19). (30 mins.)

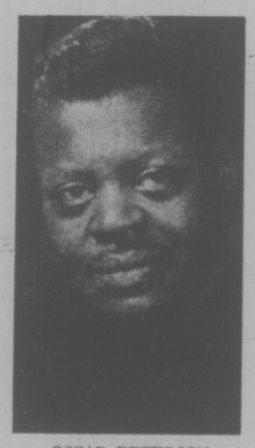
Conversations with Eric Sevareid, on 7 and 12 at 6. In his last show of this series, host Eric Sevareid interviews George F. Kennan, former American ambassador to the U.S.S.R. and a Pulitzer Prize-winning historian. He comments on his 30-year diplomatic carrer, and other subjects ranging from the First World War to detente. (60 mins.)

Oscar Peterson, on 8 at 7. Jazz pianist Oscar Peterson and the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra perform in a tribute to the late Duke Ellington. (60 mins.)

Family Holvak, on 5 at 7:30 Debut of a new drama series set in the mid-Depression and starring Glenn Ford as a minister struggling to feed his family and maintain the faith of his congregation. The award-winning Broadway actress Julie Harris portrays his wife. (60 mins.)

Cher, on 7 at 7:30. Cher's second season premieres with guests Bill Cosby, the Smothers Brothers and the Muppets. The program includes a skit called The Pain Game which is a satire on game shows; and Shape Up America, a spoof on physical fitness which is capped by Euell Gibbons appearing to receive an award. (60 mins.)

Touch of Gold, on 12 at 7:30. A program of gold-record hits, hosted by Mac Davis with featured performers including Stevie Wonder, Vicki Lawrence, David Essex, The DeFranco Family and Grammy-winning instrumentalists Eric Weissberg and Steve Mandell. (60 mins.)



OSCAR PETERSON
. . . on 8 at 7 p.m.

Vienna Philharmonic, on 9 at 7:35. Willi Boskovsky conducts the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra in musical selections by the Strauss family. The program also includes dances by the Vienna State Ballet Opera Corps. (60 mins.)

Performance, on 2 and 6 at 8. This acclaimed CBC drama series begins its second season with Lulu Street, a 1967 play by Ann Henry. Set in a Winnipeg rooming house in 1919, the drama is essentially a character study of people swept up in the social turmoil of the general strike that paralyzed that city for six weeks. Cast includes James Blendick, Helen Burns and Jayne Eastwood (90 mins.)

Johnny Cash Ridin' the Rails, on 8 at 8. The Great American Train story as told through the reminiscences and music of Johnny Cash, who traces the railroads' growth and colorful history. The program — a must for steam engine buffs — was filmed on location in Utah, Colorado, Tennessee and Georgia. (60 mins.)

Lucy Maud Montgomery, on 2 and 6 at 9:30. A portrait of the author of Anne of Green Gables. The book, written in 1908, is thought to be largely autobiographical, but this program, drawn from her unpublished diaries, depicts her life as more sad than sweet. Linda Goranson plays Miss Montgomery: Jackie Burroughs does her off-camera voice, and Gordon Pinsent narrates the show, which was filmed mostly on Prince Edward Island. (90 mins.)

60 Minutes, on 7 at 9:30 Topics tonight include a report on the gambling industry in Las Vegas and a look at the rising number of personal bankruptcy cases. (60 mins.)

Window on the World, on 8 at 10. The Oil Weapon — a study of the political and economic power of Arab oil-producing nations in today's world. (60 mins.)

Arsenic: An Element of Chance, on 4 at 10:30. The pros and cons of environment vs. economy are examined in this report on industrial arsenic emissions from the Tacoma Smelter. (30 mins.)

Jeanne Wolf With . . . on 9 at 10:30. An interview with Florynce Kennedy, a U.S. attorney, author and political activist, who deals specifically with the oppression in society. As one example, she points to what she considers to be the lack of opportunity for women and blacks in the media. (30 mins.)

Movies

Major Barbara (xxx), on 5 at noon. An excellent 1941 film rendering of George Bernard Shaw's classic play about labor, politics and an extra-ordinary Salvation Army girl, starring Wendy Hiller and Rex Harrison.

Highlights and New Season Premieres

Give-n-Take, on 11 and 12 at 9. Debut of a new game show in which the contestants guess the cash value of various items. (30 mins.)

Bold Ones, on 4 at 9:30. Return of the popular drama series revolving around a team of defence lawyers; a group of doctors; and a detachment of law-enforcement officials. Today: The lawyers, with Burl Ives and Joseph Campanella defending a mobster-turned-informer (Richard Conte). (60 mins.)

Kukla, Fran and Ollie, on 4 at 10:30. Return of this popular children's series with Burr Tillstrom and Fran Allison's Kuklapolitan players. (30 mins.)

Trouble with Tracy, on 8 at 10:30. Diane Nyland plays the title role in this old comedy series, revived for daytime television. (30 mins.)

Celebrity Dominoes, on 8 at 2:30. Debut of a new Canadian game show in which contestants compete to fill the gaps in jokes supplied by celebrity panelists. Regulars include Jaffe Aviatt, Dave Broadfoot and Billy Van. (30 mins.)

Olga, on 9 at 7. A profile of Russian gymnast Olga Korbut, filmed after her multi-medal-winning performance in the 1972 Olympics. (60 mins.)

Lucas Tanner, on 12 at 7. Repeats of last season's NBC series about the daily struggles of a young college professor, starring David Hartman in the title role. (60 mins.)

Rhoda, on 2, 6 and 7 at 8. Rhoda's (Valerie Harper) second season of married life begins with a burglary as Carlton, the never-seen and ever-drunk doorman, allows stangers into her apartment. Famed character actress Ruth Gordon makes a cameo appearance as Carlton's mother. (30 mins.)

Invisible Man, on 5 and 8 at 8. Debut of a new science-fiction series starring David McCallum as a scientist whose experiments have condemned him to be the most sought-after member of a research corporation. Guest cast in tonight's story includes Barry Sullivan and Robert Alda. (60 mins.)

Beverly Sills—A Profile in Music, on 9 at 8. A candid interview with soprano Beverly Sills, who talks about her career and her personal life with Bernard Levin of the BBC. Miss Sills also performs arias from several operas. (90 mins.)

Funnier Side of Eastern Canada, on 2 and 6 at 8:30. Montreal and Toronto form the backdrop for this comedy revue featuring magician-comic Steve Martin and writer-comedian Pat McCormick. (30 mins.)

Phyllis, on 7 at 8:30. Debut of a new comedy series featuring two-time Emmy-winner Cloris Leachman in the title role of Mary Tyler Moore's friend and landlady. The series opens with Phyllis heading for San Francisco to begin a new life after the death of her husband Lars. (30 mins.)

All in the Family, on 2, 6 and 7 at 9 p.m. The six-season opener of this popular comedy series finds Gloria (Sally Struthers) making the announcement that she is going to have a baby. (30 mins.)

Movies

The Railway Children (xxx), on 8 at 12:45. An entertaining 1970 film version of the charming children's classic about the rural escapades of three youngsters in the early 1900s.

Pharaoh's Curse (x), on 11 at 1. A low-budget 1957 archaeological thriller about Egyptian tombs and mummies.

White Lightning (xx), on 5 at 9. A 1973 theatrical release starring Burt Reynolds as a convict who goes undercover to help Treasury agents trap a gang of bootleggers.

The People (xxx, on 12 at 10. William Shatner and Kim Darby star in this 1972 made-for-TV science-fiction tale about a secluded valley whose inhabitants possess strange powers and a secret bond.

The Girl Who Came Gift-Wrapped (xx), on 12 at 11:30. A lightweight 1974 comedy about the adventures of a country girl who comes to the city in the hopes of finding a rich husband, starring Karen Valentine and Richard Long.

The Big Carnival (xxx), on 2 at midnight. An excellent performance by Kirk Douglas highlights this 1951 drama about a cynical reporter who squeezes headlines from a mine cave-in — with tragic results.

Secret Ceremony (xxx), on 6 at midnight. A disturbing 1968 psychological tale about the complex relationships between three strange people, played by Mia Farrow, Elizabeth Taylor and Robert Mitchum.

Web of Violence (x), on 8 at midnight. Routine 1966 Italian-made crime-drama with an unknown cast.

The Day the Fish Came Out (xx), on 7 at 12:30. An offbeat blend of farce, romance and nuclear crisis, directed by Michael Cacoyannis (Zorba the Greek) and starring Tom Courtenay and Candice Bergen.

Drango (xx), on 8 at 2 a.m. Routine post-Civil War western, filmed in 1957 and starring Jeff Chandler and Joanne Dru.

To Die in Paris (xx), on 7 at 2:35 a.m. A 1968 drama starring Louis Jourdan as a Second World War French underground leader who is hunted by a compatriot assassin.

Highlights and New Season Premieres

Space: 1999, on 12 at 7. Debut of a new science-fiction series reuniting the husband-and-wife acting team of Martin Landau and Barbara Bain. The series is highlighted by authentic looking sets, original costumes by designer Rudi Gernreich, and for television, spectacular special effects. (60 mins.)

Bobby Vinton Show, on 7 at 7:30. Debut of a new variety series hosted by singer Bobby Vinton. (30 min

Evening at Pops, on 9 at 7:30. Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops orchestra welcome special guest Peggy Lee. (This is the last show of the series; next week The Romantic Rebellion repeats in this time slot). (60 mins.)

Carol Burnett Show, on 2 and 6 at 8. For her ninth season opener, Carol welcomes her traditional opening night guest Jim Nabors; and also Tim Conway, who this year becomes a regular along with Harvey Korman, Vicki Lawrence and the Ernest Flatt Dancers (60 mins.)

Barney Miller, on 4 at 8. Return for a second season is this comedy series starring Hal Linden as the long-suffering captain of a New York City police station. William Windom is the guest in tonight's story. (30 mins.)

The Waltons, on 8 and 12 at 8. The fourth season opener of this Emmy-winning series features John-Boy (Richard Thomas) facing an unusual challenge. He is asked to preach a sermon while the local minister is away, a prospect that is filling him with feelings of inadequacy. (60 mins.)

On the Rocks, on 4 at 8:30. Debut of a new comedy series about a group of eccentric inmates at a minimum-security prison. (30 mins.)

Streets of San Francisco, on 8 at 8:30, and 4 at 9. Karl Malden and Michael Douglas begin their fourth season as San Francisco police detectives with a case that deals with a pair of romantically involved narcotics agents. After she is killed by a heroin addict, he becomes obsessed with avenging her death. (60 mins.)

BARBARA BAIN
. . . on 12 at 7 p.m.

Dave Broadfoot, on 2 at 9. A television version of CBC Radio's The Royal Canadian Air Farce, featuring the hijinks, comedy and satire of Canadian comic Dave Broadfoot and his assorted crew. This comedy special is an unsold pilot which failed to make CBC's schedule this season. (30 mins.)

Ellery Queen, on 5 at 9. Debut of a new mystery series starring Jim Hutton as the 1940s criminologist and author. Tonight's case involves a wealthy man murdered in a posh ballroom, and features a cameo appearance by Guy Lombardo as a bandleader. (60 mins.)

Hollywood Television Theatre, on 9 at 9. A repeat telecast of Nourish the Beast, a satire on American family life centering on a bizarre household headed by a woman on her fourth marriage. Cast includes Eileen Brennan, John Randolph and Pamela Bellwood. (90 mins.)

Man About the House, on 12 at 9. Return of the British comedy series about two young women who decide to share their flat with a male student. (30 mins.)

Diefenbaker: The Legal Years, on 8 at 9:30. A three-part series profiling former Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker. (30 mins.)

Harry O, on 4 and 8 at 10. David Jansen as private eye Harry Orwell begins his second season by trying to clear police lieutenant Trench (series regular Anthony Zerbe) of a murder frame. (60 mins.)

Medical Story, on 5 at 10. The second episode of a new medical anthology series stars Juliet Mills as a nurse who defends an elderly patient's right to die with dignity. The terminally ill woman, played by character actress Ruth Gordon, is being pressured into an operation that she does not want. (60 mins.)

Some of My Best Friends Are Men, on 2 at 10:30. Debut of a new magazine series which examines many of the issues affecting contemporary women. Maxine Samuels hosts the program which tonight looks at the reasons why some women desert their husbands and children. (30 mins.)

Dreamer That Remains, on 9 at 11. A profile of the late Harry Partch, an avant-garde musicologist who invented his own instruments on which to play his original music. (30 mins.)

Movies

The Looking Glass War (xx), on 8 at 12:45. A 1970 English-made film rendering of John LeCarre's novel about a reluctant British spy sent to locate a suspected Russian missile site, starring Christopher Jones and Pia Degermark.

Only the Valiant (xx), on 11 at 1. Gregory Peck stars in this grim and violent 1951 western about Apaches on the warpath against a cavalry troop whose commanding officer is hated by both his men and the Indians.

The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come (xx), on 5 at 3:30 A slow-moving, but charming 1961 story about a youngster growing up in early Civil War America, starring Jimmie Rodgers and George Kennedy.

Vera Cruz (xx), on 6 at 9. Standard 1954 western adventure about an outlaw who joins an ex-Civil War officer to escort a shipment of gold across the desert, starring Burt Lancaster and Gary Cooper.

Cahill, United States Marshall, on 7 at 9. No rating available on this 1973 western starring John Wayne in the title role.

The Joker Is Wild (xxx), on 11 at 9. Frank Sinatra and Mitzi Gaynor star in this semi-factual 1957 account of the life and career of night-club comedian Joe E. Lewis. Sinatra sings the Oscar-winning All the Way.

Viva Max! (xxx), on 12 at 9:30. Peter Ustinov heads a fine comedy cast in this 1970 satire about a Mexican general leading a present-day reoccupation of the Alamo.

Color of Blood, on 4 at 11:30. No rating available on this TV mystery about murder aboard a passenger train.

Kansas City Bomber (xx), on 12 at 11:30. Raquel Welch stars, and did most of the rough-and-tumble action without a double, in this 1972 drama about a roller derby queen.

Burn Witch Burn (xxx), on 2 at midnight. A well-acted 1962 English-made thriller about a professor's wife who uses witchcraft to further her husband's career, starring Janet Blair and Peter Wyngarde.

My Sister Eileen (xx), on 6 at midnight. A routine 1955 musical about two country girls seeking a career in New York, starring Janet Leigh, Betty Garrett and Jack Lemmon.

The Hell with Heroes (x), on 8 at midnight. Rod Taylor and Harry Guardino star in this low-budget 1968 adventure about smugglers operating in post-Second World War Algeria.

The Princess and the Pirate (x), on 7 at 12:30. A 1944 Bob Hope comedy.

The Fugitive Kind (xxx), on 8 at 2:10 a.m. A powerhouse cast (Marlon Brando, Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward) star in this 1960 film rendering of a Tennessee Williams play about a drifter who becomes involved with an invalid's wife.

San Francisco International Airport (xx), on 6 at 2:15 a.m. A 1970 pilot for a defunct TV series.

Lust for Gold (xxx), on 7 at 2:20 a.m. An excellent 1949 drama about three greedy people on a destructive search for gold, starring Glenn Ford, Ida Lupino and Gig Young.

Thursday Night Returns Some Familiar Faces

The Waltons on Channels 7 and 12 at 8 p.m.

Carol Burnett on 2 and 6 at 8 p.m.

Highlights and New Season Premieres

Rockford Files, on 6 at 7. James Garner as ex-con turned private detective Jim Rockford, returns for a second season of adventures. Tonight's case involves an old school chum who wants to sign his multi-million-dollar business over to Rockford to protect it from mobsters. (60 mins.)

Firing Line, on 9 at 7. Host William F. Buckley's guest tonight is U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. (60 mins.)

Celebrity Dominoes, on 8 at 7:30. Debut of a new Canadian game show in which contestants compete to fill in the gaps in jokes supplied by celebrity panelists. This nighttime edition (another version is shown during the day) features guests Fannie Flagg and Stanley Myron Handelman. Regular panel includes Dave Broadfoot and Julie Amato. (30 mins.)

M-A-S-H, on 2, 6 and 7 at 8. The fourth season opens with an hour-long episode that finds Hawkeye (Alan Alda) rushing frantically to say goodbye to the already departed Trapper John. Mike Farrell plays Trapper's replacement, and Henry Morgan takes over where McLean Stevenson left off. (60 mins.)

Mobile One, on 4 at 8. Debut of a new drama series starring Jackie Cooper as a mobile television reporter, with tonight's episode finding him facing jail for refusing to reveal a news source. John Carradine appears in the guest cast. (60 mins.)

Columbo, on 8 at 8. Columbo (Peter Falk) opens his fifth season with a case focusing on an aging song-and-dance star (Janet Leigh) suspected of killing her wealthy husband, in order to finance a Broadway comeback. Others in an excellent guest cast include John Payne and Sam Jaffe. (2 hrs.)

Cher, on 8 at 8. Cher's second season opener features Bill Cosby, The Smothers Brothers and the Muppets. (60 mins.)

Chico and the Man, on 5 at 8:30. Debut for a second season of the comedy series about a pair of unlikely business partners, played by Freddie Prinze and Jack Albertson. (30 mins.)

PETER FALK
. . . on 8 at 8 p.m.

Mary Tyler Moore, on 2 and 6 at 9. In tonight's sixth season opener, Lou Grant (Edward Asner) hears wedding bells, but they're not for him—his ex-wife Edie is getting married again, and Lou is not happy at the prospect of her living with someone else. (30 mins.)

Rockford Files, on 5 at 9. (See earlier this evening for details of this second season opener.) (60 mins.)

Hawaii Five-O, on 7 at 9. A two-hour episode launches this series' eighth season, with Jack Lord as McGarrett and James MacArthur as Danny. Tonight's story returns Khigh Dhiegh in the recuring role of McGarrett's criminal nemesis Wo Fat. (2 hrs.)

Evening of Championship Skating, on 9 at 9:15. An annual charity event featuring many of the top Canadian and American skaters in performance, including Toller Cranston and John Misha Petkevich. (60 mins.)

Police Woman, on 5 at 10. Angie Dickinson as police woman Pepper Anderson opens a second season with an investigation of an illegal gambling operation. Guest cast includes Robert Goulet and Roddy McDowall. (60 mins.)

Family Holvak, on 6 at 10. Debut of a new drama series starring Glenn Ford as a minister in a small Southern town struggling to feed his family and maintain the faith of his congregation during the Depression. (60 mins.)

Switch, on 8 at 10. A new crime-drama series starring Robert Wagner and Eddie Albert as an ex-con and a former cop who combine their talents and experience and become a pair of unorthodox private eyes. (60 mins.)

Man Who's Givin 'Em Hell, on 9 at 10:30. An interview with actor James Whitmore who talks about his hit one-man show in which he portrays the late Harry S. Truman. (30 mins.)

Wide World Special, on 4 at 11:30. Host Geraldo Rivera looks at low-budget films that have high audience appeal, including clips from I Was a Teenage Werewolf, Beach Party and adaptations of Edgar Allan Poe stories starring Vincent Price. (90 mins.)
